

Veteran Negro Publisher Backs Sen. Goldwater

Says He "Will Do More To Carry On Fight For Full Equality Than Anyone"

HAMILTON, Ohio (NPD)—The publisher of a 25-year-old weekly Negro newspaper has come out in support of Sen. Barry F. Goldwater for President of the United States.

Alvin D. Smith, publisher, Butler County American, said Goldwater "will do more to carry on the battle for full equality than anyone in a long, long time—excluding the late Sen. Bob Taft, (of Ohio) of course."

Smith said his paper was wholeheartedly in support of civil rights "but we are opposed to force and violence."

He accused President Johnson of becoming interested in civil rights only after he emerged as a politician with national ambitions.

Smith, an unsuccessful GOP candidate for mayor of Lincoln Heights, a Cincinnati suburb, in 1960, and for the Ohio legislature in 1962, is 65 years old and a graduate of Tuskegee Institute.

His newspaper has a circulation of 3,800. He and his wife have owned and operated the paper since it was established. Hamilton is located 30 miles north of Cincinnati.

Ebony's Fashion Fair To Be Held October 4

NEW YORK—The National Urban League Guild announced last week that tickets are now available for the Ebony Fashion Fair, to be held on Sunday, October 4th, at 2 p. m. in the Grand Ballroom of the Hotel Americana.

This is the sixth year that the Guild has sponsored this show for the benefit of the National Urban League. This year's Fair will emphasize the Spanish influence in fashions with selections from such leading designers as Dior, Balenciaga, Oleg Cassini and Norman Norell. It will be an unusual production, with a plot of its own, complete with a romantic hero who hops from country to country in search of the world's most beautiful women.

Co-chairmen of the Sponsors' Committee are Mrs. Bennett Cerf and Mrs. P. M. H. Savory. Mrs. Mildred Dunbar will speak for the Guild.

LEADS SOPHOMORES AT BENNETT—Miss Theresa Hall (center), of Washington, D. C., is flanked by members of her cabinet. C., treasurer; Roma Best, of Greensboro, vice president; Eloise Franklin, Augusta, Ga., parliamentarian.

DEAR SALLY

BY SALLY SHAW

DEAR SALLY: My fiance has a very good buddy who has offered to sing at our wedding. The big, sad problem though is that he can't sing, and even if he did know how to sing, he hasn't the voice for it. I have a young uncle, who sings solos regularly in church and does it beautifully, and I do want very much for him to sing at our wedding. My fiance agrees with me on all this, but he doesn't want to hurt his buddy's feelings by refusing his offer. So what can we do? BRIDE-ELECT.

DEAR BRIDE-ELECT: Have your fiance explain to his friend that you and your parents have already made your plans for the wedding—and, of course, he could "soften the blow" very nicely by inviting his buddy to serve as his best man, or as one of the ushers.

DEAR SALLY: There's a prowling, predatory female of 23 in our neighborhood who is in relentless pursuit of our son, a good-looking young man of 27. This girl goes out of her way to flaunt her "charms" before him, "just happens to be walking by" when he comes out of our house, phones him frequently with invitations to some dance, show, or sports event she "just happens to have tickets for," and in every way makes a sickening spectacle of herself. I've already thrown a few hints at the young lady about her unbecoming conduct, but this has done no good. What else can I do to discourage her? MRS. G. M.

DEAR MRS. G. M.: You've said lots about how objectionable YOU find the girl's conduct—but nothing at all of how your son feels about it. And this is HIS business, not yours. At 27, he should be perfectly capable of handling his own affairs—without any help from you. I think you're playing too hard the role of an over-protective, doting mother.

DEAR SALLY: There's a little problem that's bugging me and my buddy. We're a couple of fellows who attend one high school and who date a couple of girls who attend another high school in our city. We're all set to take these two girls to the football game our two schools will be playing against each other, and the two girls are having a friendly little argument with us about which section of the stadium we'll be sitting in, their school's section or ours. What do you think is right? TOM AND JERRY.

