

"BALANCED" ENGINEER—Winner Alexander right of Columbia, N. C., who last week graduated summa cum laude in electrical engineering at A&T College, receives the Hamilton Watch Award which he won for outstanding academic achievement. The award, given to the top ranking graduate in engineering who also excelled in the humanities, is presented by J. M. Marteen, dean of the A&T School of Engineering.

Yes, We All Talk

CONCRETE SUPPORT

QUESTION: How can a speaker make his remarks concrete and practical?—Mrs. J. L.

ANSWER: General statements or ideas should be supported with words, examples, illustrations, etc. The human mind can follow concrete examples more easily than abstractions. Explain what you mean with examples. Use stories. Retell real incidents. Cite newspaper reports. The speaker can interest the most apathetic audience with the presentation of even one strong illustration, vividly told.

DELIVERY
A speaker should look at his audience. We call this eye contact or visual directness. Talk to all of your audience, but do not be afraid to pause frequently and look at some one person directly in the eyes. You will thus gain informa-

Wake Memorial Activities

VOLUNTEERS NEEDED

Auxiliaries are badly needed at the cash register in the Ingleside Room on Tuesday 9-2, Wednesday 9-5, and Friday 9-2. This is an urgent matter: the Ingleside Room simply cannot function without adequate help at the cash register.

Temporary assistance is needed at the desk on June 8th, 9-3 and on June 5th 9-3. Mr. Andrews has stressed the importance of having someone at the desk at all times: this is why it is important for all of the desk volunteers to come regularly—even though there will often be a hospital employee at the desk as well.

The Auxiliary is fortunate to have the services of a new business manager, Mrs. Ann Mason.

The Wake County Board of Health will host the new health director and his wife, Dr. and Mrs. Bethel, at a reception here at the hospital on Sunday, June 21st from 4-8 p.m. Mr. Andrews has asked for approximately eight volunteers to serve as hostesses on that occasion: to help guests with name tags and to direct people to the cafeteria. If you can help, sign on a sheet in the Auxiliary office.

The next Board meeting will be on June 23rd. There will be no Board meeting in July.

There will be a meeting of the N. C. Hospital Association from June 10-12 at the Jack Tar Hotel in Durham. We have recently become a member of this group. Three delegates from our Auxiliary will attend the June 11th session.

The Summer Candystriper Program begins June 8th under the direction of Betty Taylor. Orientation sessions have already been completed. There will be fifty pink and white striped assistants in the hospital; we're looking forward to having them.

The sewing committee is outdoing itself. One hundred and forty-four puppets have been finished and a new batch is ready to be started. The sewers have completed 681 articles of various kinds—from sandbags to doctors' vests. Mr. Dalton is planning a display board showing the variety of articles made by the group. Won't anyone else come and join the sewing group? Mrs. Middleton is in charge.

Some new members have joined. A welcome to the following: Mrs. H. Rand (Luda), A-1 Washington Terrace; Mrs. M. H. Haywood, (Oma), Box 104A, Rt. 6; and Mrs. Edith May, 1401 E. Jones St.

tion as to how your listeners are reacting to what you say. It improves the speaker's audience contact.

Political speakers should never become angry with their audiences. No matter how provoked the speaker becomes, he should never show it. The speaker's task is to persuade rather than to make angry.

TO SHARE $1,000 SCHOLARSHIP—Miss Sandra V. Sanders, right and Miss Carolyn M. Judkins, center, will share in a $1,000 Pepsi-Cola Scholarship sponsored by Mr. Tom Gaddy, Manager of the Pepsi-Cola Bottling Company, Raleigh. The recipients were chosen on the basis of their performance on an examination administered by Wiley M. Davis, left, Dean of students at Saint Augustine's College. Miss Sanders made the highest score while Miss Judkins was runner-up. Both young ladies are 1964 graduates of the John W. Ligon High School of this city.

Director Of State's Higher Education Board Heard By Livingstone's Grads

SALISBURY—The graduates of Livingstone College received a challenge from Dr. William C. Archie, director of the North Carolina State Board of Higher Education Tuesday of last week when he told them that their education would be determined by the amount of service they gave beyond that which they would receive compensation for.

He told them that volunteer service was the crowning peak of education. He had the following to say: "Thus, although I hope to leave some measure of new insight with you, the very effort of shaping my thoughts for these few minutes leaves me in your debt.

"The ideas I wish to discuss have been on my mind—and very probably on yours—for a long time. They concern what I like to call "The Voluntary Spirit"—that dynamic plus that always goes into the making of great causes, great institutions and great men.

