

BURL ALLEN'S Ink TONGUE

While we commend and respect Mayor Reid and all people who sincerely propose, exert or support efforts for better race relations, we think it very unlikely that Mayor Reid's program will yield much early fruit here.

Just look around: Raleigh, the state's capital and its should-be leader in race relations, ranks sixth or seventh in this urgent endeavor. We note—with fervent interest—that Winston-Salem, Charlotte, Greensboro, and Durham, four of Raleigh's leaders in the cause, are highly industrialized cities with higher ratios of Negro population than has Raleigh.

Raleigh on the other hand, is a deeply cultural city, one of many colleges; one that—with all her universal intellect, and with all her governmental dignities—needs desperately to perceive a particular vital fact: that culture can flourish even in poverty, and, therefore, does not necessarily depend or inspire social prosperity!

What about communism? It is obvious that, social prosperity cannot exist without economic prosperity, and that's a matter of enough good brains to govern society and enough good brains to support it.

Raleigh has not only too great a need for gainful employment, but also a worst disease: too much employment that is not gainful enough!

This town is restless not because of who is here, but because of what is not here—enough good, gainful employment!

The rich shall know no ease here while the poor remain so desperate, and the poor—Negroes and Caucasians—compose two general categories. Some of both are too nervous to demand and seek a real solution, and the others are too nery to keep a pauper's peace!

The whites feel that their already slim opportunities are threatened by Negroes, who are determined to have a fair share of whatever good is available.

MINISTERS AND MISSIONARIES ATTEND CONFERENCE AT SHAW UNIVERSITY — These are the ministers and missionaries who attended the Twenty-eighth Annual Session of the Ministers' Institute and the Twenty-seventh Annual meeting of the Woman's Leadership Training Conference held on Shaw University's Campus June 8 - 12. The theme was "Faith and Responsibility: The Root and Fruit of Christian Living."

Sociology Dept. At St. Aug. Apprc ed For Coveted Honor

The Department of Sociology of Saint Augustine's College has been approved for membership in the Council of Social Work Education, according to a recent announcement by Dr. James A. Boyer, president of the College.

Membership means that a social welfare concentration introductory to professional social work has been approved by the Council on Social Work Education.

The new Social Welfare Curriculum which will begin in September, 1964 has been geared to a broad gamut of services related to the prevention of social ills, and the strengthening of the capacity of students to use their potentialities productively.

The four-year curriculum will include resources in education, health, economics and social services rendered through a variety of professional disciplines, and will prepare students for entrance to schools of social work as well as for pre-professional social work vocational opportunities.

This curriculum will be administered by the Department of Sociology and Social Welfare under the direction of Dr. W. Anthony Gaines, Chairman.

LOCAL JEWELER SHOT, ROBBED BY YOUNG GUNMAN
When Mrs. Davidson heard the pistol shots, she ran to the back door and turned on the lights.

After Davidson got into the house, he learned the extent of his injuries. He had been shot in the right foot, the bullet going through it, and in the right leg, about halfway to his knee cap, but the second bullet did not go completely through.

Davidson was treated at Wake Memorial Hospital for his injuries and is now back at his business establishment in the 100 block of E. Hargett Street.

The bullet was found on the ground which went through his foot and physicians at the hospital removed the other from his leg.

Fingerprints were taken by the City-County Identification Bureau.

Anderson commended the North Carolina teenagers on their low crime record. He stated that the teenager is not a menace to driving and does not drink while driving as the adults, but they like to speed.

Basil Sherrill will speak Wednesday, June 17, at 8:30 a.m. on the function of County Government, and at 10:45 the young people will hear J. C. Hubbard on Agricultural Responsibilities of City, County, State and Federal Governments.

The public is invited.

MISS TUCKER IS "SWEETHEART" OF HOSPITAL SET
Miss Tucker is now essentially a nursing home patient. She is now over the acute stage of her condition. She has no relatives that I know of, and we would welcome suggestions of nursing homes as to her placement."

Miss Tucker has been coming to Raleigh over 30 years to pay her electric bill.

The employees of Carolina Power and Light Company after discovering she did not know her birth date, but knew how old she was, adopted December 24 as her birth date in 1932. The idea stuck and each year on Christmas Eve, she is the guest of honor at CP&L for a gala birthday celebration.

She said she is a native of Greenville, in Pitt County, was born out of slavery as were her parents, the late Mrs. Laura Ricks Tucker, and Mr. Rendle Tucker.

As it now stands, her hospital bill is being paid by the County Welfare Department as will her nursing home fee, once she is situated.

85-YEAR TERM ON NUMBERS CHARGE N. C. PASTOR
mail and fraud by wire. He was charged with concealing and carrying on an elaborate scheme to defraud and obtain money or property from 17 complainants through the mail and by wire. He was further accused of carrying on the scheme from about Jan. 1, 1961 to March 15, 1964.

Following his indictment, Rev. Lofton son of a well-known Detroit minister and himself pastor of a local church, was given the option of voluntarily appearing for arraignment or face arrest.

Rev. Lofton's scheme allegedly utilized his possessions as a minister to dole out information on winning numbers to people whom he had solicited through the mail or over the telephone.

