ELIZABETHVILLE, Congo (AN-P)—An Ethiopian soldier serving with the Un forces in the Congo, was blissfully dancing with a beautiful woman recently, when his partner all of a sudden had an accident. One of her falseies dropped to the floor. The soldier, somewhat embarrassed, stopped to pick up the article for his equally chagrined partner. As he did so, the other falseie plopped to the floor. Suddenly suspicious of the woman, the soldier had her arrested. Lo and behold, the beautiful woman turned out to be a man, later identified plan soldier no longer blushed with shame, but rather with pride that he had turned in his erstwhile dancing partner.

This is my program... to keep North Carolina Growing

EDUCATION... Smaller class size in public schools for better teaching. Free our schools from book fees and other charges. Make certain conditions for teachers to provide more teaching time. Make teachers' salaries competitive with the national average. "I believe that education must be the first priority of every Governor, not just one every sixty years."

ROADS... A new 300 million dollar bond issue, without new taxes. Fair treatment to all counties in road improvement.

LIBERTY CONTROL ACT... Sweeping reforms against lobbyists... A new Control Act to put teeth in our lobby laws—requiring registration, detailed statements of expenses, strict enforcement and legislation.

ECONOMY IN GOVERNMENT... No new taxes. A six-point economy-in-government plan which could save from 10 million to 20 million dollars in the next budget, including:

1. Save 5 million dollars by taking a "hard look" at every state job that goes unfilled for six months, to eliminate unneeded positions.
2. Stop overexpending on state road equipment.
3. Impartial, businessmen's committee to review state government operation.
4. Perpetual inventory of all desks, typewriters, and other state property. "I believe that the only way to save money is to stop spending some."

AGRICULTURE... to lift farm incomes. New Tobacco Research Facility. Fewer more farm-to-market roads. Full price supports for tobacco farmers. Increased food science research to attract more processors and canneries. Grow more food for our own people to close the "food-gap"... the annual billion dollar cash loss to other states.

INDUSTRY... 180,000 new jobs with training checks. Massive state-local program for new and expanded industries. Expand Industrial Education Centers to provide people with skills for new industries and better paying jobs. Support for the Right-to-Work law. Rewarding education wage to $1.50, keeping present exemptions including farm occupations.

POVERTY... A solid program to lift North Carolina out of a cycle of poverty into a cycle of hope. It includes: Launching an assault on adult illiteracy through television and after-hours use of school buildings. Vocational Training in high schools for better job opportunities.

North Carolina is a great state, but we can be greater. That means a greater concern for older people with mounting medical bills for our natural resources and wildlife for the wealthy. It means the end of the handicapped. I believe that in man relations on should continue the North Carolina tradition of good will and law and order on the part of all. After talking with people in every county, I know that we can keep North Carolina growing. I ask for your help.

headed the founding of the new famous Montgomery Bus Boycott several years ago, was the Woman's Day speaker at the Pleasant Grove Baptist Church, Wendell, on Sunday, May 10, at 2:30 p. m. The Rev. Arthur Parker is minister of the church.

The program began with an organ prelude, followed by a musical selection and the responsive Prayer was offered by Mrs. Hattie Bobbitt.

Mrs. M. Scarborough acknowledged the visitors and announcements were made by Mrs. Handy Yates. Mrs. Ruth H. Morgan introduced the speaker, after which a beautiful solo was rendered by Mrs. W. M. Crews.

Then Mrs. Parks delivered a wonderful Woman's Day address. In recalling her past experiences, the speaker said: "Drivers (of Montgomery's city buses) expected Negroes to pay in the front, walk around on the outside and board the buses at the rear. This I would not do. Sometimes the drivers passed me up."

"Then came this evening I was coming home from the department store where I altered men's clothing. I was among the Negroes sitting ahead of the sectioned partitioned off for Negroes. When more passengers boarded at the front, I was ordered to give up my seat. This I refused to do. "The driver, who had stopped the bus, called the police and had me put in jail."

The distinguished speaker stated she was fingerprinted, photographed and forced to fill out a card about herself before she was permitted to use the telephone to call her home.

After being released on bond, she was later found guilty of violating the segregation laws on transportation and fined $10 and court costs.

The case was appealed and, she believes, in some way, later settled by her lawyers.

Homes of two protest leaders, Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr., and E. D. Nixon, were bombed in the storm of protest that followed.

The Negroes began finding other means of transportation. The policy of the bus company was changed and complete seating integration resulted.

Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr., world famous civil rights leader, is now president of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference as a result of leading the non-violent protest, resulting from Mrs. Parks' arrest.

Music for the Woman's Day service was furnished by the Female Chorus, with Mrs. E. Bobbitt as organist.

The Woman's Day committee consisted of the following officers: Mrs. Ruth H. Morgan, general chairman; Miss Helen Lewis, program chairman; Mesdames O. M. Webb, publicity chairman; Christine Thorpe, decorating chairman; and Alease Davis, finance chairman. All officers and teachers for the day were women of the church.
