

Fattigmand

- 5 egg yolks
- 1 egg white
- 2 tablespoons sugar
- 1 1/4 cups flour
- 1/4 cup whipping cream
- 1/4 tsp. grated lemon rind
- 1/4 tsp. cinnamon
- 1/8 tsp. cardamon

Beat eggs and sugar together until well blended. Add whipped cream and lemon rind. Add sifted dry ingredients. Let stand overnight. Roll thin and cut in diamond shapes. Make slit in center of each and pull one corner through slit. Fry in hot fat until brown. Drain on absorbent paper. Dust with sugar.

BEHIND THE HEADLINES

BY CHATWOOD HALL

NEGRO PRESS INTERNATIONAL
There have been times when it seemed that the old abolitionist common sense in racial matters had waned almost into oblivion in America.

Those were the days, in times past, when dedicated New England and other northern women and men trekked into the South to teach the rudiments of education to the freed slaves and their children.

Those were the days when the North, having poured much blood to prevent the United States from being dismembered and, incidentally, to free the slaves, enacted the 13th, 14th and 15th Amendments to the Constitution. These were early examples of civil rights legislation.

Are we now seeing a rebirth and resurgence of the old abolitionist spirit and common sense? The indications are that we are.

Hundreds of young white Americans from the North have been trekking into the South, at great personal risk, to aid Negroes in the implementation of their legal voting rights. These young whites are prototypes of the young Northern white abolitionists of post-Civil War days.

In 1964 the American Congress enacted the Civil Rights Act. And later the American people, with an inundation of their votes, all but wrecked the Republican party together with its racist-tinged and anti-civil rights program.

Indications are that there still remains a great backlog of the old abolitionist spirit and common sense abroad in the land.

"Bring Your High School Diploma." That's what the Male Help Wanted advertisement in a newspaper said.

The jobs? Packers, Stockmen, Porters. Even a large steel mill in the Middle West recently advertised its need for laborers. It also preferred men with high school diplomas.

This ought to be a sobering warning for school dropouts and those toying with the idea of dropping out of school.

If this trend in qualifications for jobs continues, within a few years help wanted ads may begin appearing in the newspapers for taxicab drivers and dishwashers — with M. A. and Ph. D. degrees!

In these fast-changing times, the present and the future look dim and bleak indeed for the uneducated and the undereducated.

removed from control of the British government in the recent elections, strongly opposed the ban. It would be interesting to find out how many members of the Conservative Party rake in solid dividends from the mineral riches dug out of the South African earth by black African miners.

The Labor Party is to be praised for its ban. It is complying with a United Nations Security Council resolution calling for such a ban and it obviously has desire to place more British arms in the hands of South African Prime Minister Heinrich F. Verwoerd's racist government to be used against Africans. Incidentally, and to its credit, the United States government previously had banned the sale of American arms to South Africa. Now the British Labor Party government, like the American government, apparently has no desire to be accessory to the armed oppression and persecution of Africans by the misanthropic South African government.