U. S. Ass. Atty. Barton W. Morris, who presented the bill of particulars against Rev. Lofton, said the indictment climaxed a year of extensive investigation by postal inspectors.

The indictment charged that Rev. Lofton made telephone calls and wrote letters falsely implying that he possessed a "special knowledge and power" to furnish a winning number for the numbers game.

Lofton was also said to have deliberately given the impression, through his false and misleading promises, solicitations, and communications, that he had a "special power" that would result in deliverance from financial need "for those who contacted him."

The bill further charged that the minister "made or caused to be made" long distance phone calls to persons who had sent him money and had furnished their telephone numbers. It was alleged that in those calls he furnished information which took the form of a winning number for a given

RETIRE AFTER 40 YEARS — Dr. James A. Boyer, president of Saint Augustine's College, presented Mrs. Julia B. Delany a citation upon her retirement after 40 years of continuous service to the College. The Delany family has been connected with the institution since the first stage of its development. Mrs. Delany, widow of the late Dr. L. T. Delany, was a professor of English at the college.

Jameson-Davis Vows Spoken In Rocky Mt.

BY J. B. HARRIS

ROCKY MOUNT—The St. James Baptist Church here was the setting for the lovely wedding recently of Miss Ella Claudette Davis to Marine Corps Corporal Carl Vespilus Jameson with the Rev. William Lockett Mason, minister of St. James Baptist, conducting the rites.

The bride's sister, Miss Marian Davis, who wore a pink sheath dress, Peau de Soie. The fitted bodice featured a scoop neckline and below-the-elbow sleeves. Also the control floor-length overskirt with the intermission front and self rose.

The bride's outfit consisted of a formal gown of silk organza over bouquet taffeta. The fitted bodice featured a sweetheart neckline enhanced with chintilly lace motifs studded with pearls and cord embroidery. The long sleeves ended in bridal points. The sheath skirt with intermission front was topped with bouffant overskirt with lace motifs and full back that flowed gracefully into a chapel train. Her finger-tip veil of imported silk illusion was attached to a crown of pearlized orange blossoms and pearl peps. Ralph Dubois was best man.

The bride was given in marriage by her father, Mr. Elbert Davis.

The ushers were Jerry Black, Gleno Horne, Richard Stout and Jude Wright.

CPL. AND MRS. JAMESON

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Elbert Davis of 607 Woodland Avenue, Rocky Mount, and is a teacher in the Warren County public school system. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Allen Clarke of Brooklyn, N. Y., and is currently with the Marines and stationed at Camp Lejeune near Jacksonville, N. C.

Following the wedding, a reception was held in the Armstrong Home's Recreation Room where friends greeted the happy couple and presented gifts.

Mrs. Jameson was attended by seven bridesmaids who wore identical dresses of cotton blue and maize. They were: Misses Rosolyn Cox, Beverly Hall, Evelyn Hall, Ruby Horne, Doris Parker, Ruby Pinchback and Marie Warren.

The maid-of-honor was the day.

It was also said that he broadcast over radio stations in Detroit, Flint and Ferndale, Mich., and in Cincinnati, urging listeners to attend services where they would be given a "financial blessing."

Those responding to his exhortations over the radio or in the letters it was further charged, would go to designated places, line up, and pay from $1 to $15 for "a divine revelation, which was a number in various forms." He reportedly used Psalm and verses from the Bible, straight numbers and dream book symbols to convey information on winning numbers to his clients.

Each count of fraud by mail carries a penalty of $1,000 fine or five years imprisonment or both.

Homemaker's Week To Boost New Look

Homemakers all over the state are looking forward to the classes that will be taught during Homemaker's Week in Raleigh this year.

Miss Nell Kennett, state home economics leader for the Agricultural Extension Service at N. C. State, says that during the week, homemakers will receive in-depth training in one particular area. Miss Kennett says the delegates will attend three sessions of a selected class in the same subject matter area.

Homemaker's Week will be held on the N. C. State campus July 7-10. All homemakers—whether members of home demonstration clubs, community development clubs, garden clubs, 4-H adult clubs or members of other organizations—are invited to attend the two days of classes. The classes will be conducted on July 9-10.

On Tuesday night, the Raleigh Little Theatre will present a one act play in the College Union ballroom. The annual meeting of the North Carolina Organization of Home Demonstration Clubs will be held on Wednesday morning, July 8. This will be followed by tours to the Governor's Mansion, State House, Hall of History and the Art Museum.

Two of the speakers during the morning assemblies will be Dr. Ann Scott of Duke University who will speak on the "Status of Woman" and Dr. John T. Caldwell, chancellor of N. C. State of the University of N. C. at Raleigh.

There will be eight classes conducted during the week. If you are interested in discovering how and why you choose the foods you eat, you should attend the classes on "Food—Fate or Fact."

Regardless of age or income a woman can be well-dressed, says Miss Mary Em Lee, clothing specialist. She says it is all in knowing how to buy, coordinate and fit your fashion apparel. Her class will be entitled "Well Dressed at Small Cost."

Furniture designs of past, present, and future are found in the "House of Good Taste" by the present day homemakers.
