READING CLINIC CONDUCTED
ROCKY MOUNT—The Susie C. Beakerville Elementary School has completed what principal C. T. Edwards terms its most successful Summer Reading Enrichment Program running for a thirty-day period with 7 pupils enrolled under the tutelage of a staff of three regular teachers—Mesdames Juanita Burnett, director; Jessie E. Pash and Mary P. Wells.

The faculty, parents and students have expressed sincere gratitude to the Rocky Mount-Tarboro-Wilson chapter of LINKS, INC. for its continuous support of the program of remedial reading for four years, says Mrs. Burnett. Each year the chapter sponsors ten children as a part of its national project. Other pupils are sponsored by their families, friends or other interested organizations.

The Rev. Gordon Irvine, minister, Seventh Presbyterian Church, Chicago, Ill., (white) accompanied by Mrs. Irvine, was guest speaker at Mt. Pisgah United Presbyterian Church Sunday following the completion of the Elm City First U. P. Church painting and Bible school program, where the couple had visited earlier in the week.

The Irvines were visiting the minister's parents in Raleigh and gladly consented to make a contribution of service to the Elm City effort which gained wide attention due to the Ku Klux Klan threat against two integrated groups who worked on the project. The second group of adults completed the task under protection of the North Carolina Highway Patrolmen in cars and an airplane.

DEAR SALLY

BY SALLY SHAW
DEAR SALLY: I'm a widow of 42, with two married daughters. About a year ago I met a very nice man who told me he was 39. We've been going together regularly, and now he tells me that he's deeply in love with me and wants to marry me. I'm very fond of him, too, and have enjoyed his company very much during this past year. The thing is that all the time we've been going together I've had a certain intuitive feeling that I was much older and more mature in my thinking and ways than he, despite my being only three years older than he. A few days ago, my intuitions bore me out. I met a girl who had gone to school with this man, and was almost floored when she told me that he is 29 years old, and not 39. When I confronted him with this information, he admitted that he had faked 10 years on to his age in order to improve his chances with me, but that he still thinks that the age-difference is no barrier to "true love." I'm dubious about this. I think that 13 years might not be too great a difference when it's on the man's side, but when the woman is 13 years older, it's much too much. Do you agree with me? V. I. M.

DEAR V. I. M.: I agree with you.
DEAR SALLY: I'm a girl of 18, and work as a waitress. A girl friend of mine is always borrowing small amounts of money from me, and then forgetting all about paying me back. This has been going on for a long time, and those "small amounts" have added up to quite a big lump of money by now—at least $50 or more. I don't like the idea of bringing this up to her, because in every other way she's a very nice person and I like her a lot. Do you have any advice for me? D. D.

DEAR D. D.: "Very nice" person is not forgetful about money they borrow. You've been very foolish to put up with these one-way financial transactions. The next time she attempts to put the blame on you, remind her of the big unpaid debt and tell her frankly that you're "out of business" from now on as a money lending agency.
DEAR SALLY: I'm a girl of 19, and will be a sophomore in college next fall. During my freshman year I went regularly with a certain boy and wore his fraternity pin. Our romance ended with the end of the school year, and now I'm going with another boy and my former boy friend is going with another girl. What especially bothers me now is the fact that I've lost his fraternity pin, and I've been on pins and needles for fear that he will be asking me to return it. It's been almost two months since we last dated, but all the same I keep wondering what'll do if he does inquire about his pin. UNPINNED.

DEAR UNPINNED: The only thing you can do is admit that you lost the pin, and offer to reimburse him for it.
DEAR SALLY: I have a very good friend, an extremely beautiful girl who could have lots of dates with worthwhile fellows—but instead she is infatuated with a married man who is feeding her with all sorts of stories about how he and his wife have never gotten along and that a divorce is in the offing, and that as soon as this goes through he wants to marry my friend. However, I happen to know that this man is a downright philanderer and has been carrying on with other women for years. I'm sure that my friend is headed for a big case of broken heart. I haven't said anything to her yet, because she's so obviously in love with this no-good cad, but I feel

