A&T College Gets $119,840 NSF Gift For Institute

GREENSBORO — A&T College has been awarded grants totaling $119,840, by the National Science Foundation for the operation of two institutes for high school teachers of chemistry beginning this summer.

Announcement of the award was made last week by Dr. Lewis C. Dowdy, president of the college. The announcement stated that Dr. Gerald A. Edwards, professor and chairman of the Department of Chemistry will serve as director of both institutes.

One of the programs, an Academic Year Institute for High School Teachers of Chemistry, to be operated at a cost of $72,200, begins with a summer quarter on June 14, 1965 through August 14, and continues on September 13 and ends June 4, 1966. The year-round program will be open to 10 participants.

The second program, a Summer Institute in Chemistry for Secondary School Teachers, for which a grant of $45,640, has been allocated, will be operated for nine weeks beginning on June 14, 1965 and extending through August 12. The program will include thirty participants.

Dr. Edwards said that applications to enter either of the institutes should be filed on or before January 20, 1965, and announcement of selections will be made on February 15, 1965.

Try this recipe for Lebkuchen, a traditional German bar cookie. Bring 3-4 cup of honey to boil in a large, heavy saucepan. Cool to lukewarm. Blend in 1-2 cup granulated sugar and 1-4 cup brown sugar. Add 2 eggs and beat well. Sift together 2 1-2 cups sifted enriched flour, 1 1-4 teaspoons cinnamon, 1-4 teaspoon ground cloves and 1-8 teaspoon allspice. Gradually add to egg mixture beating well after each addition. Stir in 1-2 cup each finely chopped candied citron and lemon peel and 3-4 cup chopped blanched almonds. Spread in well-greased 10 1-3 x 15 1-3 inch jelly roll pan. Bake in preheated 300 oven 20 to 25 minutes or until lightly browned. When cool spread with confectioner sugar icing and cut into bars.

Be careful about making promises; some of them can be collected in court.

FAMU's Band Will Perform During Half At NFL Final

CLEVELAND, Ohio — More than 30 minutes in a pre-game spectacular and half-time show during the National Football League Championship Football Game here Sunday, December 27, will add to the laurels of the internationally famous Florida A&M University Marching Band.

When the aggregation of 175 male students from the Tallahassee, Fla., institution performs during the forthcoming game between the Cleveland Browns and the Baltimore Colts, local football fans will experience a unique musical treat. Moreover, Dr. William F. Foster, director of the "Marchingest, playingest, band in the land", will have another memorable experience to share with the nation's band directors.

Featured in an article, entitled, "My Best Half-Time Show," in the October, 1964, issue of Instrumentalist Magazine, the Florida A&M band director described the show presented at the Pro-Playoff Bowl and Nation CBS telecast from the Orange Bowl Stadium last January 5, when the Browns played the Green Bay Packers.

The title of that half-time show was "Television Show Case." It depicted one symbolic aspect of several outstanding television programs, adapting their musical themes to the animation that typified the programs. For example, Dr. Foster explained in the Instrumentalist article that "the 'Astaire' and 'polynomial' Ben Casey' theme was the symbolic music performed in the completed formation of 'OW' and the hyperdermic needle."

Yes, Children Do Get TB

BY VELMA T. JOYNER

NORTH CAROLINA TUBERCULOSIS ASSOCIATION

If it is at all difficult for you to conceive the idea that children—young children—get tuberculosis, make a trip to the State Sanatorium at McCain, N. C.

Here you will find on any given day from 40 to 50 of North Carolina's baby and junior citizens hospitalized with TB.

Hospitalized is the correct word, but one does not get the feeling that he is in a hospital. There is too much activity on the part of the little patients. One may be doing routine "baby calisthenics" in his crib while another is demanding and getting the attention of a nurse. It may be that he is merely holding up a tiny foot to get a shoe lace tied. Somehow, at first sight of them, they walk right into your heart and on the slightest invitation will walk into your arms.
