

St. Aug. Falcons Dump Morris College, 18-0 Here

Little Blues Trounced 34-0 By Elizabeth City's P. W. Moore High

ELIZABETH CITY—The Little Blues of Raleigh's John W. Ligon High School, basking in two straight gridiron victories, were soundly trounced here Friday night by the P. W. Moore High School football team, 34-0.

Moore rolled in the second half to whip the Blues by scoring 28 points. The halftime score was 6-0.

Scoring twice for the local team was Johnny Jackson, who went nine and thirty yards for points.

Dashing 47 yards for another touchdown was William Griffin, and he also blocked a kick to set up another touchdown, which teammate Roy Hider got by falling on the ball in the end zone.

Four of Ligon's Coach 'Bete' Williams' charges' fumbles were recovered by Elizabeth City. Three of these led to Moore touchdowns.

The Little Blues were unable to generate much offense, getting only as far as the Elizabeth City 45-yard-line on one occasion.

Moore tallied 6 points in the first quarter, 20 in the third and 8 points in the final period of the game.

Ironically, the Ligon Little Blues will play their homecoming game Friday night in Raleigh's Chavis Park against the J. T. Barber High School team of New Bern, which defeated Elizabeth City two weeks ago.

DuBois Lions Walloped By Trenton

BY CHARLES A. MASSENBURG

WAKE FOREST — The DuBois Lions of Wake Forest were defeated by Jones High of Trenton, by a score of 34-6 Friday night in a game played at Trenton.

In the first quarter, Trenton scored three touchdowns which made the score, 22-0. At halftime, the Lions still had not scored, but in the third quarter things began to improve.

Roger Shackelford, Horace Alston, Samuel Caudle, Richard Harris and the two defensive ends, Eddie Kittler and Arthur Jefferies, joined McArthur Woods to show great improvement in the Lion defense. Quarterbacks Edward Williams and Alexander Massenburg began to move the team toward its lone touchdown of the game.

The extra effort by the Lions pushed offensive end Frankie Lucas on to make the only touchdown for Wake Forest. However, the last quarter gave Jones High another touchdown.

The Lions are expecting an exciting game when they meet Garner Consolidated High School on the DuBois Field, Friday, October 2, at 8 p.m. There has always been great school spirit shown by both teams whenever they have met. This is Garner's first football season.

NCC Eagles Whip Allen Squad, 25-12

DURHAM—The North Carolina College Eagles spotted the Allen University Yellow Jackets a 4-0 lead in the first quarter of their opening game at O'Kelly Field Saturday before coming from behind to defeat the visitor from Columbia, S. C., 25-12 in an inter-sectional thriller at Durham.

Allen's Nathaniel Boston powered over from NCC's 15-yard line to start one of the two touchdowns scored by the visitors. The Yellow Jackets halfback scored with less than three minutes having elapsed on the clock. After an exchange of punts, Allen got the ball, and Boston eluded a 62-yard drive with his plunge, yielding the only score in the first half as Allen led 6-0.

In the second half, Coach Herman Riddick's NCC Eagles came back strong, scoring four touchdowns to quell the upset-minded Yellow Jackets.

NCC guard Velve LeGrande started the Eagles rolling with a dramatic interception of a pass on the Allen 30-yard line. Allen quarterback Clarence Jackson threw the pass, intended for his end, John Singleton, which fell short of the target and into LeGrande's arms.

Cleveland's Jim Brown:

Says He Is Not A Muslim, But The More Commotion, The Better

NEW YORK — Cleveland's star fullback Jimmy Brown declared last week that he is "all for" the Black Muslims.

In a signed article in the current issue of Look Magazine in which he discussed the Negro's fight for equality, Brown stated he is not a Muslim, "yet I'm all for them because we need every possible element going for us. The more commotion, the better."

Declaring that "the Black Muslim's basic attitude toward whites shared by almost 90 per cent of the Negro population," Brown warned that the Negro's mood is "explosive" and "the white man had better start trying to understand him."

He expressed skepticism of Negro leader Martin Luther King's philosophy of "turning the other cheek" and gaining equality through "love."

"Personally, I cannot believe that freedom will be won through love. I cannot love a man who clouts me," Brown said in Look, adding:

"I hope we can win freedom peacefully, but I'm skeptical. Great battles for freedom have seldom been won peacefully."

One of the highest paid athletes in professional sports, Brown pointed out the more successful a Negro is, the more difficult it becomes for him to accept "second-class citizenship."

"Can anyone think," Brown wrote, "that it does my heart good to sign 30 autographs in a hotel lobby and then be turned out of the hotel dining room?"

Changes Made In Jackson's Tiger Lineup

JACKSON, Miss. — Coach Rodrick Paige of the Jackson State College Tigers made several changes in the Tiger lineup this week as the Tigers prepared to take on the hustling Mississippi Valley eleven Saturday, September 26.