"In a very real sense, this spirit is a part of our American way of life. That penetrating observer of DEMOCRACY IN AMERICA, Alexis de Tocqueville, commented more than a century ago on the "peculiar American habit of forming voluntary committees to get things done. As an aristocrat, born in the empire of Napoleon I, he expressed mild astonishment that this strange custom apparently worked. In fact, it is only in a pluralistic society such as ours that this spirit can operate widely.

"In a large sense, the VOLUNTARY SPIRIT is inherent in the heritage of all free men and societies. The supreme example, of course, is Christianity—the "good news" of freedom on which our Nation and all that we hold worthwhile in it were built.

"Your own college is an example, in fact. All of you know, of course, that American higher education was born of the Church; some of you may not know that our system of public education sprang from the same source—when the Massachusetts Colony passed its famous "Old Deluder Satan" law, establishing the first common school to make American children free, through enlightenment.

"You are aware, I feel sure, of your own debt to this fine Christian institution—of the special influences in your college experience that have given you NOT JUST SKILLS TO MAKE A LIVING, BUT GOALS TO BUILD A LIFE. I hope you are also aware and will always remember that we have a tremendous PUBLIC debt to our church-related colleges. They are indeed indispensable—perhaps more so than ever—to our corporate vitality. Since nearly half North Carolina's college students (some 45 per cent) are enrolled in church-related or private institutions, our State cannot reach its full potential unless we continue to support colleges such as yours; their alumni and other citizens must continue to strengthen them so that they in turn can continue to train men and women to work and live effectively—both on and off the job—by creative exercise of the "Voluntary Spirit."

Fifty-five men women received Bachelor of Arts degrees; Forty-seven were awarded the Bachelor of Science degree. There were three ministers who received the Bachelor of Divinity degree from Hood Theological Seminary. Attorney Ruth Whitehead Whaley, secretary, and Dr. Estlin M. New York City, and Rev. William M. Poe, presiding elder, Cleveland and Cincinnati Columbus Districts, Ohio Annual Conference, received Doctor of Laws and Doctor of Divinity degrees, respectively.

The Alumni Association met in annual session and elected W. Mance Gilliam as president. It also redoubled its efforts to build a new stadium. More than $50,000 was paid and pledged for the project. Class reunions were held by classes beginning with the "Class of '98 to '60." The class of '64" was inducted by Rev. J. H. Miller, Winston-Salem.

The classes of years ending in ones and fives will hold their reunions next year. The class of '25" has already begun to make plans. Alexander Barnes assured President Gilliam that the class would be well represented and that its members would be on hand to give a good account of themselves.

PROUD MOTHER AT COMMENCEMENT—Dr. Irene D. Jackson, right, chairman of the North Carolina College Department of Romance Languages, is shown with two of her children who graduated from Durham institutions this week. Left, Maynard, Jr., received the Bachelor of Law degree from NCC Sunday. Constance, center, is dressed for baccalaureate services at Hillside High School, from which she was graduated with honors Tues. Maynard will return to his native home, Atlanta, Ga., where he has been appointed an attorney in the office of the National Labor Relations Board. Constance has been admitted as a scholarship student to Duke University, Durham.

(Items this week from Mecklenburg, Rowan and Edgecombe Counties).

FAMILY LIFE SEMINAR

The third annual family life seminar will be held in Mecklenburg County June 9-10. Mrs. Mary Martin, home economics agent, says the theme for the conference will be "Family Planning—Is It Necessary?"

Dr. Herbert Spaugh will speak on Tuesday evening. On Wednesday night panel members will discuss family planning, goals and values, and family cooperation. Group discussions will follow, each session.

COMMUNITY BUILDING PLANNED

The Rockwell-Goldhill community development organization held a ground breaking ceremony for the erection of a community building. This is a goal they have worked on since 1959 when they organized their community members.

Mrs. Louise Slade, home economics agent, says the community is comprised of 18 families in Rowan County. They have been using a one-room house for their meetings but are starting to work on their new building.

4-H ACTIVITIES

The 4-H Club members and leaders in Edgecombe County have just completed a three month drive to raise funds for a 4-H activity bus and the 4-H Foundation.

According to Miss Hazel Parker, home economics agent, they had a three hour "radiothon" which 4-H'ers participated on. Miss Parker says they took this opportunity to let people in the county know what 4-H'ers are accomplishing in their program.
