RALEIGHITE KIDNAPPED, BEATEN

Over 17,000 Welcome First Family:

Crowds Hail LBJs

GREETING THE PRESIDENT—This is a portion of the crowd estimated at 2,000 on hand Tuesday night at the Raleigh-Durham Airport to greet President Lyndon Baines Johnson, Mrs. Johnson and daughter, Lynda Bird Johnson. On the platform with him were his wife, Mrs. Claudia (Lady Bird) Johnson, and their daughter, Lynda Bird. (UPI PHOTO). See stories.

Thousands On Hand To Cheer Trio

Newsmen, policemen and veterans politicians admitted here Tuesday that they had never seen anything like it in the heart of Tobacco Road. The reception given President Lyndon Baines Johnson, Mrs. Johnson and daughter, Lynda Bird, Tuesday night here was just that tremendous. Johnson was almost mobbed by over 2,000 well-wishers waiting in 30-odd degree weather at the Raleigh-Durham Airport to greet him. Authorities at the airport had asked citizens to stay away, because of parking inadequacies, but their pleadings fell on deaf ears. There was also a monumental traffic jam from the airport to Raleigh. The president then had to struggle through a crowd of 2,000 persons to get into Reynolds Coliseum to make his speech to more than 15,000 wildly cheering fans. Located on the campus of North Carolina State University in R. C. here, the Coliseum was almost overflowing.

Kills Own Mother With Axe; Relaxes

Murderer Found On His Porch

(Special To The Carolinian)
ROCKY POINT — Determined not to be outdoors in his cell, to kill George Loftin, Jr., 36-year-old ex-mental patient at Goldsboro's Cherry Hospital, struck his mother with an axe in the back of her head last Saturday morning, knocking her through the closed kitchen window and killed her instantly, Mrs. Ethel Loftin, 54, apparently never knew what hit her. She was preparing breakfast at the time. Earlier in the day, his father, George Loftin Sr., had taken a shotgun away from the young man and hid it in Raymond Meadows, jailor at the Funder County Courthouse, told a CAROLINIAN representative early Wednesday morning, that because of young Loftin's mental condition, he was immediately charged with murder and returned to Cherry Hospital, where he will probably spend the rest of his life. When found, Mrs. Loftin's body was hanging out of the window, with a cut over an eye, caused by the breaking glass at the point of impact. Chief Deputy Roy Bradshaw, Jr., stated Loftin had been a patient at Cherry several times and had been home for about six months. Loftin was spotted sitting calmly on the front porch of his home after the fatal deed. He ran to a nearby wooded area after he saw the cops and put up a struggle before being subdued.

'Comes To' On Lonely Farmland

BY CHARLES R. JONES
A Raleigh Negro man who thought he was befriending three white strangers, allegedly from Maryland, and trying to locate the YMCA, had a second thought moving after he was kidnapped, beaten and robbed by the mysterious trio last Friday night. George Thomas Abston, 28, of 208 Pugh Street, informed Officer T. S. Street, Jr., at 10:15 p. m. Saturday, he led a search party at Cherry Park, where he was waylaid, he was dragged to the corner of Wilmington and Worth Streets by three white men riding in a cream-colored 1961 or 1962 Corvair, and he fled to the YMCA.

A FAMILIAR SCENE — Atlanta restaurateur and arch-segregationist Lester Maddox, left, shoves one of several Negroes who attempted to integrate his "new" restaurant there last week. He opened the "Lester Maddox Cafeteria" on the same site of his old "Pickrick, Inc." However, he is now facing contempt of court charges for failure to integrate as ordered by the courts. Braden, manager of McLellan's Five and Ten Cent Store. Miss Yates reportedly admitted to the cop that she stole one pair of red panties and one bra, valued at $1 and $1.50, respectively. As store officials approached her, she allegedly shoved Miss Julia Woodard, a 21-year-old white salesgirl of the store, into a glass window. "Get Out The Vote"

(An Editorial)
The decision of the National Newspaper Publishers Association to support an all-out "Get Out the Vote" campaign is a sound one in a year of so important a presidential choice. It is true that during the summer there has been great emphasis on the registration of citizens, not only in the South but in the urban areas of the North, as well. While men and women have been paying the supreme sacrifice in the South for the right of the ballot, too many of the residents of the North have adopted a "Let John Do It" attitude about participating in political elections. There can be no excuse why a people, struggling so hard for full equality under the law should be apathetic about the basic right of the ballot. The CAROLINIAN is enthusiastically supporting this campaign which should move more than a token number to the polls on Tuesday, Nov. 3. We stand ready to assist in any way we can in educating and helping those who want and need such assistance. Thanks to the dedication of many groups and organizations, thousands of Negroes have been placed on voting rolls in the South. Every responsible civil rights organization has adopted some form of emphasis on voting. It is now up to every individual to be fully aware of its great potential and act accordingly. In short, we must resolve now to vote in great numbers on Nov. 3. Only in this manner can we perform our individual duty.

"We are a nation of laws, and our greatness is our ability to adjust to national consensus." Mrs. Johnson, whose given name is Claudia, spoke from the rear platform of the gaily colored "Lady Bird Special" as she embarked on the four day tour which takes her through 1,662 mile route covering Virginia, the Carolinas, Georgia, Louisiana and Florida. Three bands from Virginia high schools struck up "Yellow Rose of Texas" as the train pulled in the sliding. They
