

16 Teachers Added To A&T Faculty

GREENSBORO — Sixteen teachers, seven of them holding the doctorate degrees, are to be added to the A&T College faculty this fall. The appointments were announced this week by Dr. Lewis C. Dowdy, president of the college.

Included are five former members of the faculty who have been away on special assignment or for further study. The list includes Dr. Frenise A. Logan, newly appointed chairman of the Department of Social Sciences, who has just returned from a two-year assignment at Madras, India, as chief cultural affairs officer for the United States Information Service.

Those returning following study leaves are: Dr. James A. Williams, Jr., professor of biology; Dr. William A. Robinson, Jr., professor of English; Mrs. Barbara Reid, assistant professor of nursing, and Mrs. Tiney Garrison, instructor in nursing.

Three of the new additions are being assigned special posts. Dr. Jesse E. Marshall, former dean of students at Alabama State College, Montgomery, Ala., will become the new dean of students and professor of education. He replaces Dr. Glenn F. Rankin who this spring was elevated to the position of dean of instruction.

Dr. Samuel O. Jones, former principal of the Salisbury, Price High School, is to be the new coordinator of student teaching and professor of education, and Mrs. Thelma W. Vines, former head nurse at the A&T Sebastian Infirmary is to become the new director of student health services.

Other additions include: Dr. Walter C. Daniel, professor of English; Dr. Alexander Gardner, associate professor of Physics; Chih-Hwa Li, associate professor of Mechanical Engineering; Mrs. Iantha Phillips, assistant professor of Nursing; Robert H. Lewis, assistant professor of history; F. Jalali, assistant professor of electrical engineering; Ernest Gibson, instructor in insti-

The Golden Years

Without claiming to have discovered the Fountain of Youth, an international medical panel has agreed on some recommendations for growing older gracefully.

The panel's report, newly published by the United Nations World Health Organization (WHO), stresses these points:

—Exercise is essential for elderly persons to offset reduced physical activity resulting from technical progress.

—A balanced diet—with special attention to iron, vitamin and calcium deficiencies—is as important for the elderly as it is for the young.

—No retirement plan should involve complete work stoppage, although the type of work for the elderly must obviously be lighter. An occupation keeps the body toned up, and gives pensioners a stimulating sense of accomplishment.

“It is perfectly reasonable to hope,” the report concludes, “that the rate of aging can thus be slowed down sufficiently to allow all to enjoy their maximum potential for the longest possible time.”
