MRS. HELENA SUMNER INTERRED AT ENFIELD

ENFIELD — Funeral rites were held recently at Plumblin Holiness Church for Mrs. Helena Fobbs Sumner, wife of the late Rev. Freeland Grant Sumner, Sr., who was (prior to his death two years ago by auto accident) organizer and minister of Royal Light Holiness Church at nearby Tillery.

The Sumner parents had been natives of the Waycross, Ga., area where their older children were born. Mrs. Sumner was 66 years of age. Her husband was 67 two years ago at the time of his fatal accident.

During their 47 years of marriage, 3 sons and 5 daughters were born. They are: Freeland G. Jr., Jesse Eugene, and Howard Henry. Daughters were: Ruby S. Bagley, Pittsburgh, Pa.; Mrs. Carrie S. Evans, Dec. Co.; Mrs. Minnie S. Williams and Mrs. Minnie S. Howard of the home. Also Miss Fable M. Sumner, along with five grandchildren who were reared by the elder Sumners as their own. They were Simon, Solomon, Lizzie, Glone Justice and Romeo Wilkins of the home. 32 other grandchildren and one great-grandchild complete the immediate family.

One of 14 children born to the late Willie and Mamie (Walker) Fobbs of Waycross, Ga., six brothers survive. They are: Jesse Fobbs, Jacksonville, Florida; Charlie Willie and Jimmie of the home; Robert and Hiram of New York City. Burial was at the homestead farm with the Rev. L. D. Young conducting the rites near Crowell community.

The Sumner family was considered very cooperative with their parents and community leaders in religious and civic enterprises. The father had purchased two farms years ago and was active in Credit Unions and farm co-ops with a fervent spiritual outlook and kind word for all people. The same humility prevails among the children.

We met the Reverend Spencer Williams, 511 East St., Scotland Neck, minister of Eastern Star Baptist Church, Turboro, N. C. Mr. Williams expects to complete his theology at Shaw University, Raleigh, this winter. Williams talked progressively on Civil Rights. He also subscribed to our column; said he enjoyed reading it. THANKS Rev. Williams.

The Mt. Pisgah United Presbyterian Church, Rev. J. E. Costen, minister, will be host to the Fall Meeting of the Cape Fear Presbytery in Rocky Mount Sept. 17th.

Mt. Pisgah was host Sunday to a curriculum-planning seminar with Revs. B. H. Baskerville, Wilmington; B. E. Richardson, Goldsboro; H. T. McFadden, Louisburg; and J. H. Costen assuming leadership roles in studying the new Church School literature.

Mr. Alice Hines Roberson, a June bride, who spent her summer with her hubby, Marvin, in Mass., has returned to her teaching position at Bulluck School.

Mr. and Mrs. Moses Stephens of Leggett Road are the proud parents of a baby boy.

Mr. and Mrs. Joe Vines of Pine-top are extra proud of their recently-born twin boys. They have one little girl, also.

Mrs. A. H. Harren was joined by her sisters and brothers in a brief Labor Day family reunion at the home of the baby sister, Mrs. Lillian H. Jones, 6933 Minnie Avenue, Norfolk, Va.

Others of the immediate family included Mrs. S. Marie H. Baker, John Jr., Charles and Mrs. Rosa Harrison; Mrs. Elizabeth H. Haughton and Mrs. Mary H. Walker, Philadelphia, Pa. Also Mrs. Haughton's daughters and son, Lucile, Ernestine and Ernest, the latter's wife and children, Joseph Walker, Friend Joseph; and Nathaniel Jones.

Mrs. Mabel Seavege Rhodes of Hampton, Va., advises that the recent J. K. Erick School and Junior College Alumni Association held their annual meeting at T. B. In-borden Shrine August 22-23 in the P. J. Chason room.

Rhamkatte News

BY MRS. LUCILLE CHAVIS

RHAMKATTE—Sunday School opened at 9:45 a. m. with the supt., Mr. George Tucker, in charge. Rev. E. E. Worthy, pastor of St. John AME Church, was the speaker. He spoke from the book of Romans, 2:11. "For there is no respect of person with God." His subject was "God treats all alike regardless of society." Rev. Worthy was also the 7:30 p. m. speaker.

With the school bells ringing Tuesday morning and the children getting ready for the old routines, we are asking everyone to drive carefully and be on the lookout for a child. He may turn out to be your own.

I had the great honor of celebrating my birthday last Saturday, September 5. I received many gifts and cards. Thanks to all and God bless each of you. Let's all look for a brighter tomorrow.

Visitors in the community over the weekend were from Norfolk, Va., Buffalo, N. Y., Tennessee, New York City, and Washington, D. C.

Conditioning Garden Flowers

Beautiful New Century hybrid zinnias like these deserve a little extra care in cutting and conditioning to keep them in good shape for extra days. The article tells you what to do.

Being able to cut flowers from the garden and arrange them to ornament the house is one of the satisfactions of gardening. But doing so can be even more pleasing if the flowers last as long as they are capable of doing.

Matching water temperature to air temperature is the start of conditioning garden flowers. When you go into the garden to pick them, take along a pail of water the same temperature as the outdoor air. Set each stem into the pail immediately after cutting.

The less time there is between the instant the stem is severed and that when the flower stem is immersed, the less time there is for air to enter the cells of the stem to dry them.

That's also the reason why, when ready to arrange flowers, you cut the stems under water if you need to shorten some of them. Flashes of moisture in cells, but little air, makes out flowers last longer.

In between cutting and arranging, condition your flowers further by setting the pail into which you inserted them in a cool, draft-free place for several hours. During this period, with stems well immersed, the blooms will become accustomed to indoor temperature and the stems will fill with water.

Try conditioning your garden flowers and prove to yourself that it pays in longer bloom life.
