SENATOR VANCE ON THE RACE QUESTION.

"It is not a question, that can be settled by long speeches and complicated statutes, but it is one that must be left entirely to the Southern people to work out in their own way and in their own time. Our republican friends on the other side of the Senate chamber must have confidence in us and be patient with those men in the Southern States who are honestly and hopefully working to bring about a better condition of things. Those of us in the South who have been brought in contact with the negro ever since we were born are better able to work out this problem than those gentlemen on the other side of the chamber, who are actuated entirely by political motives and the desire for personal notoriety. If they will let us alone and keep their contaminating agents away from the colored people of the South the problem will work itself out to the satisfaction of all concerned.

"It is this constant interference on the part of Northern politicians," continued the Senator, "that causes most of the trouble among the colored people of the South. Why, at this moment I have in my desk letters from colored men in my State asking me to see a certain republican Senator about some money claimed to be due for political work done during the campaign. It appears that these colored men were employed to do certain work for the republican manager in the last contest, and were promised a money consideration for the labor performed. Times are hard and crops are not the best down my way, so these republican workers who put their shoulders to the Harrison wheel want me to help them get their money. I declare, said the Senator, smiling at the idea of presenting the letters in question to one of the richest republicans in the Senate, "I am almost too tender-hearted to do such an uncharitable piece of business. The question in my mind is which will suffer the most? The Senator, upon being brought face to face with such an unrighteous debt, or the poor darkies being kept out of their hard earned money."

Far better than the harsh treatment of medicines which horribly gripe the patient and destroy the coating of the stomach. Dr. J. McLean's Chills and Fever Cure, by mild yet effective action, will cure. Sold at fifty cents a bottle.

Some of the Republicans of the House are much concerned at the course pursued by Speaker Reed. The Speaker should be the moderator of the body, holding an even hand between the warring factions, and keeping the majority from gouging the under dog in the fight. Speaker Reed regards himself as the leader of his party, the partisan generalissimo making hot war on the democratic side, and his conduct contrasts so strikingly with the fair and impartial administration of Mr. Carlisle as to make some of the republicans ashamed. But besides that, they realize that there is a hereafter. The democrats have long held the House, losing it only on two occasions since they gained it in 1874. The republicans have the present body by the slenderest majority, and are likely to fall to the rear again at the next election. Under these circumstances, republican members who appreciate the courtesy and fairness of democratic Speakers in the past, apprehend that in the future the maxim may be invoked, that what is food for the goose may be food for the gander, and they may have the same spoon tendered them which Speaker Reed now forces down the throats of the democrats. The following little joke shows how the wind is blowing:

Representative Houck, himself an ultra radical, likes to badger his democratic friends. He strolled over to the democratic side today and paused by the desk of Mr. Culberson of Texas.

"Culberson," he said, "we republicans have the ideal Speaker. He's the best Speaker who ever presided over this House. He won't recognize a democrat to make a motion to adjourn, he won't recognize the demand of a democrat for tellers, and"—leaning over confidentially—"he is considering a proposition to require the indorsement of two republicans for a democrat to introduce a bill. I'll endorse you, Culberson, if you can get any one for a second."

NOTICE.

Greene, for the sum of $1,546.72, with interest and cost, I will expose to public sale, at the court house door, in Boone, on the 5th day of March 1890, it being the first Monday in said month, to the highest bidder, for cash, L.
