DR. HENDERSON'S VISIT TO RALEIGH—Dr. Vivian W. Henderson, the first Negro ever to spend a full year as visiting professor of economics at North Carolina State, UNC, at Raleigh, shown second from right in second row, was honored at a farewell social, given by his friends last Wednesday night, September 9. The affair was held at the home of Richard Barfield, 806 Delany Drive. Dr. Henderson, who heads the Economics Department at Fisk University, Nashville, Tenn., is returning to his post this week. Shown in front row, left to right, are: Alfred C. Perry, Frank Tarrell, Kneela G. Francis, and Attorney George R. Greene. Second row, left to right: Charles G. Irving, Sr., Richard Barfield, Dr. Henderson, and Carlton J. Barber. Third row, left to right: E. R. Swain, James E. Speed, Clarence Lightner, and Ross Fowler.

Dr. Player Stresses "Need To Broaden Content Of Mind"

GREENSBORO—The need to broaden and deepen the content of liberal education was stressed by President Willa B. Player at the opening session of the annual Faculty-Staff Fall Conference at Bennett College last week.

Calling attention to the conference theme, "Strengthening the College Program Through Self-Study and Projection—A Continuation," Dr. Player, in welcoming the group, pointed to developments in the American culture which have an impact upon higher education today.

"We are faced," she said, "with the impact of the population explosion, the growth of automation in the classroom, and the impact of an election year."

"Out of these situations come questions such as: How many students shall we serve? What shall we teach? What methods shall we use? and How shall we prepare our students to move in a society which is rapidly becoming more urbanized?"

President Player emphasized the need to educate for "the new equality" which is now a part of the culture and said that more than ever before there is a need for high scholarship within the faculty which includes excellence in teaching.

Dr. Chauncey G. Winston, new dean of instruction, was introduced as was his successor, Dr. George Brethart, who is now chairman of the social science division. Also introduced were Mrs. Mary T. Coleman, director of admissions, Dr. Marlow Shute, director of self-study evaluation services and his wife, Mrs. Carrie Shute, who will be assistant librarian. The Shutes come to Bennett from Barber Scots at Concord.

Other newcomers to the faculty and staff who attended the first session were: Miss Lillie Weston, business education and director of faculty secretarial services; Mrs. Marie C. Torian, director of career guidance and placement, and James N. Griffin, manager of the book store.

President Player was hostess to the group at a picnic supper at her home Wednesday at 6:30. Sunday members of the group attended the 11 a. m. service at St. Matthews Methodist Church, the Rev. John G. Corry, pastor. The college had its beginning in the early St. Matthews Church and members of the Bennett family annually visit on the first Sunday of the conference. An evening with the faculty and staff, in which summer experiences were shared, was held at 7:30 p. m. in the David D. Jones Student Union after which there was a coffee hour.

The conference resumed on Monday with meetings of various self-study groups. The next general session was held at 7 p. m. on Tuesday at which time these groups reported their plans for the year.

Miss Bertha Otey, '63, president of the Student Union, reported at the Wednesday morning session on the faculty-student summer seminar and that group's recommendations for modifications of standards and procedures regarding campus living. A joint banquet for faculty-staff and student leaders was held Wednesday night to conclude the conference.

After 38 Years:

Mrs. David D. Jones Retires From Bennett

GREENSBORO—Announcement of the retirement this week of Mrs. David D. Jones, who has actively served Bennett College since 1926 and more recently as director of admissions, was made by President Willa B. Player at the opening meeting of the faculty-staff fall conference on Friday.

In expressing appreciation to Mrs. Jones for her many years of devoted service, Dr. Player recalled the reorganization of Bennett in 1926 when the late Dr. David D. Jones and Mrs. Jones came to the college as the founding administrative team.

"They brought a wealth of creative resources to the task of building a new college for young women," she said. "Under their youthful and imaginative leadership, the institution made remarkable advances in a relatively short span of time."

"Today, Bennett is known over a wide area as a college with a purpose. Its purpose, in fact, has developed from the key ideas first enunciated by Dr. and Mrs. Jones. Altering objectives in response to the changing times, Bennett stresses individual fulfillment, community leadership, home and family life and career preparation. It has remained true to its heritage as a Methodist college."

At the close of Dr. Jones' career as president, Mrs. Jones continued to serve the college actively as director of admissions. She has exhibited in this post the same creative insight and personal charm which are her individual characteristics. Bennett students and graduates throughout the nation recall with warm enthusiasm the inspiration received from their association with Mrs. Jones. Her sphere of influence and service has been broadly felt as is suggested by the position of leadership which she has held.

She has served as a vice president of the United Council of Church Women, a member of the department of Christian Social Relations and of the Board of Missions and Church Extension of the Methodist Church, chairman of the intercultural and interracial relations committee of the Woman's Division of Christian Service of the Methodist Church, member of the subcommittee of the National Board of YWCA and a member of the executive committee of the North Carolina Federation of Women's Clubs.

Mrs. Jones has one daughter, three sons and eight grandchildren. They are David, father of Jane and Allison Jones; Frances, mother of Carol and Dale Bonner; Paul, father of Martha, Paul M. and Laura Jones, and Frank, father of David D. Jones, II.

Although Mrs. Jones is retiring, President Player expressed the hope that she will continue to play an active role in the affairs of Bennett.

Freedom Aid Asked In McComb

McCOMB, Mississippi—In the wake of increased violence in McComb, the following letter from the project director was sent to Burke Marshall, John Doar, and to several Congressmen who have evidenced an interest in the Mississippi Summer Project.

Despite summer-long appeals for federal protection in Mississippi, incidents of violence and harassment have been the pattern for the summer, and, with the formal ending of the summer project and its movement into a new phase, are on the increase.

We pass along this letter in the hope that out of your own knowledge of the summer, it may have some relevance for you and for those with whom you have had contact.

Student Leaders Conclude 4-Day Bennett Talks

GREENSBORO—With the theme, "Catalyst on Campus—Enrichment Through Cooperative Effort," student leaders concluded a four-day conference at Bennett College on Friday.

Miss Marilyn Mackel, '65, of Chicago, Ill., president of the Student Senate, presided at the opening session and President Willa B. Player spoke. Miss Bertha Otey,

THE CAROLINIAN
RALEIGH, N. C., SATURDAY, SEPTEMBER 19, 1964

'65, of Greensboro, president of the Student Union, reported on the faculty-student summer staff which she headed and introduced some of the topics which were considered.

These included policies and procedures, the tutorial program, health and physical education, chapel programs, residence life and faculty-student relationships. A report to the faculty-staff was given by Miss Otey.
