

Hopping About TARHEELIA

By Jay Bee Aytch

"MINDS SET ON FREEDOM"
PHILADELPHIA, Penn. - Sunday afternoon Radio WIP informed us of the terrible nine-fatality auto accident near Scotland Neck, N. C., as reported by N. C. Highway Patrol. Mrs. Julia Lyons Hardy, 2448 Montrose St., reports having recently visited her relatives in Tarheelia, including Mrs. Annie Mae DeBrew near Scotland Neck.

Mrs. Elizabeth Harrison Haughton, 1831 N. Van Pelt St., had as her guests the J. B. Harrens of Rocky Mount, N. C., and a surprise from her niece and hubby, the Mr. and Mrs. Wm. and Dorothy Price of Norfolk, Va. Mr. and Mrs. Chester and Jackie Lewis accompanied the Prices on their New York trip.

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest (Carrie) Haughton, Jr. had the Prices and Lewises as dinner guests Sunday after the checked out from the Cheriton hotel.

Mrs. Maxine S. Townsend, granddaughter of the senior Haughtons, is convalescing at the home of her mother, Mrs. Ernestine Simmons.

We talked with Raymond B. Crawford, a native Tarheelian, from Gastonia, N. C., a chef cook, who lives with his family at 6308 N. Smedley St. It was his granddaddy, John Hood, who recently passed in Gastonia at nearly 108 years of age.

We saw the last acts of the summer series of six Saturday amusements on Market Street sponsored by three leading merchandisers and the Quaker City for the free delight of hundreds of thousands.

Besides the antique pony-drawn wagons, hacks and surrys hauling colored and white children together - peacefully, there was a World's Fair angling artist, Robert Walker, who could exhibit his dexterity by casting as many as four reeled-out fishing lines simultaneously with all curves curving and returning in almost military precision. A colored rock and roll outfit brought the event to a lusty close for the season.

Mississippi's Freedom Democratic Party group of 64 colored and four whites with their accompanying forty-odd civil rights followers created somewhat of a sensation when they arrived in A-City in their three air-conditioned buses and took to their modestly-priced (less than $13-a-day) rooms and prepared to do battle against the lily-white Democratic Ole 'Missippi delegation. Aaron Henry is the leader. Mr. Henry is the Clarkdale, Miss. pharmacist and State NAACP proxy, who has suffered everything except murder, in his leadership for civil rights. His story and name have repeatedly been broadcast and he jailed on many occasions, but he keeps on fighting.

Here in Philadelphia a lovely colored maiden, Lynda C. Tucker, was chosen as runner up along with Margaret Sheffield for second place in the Thrill Show Queen competition. Blonde Lynda M. Grant was the selected as queen.

It was especially interesting to note one Deep South mayor being interviewed on NBC T-V by a colored announcer Sunday night.

The horror story told to the credentials committee by a Mrs. Hamer, a crippled Mississippi sharecropper, of how she was arrested and severely beaten by Negro prisoners under the direction of Mississippi Highway Patrolmen because she did not answer "Yes!" Mrs. Hamer was ordered from her home the day she registered to vote, she stated.

Princeton News

BY MRS. GOLDIE HARDY
PRINCETON—The Senior Choir of St. Steven's Episcopal Church celebrated its twentieth anniversary Sunday, August 23, at 4 p.m. On Sunday evening, the pastor, Rev. W. C. Simmons of LaGrange, was in charge.

The groups that participated on the program were White Rock, Gile Chapel, Warren Chapel, Dunn Chapel, Bethel Kenly, St. Steven No. 3 Choir, Rocky Branch, St. Mark, Princeton Male Chorus, St. John, Wilson Mill, Cedar Grove, Lily of the Valley, Pleasant Grove and many others. The program was enjoyable.

Mrs. Nancy Howell and daughter, Mrs. Goldie Hardy attended quarterly meeting, held at Piney Grove Primitive in Pinkney Sunday. The pastor, Elder Lawrence Reid of Wilson and many others took an active part in this wonderful service.

Mrs. Naomi Durham accompanied Mrs. Howell and Mrs. Hardy to Piney Grove Sunday.

