

The Watauga Democrat,

D. B. Dougherty, Editor.
R. C. Rivers, Publisher.

The Cleveland Administration did a great public service in inaugurating a policy of rigid economy, in leaving behind a large surplus as the evidence of their success, and in demonstrating that the burdens of the people could and should be lessened. Defeat was their, perhaps, not unexpected reward. It was hardly to be anticipated that such sturdy blows could be struck at the plunderers at Washington and at the protected trusts throughout the country without begetting a degree of retaliation that in the then evenly balanced condition of parties would give the victory to the side that benefited by the vast corruption fund that determined the last election. The battle will be fought over again under different condition.—San Francisco News Letter.

So after all the blowing to the contrary Brower and his two brother cantankerous Radicals in the Federal House from North Carolina are committed to a Force bill. They want the polls to be under the control of Radical bulldozers just as Fat Tom, the usurper, proposes. We do not know anything in the characters of the trio from North Carolina to lead one to expect anything but partisan manoeuvring and willingness to second any meanness and devilry that will cheat the Democrats. The signs all look to high handed movements on the part of the Radical gang. The Democrats will find themselves in a very bad fix if they abandon party lines now and go out after false gods upon beguiling theories that in the end will only land them deeper in the slough of despond.—Messenger.

Col. L. L. Polk, President of the Farmers' Alliance, said to-night that he was not the author of the McClammy bill, introduced yesterday, which provides for the government to lend money on lands at one per cent. It was, he said, drawn up by his private secretary D. H. Rittenhouse, and he knew nothing about it.

"Indeed," said he to-night, "I have not considered the bill critically, and am not willing to express an opinion upon it yet."

"Then you have not abandoned the sub-treasury?"

"No; we shall not abandon it until it has been squarely defeated, or until some better measure has been proposed. We considered land measures before the sub-treasury bill was prepared, and decided that such measures would not give to the currency sufficient flexibility. However, I have not made a careful enough examination of the McClammy bill to give you an opinion. If, however, after examination, we find this bill better than the sub-treasury, I should be perfectly willing to abandon the latter."

"Do you know the ways and means committee have decided against the sub-treasury bill?"

"Yes, I have heard it, but if this Congress adjourns without doing anything to relieve the farmer, you will hear a howl which will tell on the men who failed to aid them by legislation."

Coughs and colds come uninvited, but you can quickly get rid of these, with a few doses of Dr. J. H. McLean's tar wine Lung Balm.