DEAR TOM AND JERRY: Ordinarily, girls should go willingly wherever their escorts take them. However, for the sake of harmony, you could compromise on this weighty question—one half the game in your school's section, one half in theirs.

DEAR SALLY: Whenever we entertain friends in our home, despite the fact that our guests are always dressed nicely and the other men are wearing dress shirts, ties, and jackets, my husband invariably wears an open-collar sport shirt with the bottom of the shirt hanging outside his trousers. I think this looks very sloppy, and it's very embarrassing to me, because he's a good-looking man and I want to be proud of him in the presence of our friends. He claims it's all right for a host to dress "comfortably" this way. What do you think about it? H. O.

DEAR H. O.: Hubby has the wrong idea. He's showing a lack of respect for your friends and a lack of consideration for his wife's feelings by dressing as he does while entertaining guests.

NOTE TO JOHN: Your mother's attitude towards the idea of your marriage is a very selfish one. If her love for you were as genuine as yours is for her, she would be happy over the prospects of your marriage to your "wonderful girl." Instead, she is thinking only of herself and the prospects of "losing you." You can very well be married, making a life of your own as you are entitled to do—and still be every bit as devoted to your mother as you are now. I do hope you can make your mother realize and accept this.

Top Stars Perform For SRO Crowds

DETROIT, Michigan—The term "Hitsville, U. S. A." became more than just the name of an organization. Recording artist, Marvin Gaye, Martha and The Vandellas, The Spinners, Stevie Wonder, The Marvelettes, Carolyn Crawford and Willie Tyler and his pal, Lester, all members of the famed Detroit recording company's legendary stable, proved that they are without peers at the Michigan State Fair where they appeared for ten days. The group played to a standing-room only crowd for the entire period.

Fair officials said that this year's offering drew more people to the Fair than ever before in its history. This was the first time that members of Hitsville, U. S. A. had ever performed en masse to such a gathering. Their appearance was

600 Freshmen, New Students At Fayetteville

FAYETTEVILLE—Approximately 600 freshman and new students assembled Monday morning, September 7, in Seabrook Auditorium at Fayetteville State College. Tests in language, mathematics and reading were held for the remainder of the day.

In Tuesday sessions, FSC student government was explained by President Hayes Streeter. Dr. Marguerite S. Frierson, chairman of the education department, discussed the teacher education program, and Dr. H. Eldridge, science department head, held a panel discussion.

Auditions for the college drama and musical groups, meetings with personnel deans, and an introductory night program are slated for Wednesday.

Thursday will be devoted to conferences with advisors while registration and the presidents' reception are listed for Friday.

Dormitory meetings, recreation at Seabrook Park and a social in the college gymnasium are set for Saturday.

Registration for former students will be held Monday and Tuesday, September 14 and 15. Classes will begin on Wednesday, September 16.

With housing facilities for young women taxed, school authorities are seeking additional accommodations in the surrounding community.

two of the nicest invitations you will ever receive

TWO HAPPY EVENTS. One for a very special day to remember. The other holds the promise of gracious living for many years to come.

FOR THIS YOUNG COUPLE chose a Gold Medallion Home—the home where electricity does everything. And speaking of "housewarmings," you'll find that gentle, radiant electric heat is the nicest housewarming ever... much like that of sunshine.

THE NEW HOMEMAKER soon learns that total-electric living is a real comfort in those first anxious attempts at managing a home. Confidence and skill come more quickly with her electrical helpers to speed and ease routine chores.

AND IF YOU ALREADY have a family, you will appreciate even more how this saves time, steps and effort... lets you devote more time to family living.

MAY WE INVITE YOU to enjoy this gracious way of life real soon? Just call us at CP&L. We'd love to help you write your own invitation to the nicest "housewarming" ever in a Gold Medallion Home.