The Junior Choir of Mt. Zion accompanied Bishop Hodges to Piney Grove in Smithfield Sunday morning to the Sunday School Convention. Bishop Hodges was the speaker. Other members of the church participated.

Mrs. Hardy and Mrs. Howell visited Miss Hazel Williams and sisters of Smithfield on Sunday evening.

APEX

BY MRS. LOUISE COLVIN
APEX—Sunday morning at 11. First Baptist held its baptismal service. Thirteen candidates were baptized. It was a beautiful sight to behold.

The Male Chorus was in charge of the devotion.

The pastor, Rev. W. T. Bigelow, brought to us a very interesting sermon. It was very fitting for the occasion to those just baptized and to several other who had joined the church on Christian experience.

Mrs. Colvin was taken from II Timothy, 4:9-10. Visitors worshipping with us were, Mr. and Mrs. Willie Walden of Mt. Zion Baptist Church of the Friendship Community and others from the neighboring churches.

Sunday morning at the 11 a.m. worship service at First Baptist, three of our choirs will be on duty. The associate minister, Rev. W. M. Phillips, will be the speaker.

The pastor, Rev. Bigelow, is on vacation, and will attend the National Baptist Convention. He is scheduled to be back in the pulpit at First Baptist on September 13. We all are awaiting his return.

PERSONALS
 Miss Cathy Taylor, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Taylor of Monroe, spent the weekend with Mrs. Ida Hayes.

Rev. Leo A. Jones, of Anchorage, Alaska, is spending a few days here, with his mother-in-law, Mrs. Hettie Wilkerson, sister, Mrs. Lottie Page, Mrs. Louise Colvin and others.

Miss Zulia Farrar, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Farrar, is still vacationing. She is now visiting in New York, before time to return to North Carolina College in Durham, where she is a rising senior. Have fun, Miss Farrar, it's almost time for that book work again.

 BY MRS. FORENCE J. WYNN
Family Reunion
BENSON—The Langston family reunion was held Sunday at the home of Mrs. Nina Shaw. The devotion was conducted by Rev. W. L. Williams, pastor of Juniper Grove Church, Mrs. Lula Williams and Mrs. Nina Shaw.

Rev. Williams gave a very interesting talk on family reunions and of how in the days of Job the same was well known. When a family is devoted to each other it is a reminder of the hymn, "Best Be the Tie." The Langston family, although growing small in number now, still is pressing on in love and union with everyone. A Christian family indeed.

Mrs. Nina Shaw has opened her doors for the past 40 years for this special occasion for family and friends. Among invited guests were: Mrs. Callie Pennings of Baltimore, Miss Gail Bagley, and Rev. W. L. Williams of Four Oaks.

After a business session, Mrs. Shaw announced that the next reunion will be at the home of Mrs. Lizzie Hill of Benson, N. C. Due to illness the Rev. and Mrs. Byrd of Dunn, N. C. were unable to be present. They were missed by the family and friends.

Prayers were offered for them and all others that were unable to be present. A wonderful dinner was spread on the front lawn.

Church

Morning worship was held at the First Baptist Church with the pastor, Rev. A. A. Anderson, delivering the message. Service was enjoyed by everyone.

PERSONALS
 Mrs. John L. Barfield and children, of Greensboro, spent Sunday with her father-in-law, Mr. Willie Barfield, and family.

Mr. and Mrs. Jeff Ray of Baltimore, Md., spent a week with Mr. and Mrs. Horace Williams.

Mr. Roscoe Evans is a patient at Duke Hospital, Durham.

The Helping Hand Club will have a tea Sunday at the home of Mrs. Nora Stewart.

FUNERALS
 Mrs. Frances Davis was funeralized Friday from St. James Episcopal Church. Rev. R. Williams officiated and burial was in Dixon Cemetery.

SPECIAL
 Mrs. Eula Peacock is now a licensed preacher as Elder Eula Peacock, pastor of Mt. Zion Church in Benson. She will have a program Sunday and invites everyone to attend.