The Tigers did "too many losing things" in dropping a 36-12 home opener against a more experienced Prairie View A&M team last Saturday. Most Panther scores came on Tigers miscues.

Coach Douglas Porter of Mississippi Valley will bring a seasoned squad to Jackson hopefuls of getting into the win column against their arch state rivals for the first time since 1956 when they defeated the Tigers 19-8.

Sports lovers are still talking about the Tigers' near miracle win in 1963. The Tigers showed a lot of promise, defensively, in Saturday's game. If the changes the coaches made result in an offense to match the defense, the Tigers will become a real threat.

SPORTS INTERNATIONAL

BY A. S. (DOC) YOUNG

Just about everyone in professional football will tell you that Cleveland star Jimmy Brown is "the most" . . . the most fullback in history, the most-highly paid player in the game, the most beautifully built athlete here today.

Jim Brown is also one of integration's most publicized products. And, largely on account of that, what he says now in Look magazine conversational yaws are the cause out of sports.

In an adaptation of his forthcoming book, "Off My Chest," Brown runs a broken field of facts, feelings, philosophies.

Leaving his reader often confused as to his basic motivations, Brown nevertheless manages to make a glorious statement on behalf of America Citizen, Negro; lend support to the Black Muslim position, and beat back to life the "dead horse" involved in the 1963 firing of his old coach, Paul Brown.

Brown, assisted by Myron Cope, writes angrily and bitterly but denies anger and bitterness. While cheering the Black Muslims, though denying membership, he criticizes Dr. Martin Luther King and the "non-violent" ideal.

He emphasizes the fact that he may be the highest-paid Negro sports figure alive, yet he sometimes seems to assume the position of the lowliest share-cropper. On one hand, he confesses that he once sought Paul Brown's personal friendship yet he denies any real interest in camaraderie with Coach-lana.

Jim Brown's fame has been enhanced through integration from childhood on. He was a star in an integrated New York high school, at integrated Syracuse University, and, since 1958, has been the big, fullbacking wheel in the integrated National Football league.

Jim admits that he plays golf at courses which bar other less-known Negroes. He says he has no special hankering to live in an integrated neighborhood, "but if some day we (he and his family) want a bigger house, a nicer house, and it lies in an all-white neighborhood, we want the right to buy it. So again I say, the hell with the integration—just don't segregate me."

The long story—one part of a serial—is basically a spin off the haste that developed in Cleveland when Brown and several teammates decided that they could no longer play for Brown, one of football's all-time greats and a wanted champion of sports democracy—who has yet to publicly blast Jim Brown as Jim Brown has blasted him. In essence, Jim Brown and his mate told new Cleveland owner Art Modell, "Fire Paul Brown—or trade us!"

What did these players have against Paul Brown?

It seems that he was too frigid in his coaching methods, too aloof from his players personally, too tough, and — possibly — other pro coaches had caught up with him or he had been slowed by new developments in the game which, for one reason or another, he didn't latch onto immediately.

Jim Brown explains that race had nothing to do with his beefs with Paul Brown. Once again, he makes a half-apology for having had to take the drastic action he took. Since this issue fired into headlines more than a year ago, and was exhausted at that time of all its meaningful aspects, one wonders why Jim Brown must once more blast Paul Brown, who appears to be seeking the peace of enforced retirement, or semi-retirement in La Jolla, Calif.

There can hardly be any "good" purpose to this part of the story

Halfback Walter Jackson Scores 2; King Sparkles

Walter Jackson, left halfback from Miami, Florida, scored two touchdowns in the opening minutes of the game to give the Falcons an early 12 point lead over Morris College of Sumter, S. C., last Saturday afternoon.

Jackson scored on handoffs from Quarterback Sinclair King from the 5 and 15 yard lines respectively to grab the lead for the Falcons. King completed a 25 yard pass to End Matthew Fisher who rushed into the end zone to add the final six points of the game which forged the Saint Augustine's Falcons ahead of Morris College, 18-0.

The team from Sumter threatened to score from its 10-yard-line in the early part of the second half but lacked sufficient punch to cross the goal line.

The Falcons played a defensive game for the majority of the second half, putting on a vicious passing attack in closing minutes of the game but failed to score additional points.

St. Augustine's will meet the Bears of Livingstone College, Salisbury, here on Saturday, October 3, at 2 p.m. in Chavis Park.

FALCONS DISCUSS SATURDAY'S GAME — End Edward Chester, left, and Center Theodore Brown stopped discussing their forthcoming game with Livingstone College, October 3, at Chavis Park, long enough to pause for a picture. Chester led the conference several times last season in pass catching. The St. Augustine's Falcons defeated Morris College in their first game of the season by a score of 18-0.
