Halts Trial Of 200

Decision Reversed In 'Bama

MONTGOMERY, Ala. — The Alabama Court of Appeals has upset the contempt convictions of over 200 Gadsden demonstrators who had been summarily arrested and jailed in June, 1963.

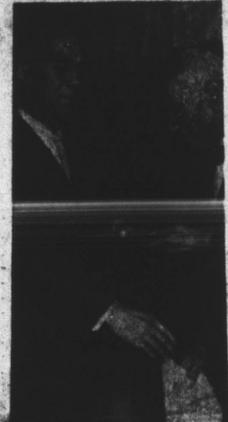

NAACP Legal Defense Fund attorneys, Norman Amaker of New York and Oscar W. Adams Jr. of Birmingham, hailed the favorable ruling but pointed out that the Alabama Court had held up the case for the well-known reason: the state's constitution is a bar to any federal court's jurisdiction.

The demonstrators, some highly respected, were held in the Gadsden County Jail. The court issued an injunction on June 17, 1963, ordering any citizens or groups to stop any further demonstrations.

Immediately upon issuing the injunction, the Circuit Judge verbally instructed the sheriff to arrest anyone participating in protest marches. Within a week almost 200 persons were summarily arrested and jailed without being charged and without bail.

NAACP Legal Defense Fund lawyers then filed a petition for writ of habeas corpus to secure the release of the jailed demonstrators. They asserted that the Civil Rights workers had received no notice of the injunction, had not been given a hearing, had not been charged formally, and had been denied bail.

After a hearing, the Judge denied the petition but finally agreed to set bail. Fund lawyers appealed. (CONTINUED ON PAGE 2)

Georgians Lectured By Lyndon

AUGUSTA, Ga. — Departing from his prepared speech here Tuesday, President Lyndon Baines Johnson let loose a barrage of advice to rude hecklers in this racist Southern city regarding good manners.

He was courteous through the Deep South, where he attacked Sen. Barry M. Goldwater, Republican aspirant for the Presidency by name, and promised to end North-South differences. When he reached Augusta, he was interrupted several times by chants of "We Want Barry."

The President said in his "lecture" on good manners: "I was always taught as a little boy that when people didn't know any better, and when they made mistakes, and when they were rude, and when they didn't show good manners, to turn the other cheek and say 'Dear Lord, please forgive them for they know not what they do.'"

"We just feel sorry," Johnson declared, "and I think that on Nov. 3 they are going to feel sorry, too."

He had faced similar, but less noisy pro-Goldwater chants at Macon, Ga., which included the waving of outspoken anti-Johnson banners and placards.

However, in contrast to his reception at Augusta and Macon, police estimated more than 70,000 Johnson supporters assembled outside the capital building of Columbia, S. C., a politically uncertain city. Said State Senator Edgar A. (CONTINUED ON PAGE 2)

Predicts Victory For Gavin

Editor's Note: The following is part of a statement made to a precinct rally in the North Hills area on Tuesday night, October 27 by Don Kimrey, Republican candidate for the State Senate:

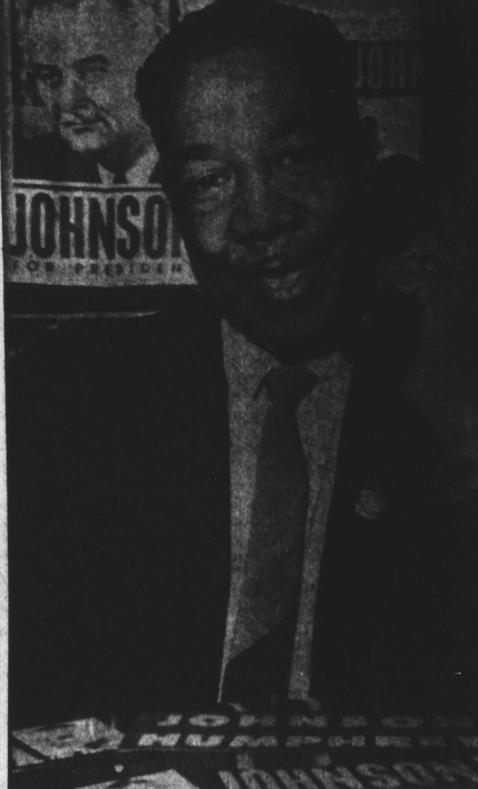

A feeling of victory is in the air among Republicans in North Carolina this year. This feeling cannot be attributed to wishful thinking of various elements which are appearing among the voters this year, but is arrived at from careful study. At this time it appears that Senator Goldwater will carry North Carolina by ten to fifteen thousand votes.

Surprisingly enough our surveys indicate that Mr. Robert L. Gavin will run somewhat stronger than Mr. Goldwater and may carry the state by from thirty to thirty-five thousand votes. Coming closer to (CONTINUED ON PAGE 2)

State Needs 2-Party System

(AN EDITORIAL) The great need for each and every American accepting wholeheartedly and with enthusiasm his unique privilege and responsibility to vote HIS or HER convictions, is more demanding now than ever. At work today are more multiple-minded geniuses seeking to control the minds, means and lives of the world than ever before in its history. We are little different in North Carolina in this science or technique than persons anywhere else.

Among us are astute politicians who know all the approaches and salesmanship. In fact, theirs is a business. One can easily fall victim to an almost hypnotic trance brought on by professionals of the science of politicking. These are the tools and vehicles in the world of politics. It is a right. It is the American way.

However, the American voter has the sole right to his vote. The vote is somewhat like the dollar—you own it until you spend it or lose it. Most of us know how hard it is to hold on to the dollar no matter how many we may be fortunate enough to earn. While the vote doesn't buy merchandise, it belongs to each (CONTINUED ON PAGE 2)

Master Barbers Back Dan Moore

W. Raymond Jones, of Raleigh, secretary of the Master Barbers Association of North Carolina, informed THE CAROLINIAN Tuesday afternoon that this body, boasting 1,000 members, had endorsed Democratic gubernatorial candidate Dan K. Moore for governor of the State.

This action took place, Mr. Jones said, when the Negro group met in the Extension Building at Salisbury on October 18, discussed the issues and decided to back Judge Moore. "We feel that Moore is going to be elected," Jones said.

Preceding this endorsement, however, was a meeting with the Associated Master Barbers Association of North Carolina (white), attended by Jones and S. M. Holt of Durham.

This session took place on Sunday, October 11, at the Holiday Inn in Burlington. The Associated body makes all of the laws relating to barbering in North Carolina.

Jones said he and Mr. Holt asked members of the white group if a Negro might be appointed to the Board of Barber Examiners. He said a Negro barbering inspector is also (CONTINUED ON PAGE 2) needed in the State. "They didn't assure us of anything," Mr. Jones said, "but at least we are now on the ground floor."

He also said the Master Barbers sent a letter to Governor Terry Sanford last July, containing a resolution that Negroes be placed on the board of examiners, and a supervisor of color be appointed.

"For four years we have been struggling for this move," the Raleigh barber concluded. Moore has also been endorsed by the State NAACP conference, while the Southern Christian Leadership Conference of North Carolina has endorsed Republican candidate Robert L. Gavin.
