

Too Many Employees Seek "Instant Negro:" Thomas

Retired Urban League Official A&T Speaker

GREENSBORO — An audience at A&T College was told last week that too many employers in the nation are looking for the "instant Negro."

The speaker was Dr. Julius Thomas, New York City, retired official of the National Urban League and Greensboro native. He was delivering the keynote address at the A&T 4th annual Professional Opportunities Conference.

Dr. Thomas, who described the "instant Negro" as a new type job seeker, denied all his life the opportunity to gain experience at the mid-management level, but like instant tea or coffee, upon a moment's notice, is ready to perform in top level positions.

"We in the Urban League," he said, "get many requests everyday for nuclear physicists, Ph.D.'s in highly technical areas, and the like, but not near so many requests in lower level management areas. They want and expect us to provide the 'instant Negro'."

He told the students that as difficult as the assignment is, they must work that much harder to meet the new challenges and opportunities now available to them.

DEAR SALLY

BY SALLY SHAW
DEAR SALLY: Our daughter is only 16, a sophomore in high school, and has always been a fine girl. But now she keeps after us to permit her to wear lipstick and to go out with boys, "like the other girls do." She claims we've been much too strict because up to now we've ruled these things out. What do you think about this? HER PARENTS.

DEAR PARENTS: I think that 16-year-old girls should be permitted to use lipstick and to have dates—both of these things, of course, in moderation. Too much strictness or discipline can give teen-agers (adults, too) a big feeling of frustration and resentment, too. I think maybe you should loosen the reins just a little, dear parents. Be pals to your daughter—not strict, disapproving disciplinarians.

DEAR SALLY: About a month ago I began going out with a good-looking boy, and we had fine times together. Then one evening he got very fresh with me, and I demanded that he take me home. He did and apologized sincerely. I have since then dated him a number of times and he's been a perfect gentleman. However, I have now found out that he's been going steady with another girl all this time, and that he has been "cheating" on her when he's been out with me. And I have also found out that still another former steady girl friend of his had to give him the gate when she found out that he was "cheating" on her. Under these circumstances, what do you think I should do—forget him, or continue dating him just as though I had heard nothing? F. W. G.

DEAR F. W. G.: How can you even CONSIDER having anything more to do with a guy whose history is one of faithlessness and dishonesty? Tell him goodbye!

DEAR SALLY: What do you think of people who call themselves "souvenir collectors"—people who come home with all sorts of mementoes from places they have visited... towels, silverware, napkins, ashtrays, pens, framed pictures... and in fact just about everything that is detachable or removable from hotels, restaurants and so on? And, of course, most of these items are plainly marked with the names of the places from which they come. Maybe I'm being prudish about this, but I just cannot approve of or condone this habit certain friends of mine have. H. B.

DEAR H. B.: I agree with you. Such self-styled "souvenir collectors" would be more "honest" if they called themselves "thieves."

DEAR SALLY: I'm a bachelor of 33 who has somehow managed to fall in love with a married woman of 28, who has two children, ages 7 and 5. Her husband is 17 years older than she, is a successful businessman, very devoted to her, and very generous to her, too. In fact, she has everything in the world—except happiness. She tells me she is not in love with her husband and never has been, and she says, that would be the price demanded by her husband, she is sure, if she were to ask him for a divorce. She's leaving it up to me. Should I back her up in a demand for a divorce from her husband?

IN A MUDDLE.
DEAR MUDDLE: I think you should check out of this as fast as you can. The kind of woman who would desert a devoted husband and her two small children for what she terms her "first real love" isn't worth your time and trouble!

College on homecoming weekend, which is November 6-7 when the Broncos host the Pirates of Elizabeth City State College.

A full schedule of activities are planned for returning alumni beginning with the "Miss Alumni Ball" on Friday evening, November 6, when Mrs. Quessie A. Drake, "Miss Alumni for 1963," crowns one of the seven candidates running for the title.

An alumni meeting is scheduled on Saturday morning at 11 o'clock. Following the Homecoming game, a Coffee Hour will be held in the Day Student Lounge.

On Saturday evening, the Jammers of Chapel Hill will provide music for the homecoming dance at the National Guard Armory.

CARNATION COOKING HINTS
by Mary Blake
HOME SERVICE DIRECTOR AND HER STAFF

Give ghosts and goblins a special treat this Halloween! Make inexpensive but delicious Creamy Caramel Apples. The rich, smooth caramel covering is made with Carnation Evaporated Milk, the milk that has twice the cream of ordinary milk. Always keep Carnation handy and use it for all your cooking needs.

CREAMY CARAMEL APPLES
(Makes 6 to 8 apples)

- 6 to 8 clean, dry Delicious or Jonathan apples
- 1 cup sugar
- 1/4 teaspoon salt
- 1 cup light corn syrup
- 1/4 cup butter
- 1/2 cup (small cans) undiluted CARNATION EVAPORATED MILK
- 1 teaspoon vanilla
- 1/4 cup chopped nuts

Stick wooden skewer into blossom end of each apple. Combine sugar, salt, corn syrup, butter and Carnation in saucepan. Cook over low heat, stirring constantly, until syrup forms a firm ball in cold water (245°F. on candy thermometer). Add vanilla; stir. Dip apple into caramel mixture, turning until completely coated. Immediately roll bottom half of coated apple in chopped nuts. Place on waxed paper to cool.

Note: If caramel mixture becomes too cool, place over low heat, stirring until desired consistency is reached.