APEX

BY MRS. LOUISE COLVIN
APEX—Sunday School attendance at First Baptist was good for such a gloomy morning. The pupils and a large number of adults are still excited about the picnic. We will be leaving Saturday morning for Burlington Park.
Delegates representing First Baptist at the Sunday School Convention, which was held at Mt. Vernon Baptist Church in Durham were: Mrs. Mattie Marrow and Miss Floya Cotten, who made very good reports to our Sunday School on the activities there.
The Superintendent, Mr. A. B. MRS. COLVIN, was very well-pleased at the interest the delegates took in bringing back very good information from the Sunday School which will benefit.
The Young Adult and Junior Choirs rendered the music for the 11 o'clock worship service. They looked wonderful in their robes of white and blue as they marched to their designated places to sing.
Mrs. Lillian Bigelow, is director of the Junior Choir and Mrs. Ruth Hunter is director of the Young Adult Choir. Rev. W. M. Phillips, our associate pastor, conducted the devotion.
Our pastor, the Rev. W. T. Bigelow, brought to us a most interesting sermon. His text was taken from 2nd Timothy, 2nd chapter, 20-21 verses, subject: "Meet for the Master's use." It was very good food for thought.
First Baptist to Greensboro
Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock, the Rev. W. T. Bigelow, the Male Chorus and the Usher Board and members of First Baptist, motored to Greensboro to the New Light Baptist Church to render service for the New Light Usher Board which was celebrating its 41st anniversary. Many other usher boards in that vicinity were present.
The message delivered there by the Rev. W. T. Bigelow was very fitting for the occasion. His text was taken from 2nd Peter, 3:17-18 verses. Subject was "Growing in grace." It was a highly spiritual service. Rev. W. M. Phillips also accompanied the group there.
Miss Sadye Harris of Philadelphia, Pa. spent a week with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Harris, and her sister and family, Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Farrar. After leaving here, Miss Harris visited friends in Montreal, Canada. Mrs. Florence Ray and son, also of Philadelphia, Pa. and the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Harris, visited them for a week, also the Farrars. She also visited friends in Mass.

BABY CONTEST WILL COME TO AN END
The Progressive Club of First Baptist Church will end its Baby Contest on Sunday afternoon, July 23, at 4 o'clock. A program is planned for your enjoyment. The public is invited to attend.
FUNERAL SERVICES
Clarence Henry Royall was killed in an auto accident Saturday, July 11. Funeral services were conducted at Lisbon Street Baptist Church, Wednesday, July 15, at 4 p.m. with the Rev. H. R. Cogdell officiating.
Surviving are his parents, one brother and two sisters.
of $239.92 was raised for building funds. Refreshments were served in the Fellowship Hall of the church. Rev. Womack is pastor of the church.

CREAMY WASHINGTON STATE POTATO SALAD RING
6 cups sliced, cooked Washington Russet potatoes
2 cups sliced celery
3/4 cup green onions, thinly sliced
1/3 cup radishes, sliced thin
2 cups, chopped parsley
1 1/2 cups mayonnaise
1 1/2 tsp. vinegar
1 tbs. prepared mustard
3/4 tsp. celery seed
2 tsp. salt
4-6 hard-cooked eggs, chopped
Combine all ingredients. Spoon salad into large ring mold, pressing down well with a spoon. Store in refrigerator overnight (or for about 4 hours). Before serving, remove from mold by loosening top edges carefully with spatula or thin-bladed knife, placing spring plate over mold; invert; shake hard once and salad will drop out. Surround with parsley sprigs and fill center with green and black olives, radishes, crisp carrot curls and cherry tomatoes if desired. Makes 8 to 10 servings.

CARY-ASBURY

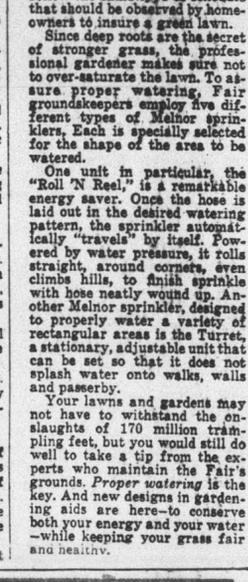

UNION METHODIST AME CHURCH
CARY—Sunday School began at 10 a.m. with the superintendent, Mrs. Mary L. Jones, in charge. Morning worship opened at 11 o'clock with the senior choir in charge of music, and Mr. Robert Hooker as accompanist. A wonderful sermon was brought by the minister from the 51st Psalm, 10th verse. Theme: "A heart God knows". His subject was "Create in me a clean heart."
Among the visitors was Mrs. Beale P. Hall, superintendent of Lincolnville AME Sunday School of Asbury.

