

The people of the United States are anxiously looking forward to the incoming Congress for relief, and we wish to speak plainly on this question. Last November the voters of the country, a good majority of them at least, had confidence in the democratic party and voted them into power. The President has already exercised the power conferred. When the Congress and Senate of this great country assembles on the 7th of next month, the democratic party will be held out of the government, and then the full and undisputed responsibility of the party begins. All fair-minded men agree that the present universal hardships have grown out of vicious and class legislation enacted in the past by the republican party. These perilous times now upon us have been slowly but surely tightening their grip and have now reached their culmination. The money sharks have now full control of the vast sums of the hundreds of millions of the money justly belonging to all the people. They control the finances of this great country by taking advantage of the nefarious laws enacted, seemingly, for their benefit. The democratic party soon to assemble in full power, put there by an enraged people over the wrongs done them, are expected to abolish such laws as have so nearly ruined the country, and restore the country again to its natural prosperity and confidence. This seems to be the mission just now of the democratic party. If the party fails to accomplish this end, no one can boast any longer that he is a democrat, and Ben Harrison and his crew had just as well remained in power, for unless a change for the better is soon made our boasted government will be a great big nullity. Chaos, bloodshed, anarchy, communism and all other "cussedness" will run rampant and the very mud-sills of political damnation will be reached. Will the democrats in Congress do their duty? Now is the time. If you fail in this supreme hour, you will prove yourselves to be cowards and traitors.

The First National Bank of Winston has followed suit and suspended. It seems that there is a bad financial system throughout the country, as banks are almost daily closing under. The whole system must be changed. Basicality no doubt has much to do with the failure of many banks throughout the country. Some say it is the depositors who make a rash on the banks who are responsible, while others say that there is not money enough to run the business of the country. All we know about it is there is something wrong that must be righted. Editors and politicians are ever ready to give us the causes of the financial troubles, and the most of them have different views. The populists tell us that free coinage is the remedy for all evils. We have faith in the democratic party to engineer this financial party has never yet failed to restore confidence and prosperity when an opportunity was given, and we believe it will do so again. Let us all uphold and support the administration in its efforts for the people, for everything hangs upon the party-day. Let us have faith in the party and throw no obstacles in its way.

From our Washington Scribe.

WASHINGTON, D. C. July 10. —Speaker Crisp has gone home to get as much rest as possible before the extra session, which public opinion here thinks will run into the regular session which promises to be longer than the usual long session, and those of his friends who were in Washington merely smile to see the antics of the Jerry Simpson party, which is so far only sure of one vote, although it may get those of all the populists. The Jerry Simpsonites, or to be correct Jerry Simpson, has hatched up a wonderful scheme for the defeat of Mr. Crisp by a combination of populists, republicans and silver democrats, who are to support Rep. Julius C. Burrows, of Michigan, for Speaker. Jerry's whole structure is awry. He starts out by assuming that the silver democrats do not wish Mr. Crisp re-elected Speaker, an assumption that there are absolutely no facts to support. No Speaker ever presided over the house with more fairness than Mr. Crisp; not once during the last Congress was he ever accused of making a decision or ruling tinged in the slightest degree with prejudice for or against any measure. Therefore it is nonsense to say that any one is opposed to him on account of fear that he is unfair; he doesn't know how to be unfair.

Jerry's next assumption is also wrong. No democrat, whatever his individual opinion on the silver question, would bolt his party caucus to vote for such a radical republican as Burrows during his long Congressional career has shown himself to be, even if Burrows could get the republican caucus nomination, which he cannot do as long as Tom Reed maintains his ascendancy over the republican representatives and there is nothing to indicate that it has been broken. So the Jerry Simpson party may never grow beyond its originator; as it is by no means certain that the other populists will follow his lead in anything; those who were in the last House didn't do it to any extent.

The re-election of Speaker Crisp is, of course, a certainty, and it is extremely probable that he will enjoy the unusual honor of receiving the nomination by a unanimous vote of the democratic caucus; and there will be no split in the democratic party upon either of the speakerships or any other matter. The leaders of the party recognize that a wide difference of opinion exists in the party as to what financial legislation is necessary, but they are certain that after a careful and calm discussion of the points of difference a common ground will be reached upon which every democrat can stand, and which will thoroughly restore public confidence and restore the prosperity of the country, now suffering because of republican vaporings of demagogues of the Jerry Simpson stripe will cut no figure in the next House.

Senator Vorhees has not as has been repeatedly stated in republican papers, changed his position on the silver question. He favors the repeal of the Sherman law, but that is no change, as he voted against it in the Senate and told the friends of silver who voted for it that they had made a mistake which they would live to regret.

Sec. Gresham says that the administration at no time of the administration has been criticized "silly act" of Minister Blount. That ought to put a stop to the silly lie apparently originated in Hawaii that Minister Blount had been censured because of his preventing the arrest of Mr. Nordhoff, the correspondent, by the pineback government of Hawaii because of his letter criticizing that government and its methods.

There is a class of writers for the press who always lose their heads entirely when a prominent person is the least unwell. Notwithstanding all the silly rot that has been printed about the serious illness of Mr. Cleveland, it can be positively stated that the tooth ache and a slight attack of rheumatism was as near "dangerous illness" as he has been and further that he is daily attending to his official duties, and in constant communication with Private Secretary Therber, who remains at the White House.

Dr. Abernethy will use an original diagram showing all the powers and faculties of the human mind, and their operation in the production of thought. All thinking people are invited. They will be rewarded and benefited.

The North Carolina exhibit at the World's Fair is said to be a very creditable one. In several instances our exhibits are adjacent to those of New York, and are said to compare well with the great Empire State. Our exhibits are in mining, agriculture, horticulture, etc., and are under the direct care of Mr. T. K. Bruner, Commissioner. It is probable that the State has succeeded in placing such an attractive display at the great Fair with as little money as North Carolina. Prudence and economy are characteristics of our people in all matters of public policy.

The Treasury Department resumed the purchase of silver on the 7th, paying 72 cents per ounce.

by many of the people of that State, as well as our neighbors. Gov. Tilman has monopolized the whole traffic of the State, for which he expects to receive $50,000 annually in taxes.

President Cleveland is now at Wray Gables with his family, suffering severely from an acute attack of rheumatism. The strain on his nervous system caused by his arduous labor has, it is said, brought on the attack.

A. J. Drexel, the great banker of the firm of Drexel, Morgan and Co., of New York, died some days since of apoplexy. He was a philanthropist and did many charitable deeds. His wealth is estimated at $30,000,000.
