

We understand that brother Bingham of the defunct Enterprise says that we must not say much about the Enterprise now that its dead; if we do, he will move back to Boone, take the Post Office and resurrect the Enterprise.

We were taught early in life to say nothing of the dead but that which is favorable; therefore we have nothing to say of the dead Enterprise.

We would say however that we enjoyed the little spats we had with brother Bingham during the lifetime of the Enterprise and will not be sorry to see that paper start up again, and if fat Daniel has to give up the Post Office, we would as soon lean Thomas should get it as any of them.

The State Canvassing Board which was to have convened on Thursday according to the law did not transact any business on that day, it being a national holiday. Yesterday the vote on the constitutional amendment and the vote for judges were canvassed. The official count showed the following result on the amendment: 121,961, against 29,392. For judges the vote was as follows:

J. J. Davis,	146,437
J. E. Shepherd	146,780
A. C. Avery	146,167
W. A. Guthrie	130,537
R. P. Buxton	129,747
D. M. Fences	129,581

We copy the following from the News-Observer. It shows what party favors the repeal of the internal revenue. Just as we said in the campaign. Republican Pretensions Exploded.

Senator Vance on Wednesday offered in the Senate an amendment to the Senate tariff bill the provision of the Mills bill relating to the Internal Revenue system. This drew the lines sharply between the Republicans and the Democrats.

These provisions are aimed at the abuses of the Internal Revenue system, and if adopted would relieve that system of its oppressive and odious features. They had been adopted in the House by the democrats against the vote of the Republican party and in the Senate the Democrats voted for them and the Republicans voted against them. This shows how the parties stand. The people can hope for no relief from the Republican party. Their pretensions are exploded.

Attempts to discover what will be Harrison's policy towards the South have been made by many parties, but with little effect. The President-elect usually contents himself with saying that he prefers not to commit himself yet. In an unguarded moment, however, he disclosed his policy. In answer to a letter to the editor of the Greenville, S. C. News, Mr. Harrison closes by saying, "If those who in their hearts believe with us upon these questions (Protection and such, we presume) would act with us some others questions that give you local concern would settle themselves."

This is tantamount to saying, "If you will join the Republican party, we will give you what you want." It is a bid for the Southern vote, but Gen. Harrison underestimates the Southern people if he thinks that they are for sale. State Chronicle

Things Our Doctrine.

Let us as Southerners, be men; not weaklings. Strong in the faith of the American people; not crying beggars at the feet of an opposite party because it has gained the ascendancy over us. Wait for events. Trust in the future welfare of this country. Anything detrimental to the south will right itself in the due course of time. In the meantime let us not lose our self respect in beseeching the President elect and advising him as to how he should treat us, a part of this great nation over which he is to preside.—Durham Recorder.

MORMON MISSIONARIES.

A Lover Rescues a Beautiful Woman from the Elders.

[From Shelby Aurora]

The Mormon disciples are now sowing their seed in the mountains of Western N. C. and making many converts whom they carry to Utah. Four elders, having gained many converts, left last week with a party from Rutherford and Polk for Utah. These missionaries of evil intensity appreciate the beauty of woman and offer a premium on an attractive woman in Utah. So they coveted Miss McKurry as a convert and desired her to accompany her parents to polygamous Utah, but love had previously thrown around her the witchery of its charms and she was engaged to a rustic swain.

Her graceful figure, finely moulded feature, her dazzling and fascinating eyes, and her wealth of luxuriant hair all combined to form a picture of physical perfection and the Mormons desired her and guarded her at night as a precious prize for a rich Mormon. Her lover plead in vain to marry his betrothed, but the parents and Mormons refused twice.

On the night previous to their departure on the train the resolute lover with shot-guns collected a group of young men; charged the guard and captured his imprisoned and beautiful lady, of Rutherford, whom he soon made his bride. The angry father followed in vain pursuit and left next day for Utah without his daughter. These are the crude facts quoted by a minister who was so informed by three responsible gentlemen.