World's Fair Gardeners' Tips

It takes almost 800 men to maintain the lawns and trees at the New York World's Fair! Work goes on around the clock, day and night, to keep Fair grounds prim and pretty.
Watering schedules vary according to the weather. Groundskeepers try to maintain a watering program that provides between one and two inches of surface water a week. Actually, they follow the same type of schedule that should be observed by homeowners to insure a green lawn.
Since deep roots are the secret of stronger grass, the professional gardener makes sure not to over-saturate the lawn. To assure proper watering, Fair groundskeepers employ five different types of Meijor sprinklers. Each is specially selected for the shape of the area to be watered.
One unit in particular, the "Roll 'N' Reel," is a remarkable energy saver. Once the hose is laid out in the desired watering pattern, the sprinkler automatically "travels" by itself. Powered by water pressure, it rolls straight, around corners, even climbs hills, to finish sprinkling where hoses neatly wound up. Another Meijor sprinkler, designed to properly water a variety of rectangular areas in the Turfret, a stationary, adjustable unit that can be set so that it does not splash water onto walks, walls and passerbys.
Your lawns and gardens may not have to withstand the onslaughts of 170 million trampling feet, but you would still do well to take a tip from the experts who maintain the Fair's grounds. Proper watering is the key. And new designs in gardening aids are here to conserve both your energy and your water—while keeping your grass fair and healthy.

WHAT'S NEXT, PLEASE?

ROCKY MOUNT—Gov. George Wallace has WITHDRAWN from the presidential race and most Negroes are sorry he did. Why, you ask? Well, it's simply this. If Wallace had remained in the race he would have siphoned off most of Ku Klux Klan-type vote who were prone to vote for Senator Barry Goldwater, the Republican and that would have given President Lyndon Baines Johnson an easier chance to steal home while Wallace and Goldwater battled each other.

Now that crowd will have nowhere to go except to Barry Goldwater, thus making it more difficult for our man, Johnson, to win. And he MUST WIN! If Johnson does not win, not alone the Negroes, but America, will be SUNK, both at home and on the world market. You only have to listen to the foreign broadcasts to hear how DANGEROUS even our friendly nations consider Goldwater to be. So, any Negro who does not get registered and go vote this year, if never before, is simply ruining his own future; and is hardly worth living. Regardless of whether you are Republican or Democrat, vote for Lyndon Johnson for president of the USA.

On the State level, the strategy is to vote for ROBERT GAVIN, the Republican, for Governor of Tarheelia, so as to offset Judge Dan Moore, who does not look good to us. Neither does he sound good on matters racial. As of now, it's Johnson and Gavin and don't fail to get registered and go check again even if you think you are registered.
We saw whites, as well as colored, who thought they were properly registered, only to be turned back the day of the June primary election. Don't be too lazy to go to the fire house or town hall to check in. Tell you more later.

The Halifax County School Board was presented a petition opposing the integration of the Enfield High School after 16 applications were made by Negroes for assignment to the Lily-white school. The Board took no action on either petition at the time, preferring to wait until a later date in order to give it further study.
Meanwhile, ten children were released from attending three colored schools—Eastman, White Oak and Hollister—in order that they may enroll at the Haliwa school in Warren County (built several years ago for Warren-Halifax Counties residents who classified themselves as Haliwa Indians and withdrew from Negro schools).

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph (Mary Harrison) Walker and Mrs. Elizabeth H. Haughton, 181 N. Van Pelt St., Philadelphia, Penna., returned safely to their homes after a two weeks visit with relatives in the Tarboro and Norfolk areas.
Mrs. Sallie Harrison Baker is spending a few days with her sick sister, Mrs. Lillian Harrison Jones in Norfolk, Va., 6933 Minnie Ave.).

Princeton News
BY MRS. GOLDIE HARDY
PRINCETON—The youth of Mt. Zion Holiness Church sponsored a program Wednesday night, July 15, at 8 p.m. The groups participating on the program were the senior choir of Howell Chapel, Selma; Male Chorus of St. Steven Disciple Church and the junior choir of Mt. Zion Church of Princeton.
Sunday was pastoral day at Mt. Zion. The senior choir was in charge of devotion. The Rev. C. W. Winston, of Red Springs, delivered the message from the Book of 2 Samuel, 12. His text was, "A man on trial, but the Lord will bring you out." The message was an inspiring one, which was enjoyed by all.