JAZZ UNDER THE STARS—New York: Jazz star Lionel Hampton and his entire 16-piece band play for New Yorkers, August 19th, at the door of the Metropole Cafe to celebrate his 1000th royalty check for his theme song "Flying Home." Hampton wrote the song on his first plane ride in 1936 when he was a member of the Benny Goodman Quartet. (UPI PHOTO).

BROADWAY'S COMING ATTRACTION—New York: Among the musicals shaping up for Broadway's coming attraction is a version of Clifford Odets' drama, "Golden Boy." Here stars of the new production Sammy Davis, Jr., and Paula Wayne do a scene from the show on a bench. The musical, which is on tour at present, will open at the Majestic Theatre on September 28th. ## "The Supremes" Ask,

"What's Happened To Show Business?"

As the three young ladies walked into my office, I was immediately impressed that above all here were three young ladies—in every sense of the word.

Individually, the young ladies are Diana Ross, Mary Wilson, and Florence Ballard. Collectively, they are known as The Supremes; and they are currently the hottest female singing group in the nation. Their Motown recording of "Where Did Our Love Go" is now riding the number one spot in the nation's musical popularity charts.

I have had the pleasure of personally seeing The Supremes perform on stage. I asked them how they managed to keep themselves so fresh, neat, and ladylike while performing. Their unanimous reply was, "No tight dresses for us." The girls went on to say that they felt that a contemporary performer did not have to utilize sex as a means of putting across a musical number. A female performer can look just as alluring when she's dressed as a young lady.

The Supremes, who have just returned from a successful tour with the Dick Clark Caravan, even carried this belief in maintaining proper attire during the travel time while riding the tour bus. While other female recording artists were slacks and hair rollers, The Supremes were always riding comfortably in their dresses.

"We believe that this is an important part of a performer's image. Artists fans expect their idol to be a symbol. This loss of glamour and of that certain air of mystery, has resulted in a loss of respect for many recording artists. The public has become blasé after seeing too many of their favorites in sloppy attire." The girls continued on in proving that this is an overall problem that show business must face—be it Hollywood, television, or recording artists.

The Supremes, who hail from Detroit, Mich., are just that. They're supreme in talent, in personality; and now, with the number one song in the nation, it's on the record.

BROADWAY BEAT

BY DALE ROBERTS
(For Negro Press International)
BEAU SWAY
 Lionel Hampton, one of the giants of jazz, is back at the Metropole with his swing band, numbering 15 besides himself and his vocalist, Pinnocchio James.

It has been 27 years since Hampton left Benny Goodman to form his own outfit and though it has fluctuated in size over the years, it has never stopped working. In fact, occasionally he has rejoined Goodman as part of the famed quartet.

Hamp includes most of his old favorites and has at least one strange addition—"Some Day My Prince Will Come," from Walt Disney's "Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs," which is rarely heard in any musical circles, let alone swing.

The band ends up on a rousing version of "When the Saints Come Marching In," with the indefatigable Hampton marching through the crowded room and even out into the street—where jazz buffs without the price of a drink, or too young to enter—gather there nightly.

The incandescent magnetism that draws raves for every song Fran Jefferies sings, every move she makes, and every melting glance shooting from her sparkling eyes are turned on full blast for the benefit of lucky Copacabana patrons when they will view the new star and the show.

Fran, incidentally, was picked to co-star as a cage singer in the upcoming film "Sex and the Single Girl."

OBITUARY
 David Earl Butler was accidentally drowned last Thursday afternoon. Funeral services were held Sunday, August 23 at 3 p.m. at Mt. Pleasant Baptist Church. The Rev. Lesly Jones officiated. Survivors include his parents,

New York headquarters and by Peter A. Hall and Orrell Billingsley, Jr. Fund cooperating attorneys of Birmingham, asserted that there was no evidence in support of the charge.

He further argued that the evidence which Mrs. Shuttleworth allegedly violated are, as applied to his conduct, so vague as to be unconstitutional under the 14th Amendment.

The Fund attorneys also pointed out in their petition that Rev. Shuttleworth has been arrested by the Birmingham police on more than ten charges in the past six years.

On March 10th of this year, the Supreme Court upheld Defense Fund contentions in reversing a 1961 conviction of the civil rights leader for alleged interference with the police during a Freedom Ride from her lines outside and inside the house.