ZEBULON—Sunday School opened at 10 o'clock with the superintendent in charge. Scripture was read by Deacon James Wright. The subject of the lesson was, "God Delivered His People." Rev. John Mangrum reviewed the lesson. Morning worship began at 11:30 with Rev. John Mangrum reading scripture from the Book of Job, 19:31. Rev. Canady delivered a wonderful message from the same Book, 14:14, and the Book of John, 11:26. His subject was, "If a man dies, shall he live again?" The junior choir of Jones Chapel rendered music. We had several visitors from Jones Chapel.
Our annual revival will begin July 27, with the Rev. B. V. Aiston as guest speaker.
Other visitors came from Riley Hill, Jones Hill, Beaver Chapel, Rocky Mount, and Middlesex Holiness Churches.

BY MISS DORA D. STROUD
CHURCHES
ST. JAMES A. M. E.
METHOD—"When Doubt Strikes," was the subject used by Rev. J. N. Sheares Sunday morning, July 19, at St. James A.M.E. Church. It was a wonderful sermon, which helped to strengthen one's faith in times like we have now.
The Rev. Sheares encouraged us to be strong in faith whatever the crosses may be. Doubts will come, but he admonished us to just remember that the same God who healed all manner of diseases, who turned water into wine, who raised the dead and then died on Calvary's Cross that we might have everlasting life; that one and only true God will fulfill all of our necessary needs and give us peace in our hearts. If we only trust Him, and obey His commandments.

The congregation enjoyed that grand discourse and the senior choir sang better than ever with Miss W. R. Gaynor at the organ.
A service for the Missionary Circle was held at the church at 7:30 o'clock. Rev. Sister Mary Frazer, president, was in charge of that service.
Oak City Baptist
This is installation week for Rev. Leatha Debnam at Oak City Baptist Church. Each night a good speaker will be on the program. There is a real treat in store for all who avail themselves the opportunity of attending all of the week's meetings.
Rev. Debnam is a fine young man. He gives his best, which is very good, wherever he serves. A real Christian gentleman, not only for his denomination, but helps wherever and whenever he is called to give service for the up-building of Christ's Kingdom.
Regular service Sunday morning ending the week's program.
Anniversary Service
Beginning next week, July 27 and running for two weeks, services will be held at St. James A. M. E. Church each night, except Saturday night. This is to be an anniversary service for or honoring the beloved pastor, Rev. J. N. Sheares. Beginning Monday night with Rev. L. S. Penn, and his congregation from St. Paul A. M. E. Church, there will be good speakers, mixed with some singing programs, each night. A grand time is expected and everyone is invited to come.
Reports from the S. S. Convention All delegates who attended the Raleigh District Sunday School Convention of the A.M.E. Church, at Pittsboro are expected to make their report Sunday.

SICK
We were so sorry to hear that Mrs. Flora Leach had to be hospitalized at Wake Memorial recently. She is improving now and we are thankful. Mrs. Leach was a former resident of Method and she and all of her family are staunch members of St. James A. M. E. Church. Mrs. Leach is known that this man is a downright philanthropist and has been carrying on with other women for years. I'm sure that my friend is headed for a big case of broken heart. I haven't said anything to her yet, because she's so obviously in love with this no-good cad, but I feel

FROM ST. PAULS
Mrs. Estelle Harrell from St. Pauls and Mrs. Elsie Nunn and family, from Durham were here Sunday to visit relatives and to attend their church services at St. James A. M. E. Church.
Visitors From Baltimore
Miss Sandra Jolly has been a recent visitor to her grandfather, Mr. J. W. Mason on Wood Place. She returned home last week accompanied by her uncle, Alfred Emanuel Mason, who will spend a few weeks with his sister, Mrs. Virginia Jolly and family in Baltimore, Md.

What in the WORLD! by TED

Twilight Tours

Twilight tours to accommodate the surge of out-of-town visitors to the World's Fair have been initiated at United Nations headquarters.
For the first time in its history, the complex of U.N. buildings will be lighted and open to the public until 10 p.m. Mondays through Fridays until mid-September. Normal closing time is 6 p.m. On Saturdays and Sundays, the first tour leaves at 9 a.m. and the last at 4:45 p.m.
To handle the Manhattan-bound influx of sightseers, the U.N.'s staff of chic guides has been increased to a record 150.
Representing 41 countries, the corps can conduct tours in 37 languages.
At the World's Fairgrounds, half an hour from headquarters, U.N. Visitors Service Chief Maurice Liu has posted guides to give tour information and take reservations. They are stationed at the U.N. Children's Fund pavilion and at the International Exhibit for the United Nations.
The Fair, rated as America's No. 1 vacation target this summer, is expected to boost U.N. tour attendance high above the normal million-a-year mark.
