A Cough

"I have made a most thorough trial of Ayer's Cherry Pectoral and am prepared to say that for all diseases of the lungs it never disappoints."

J. Early Finley, Ironton, O.

Ayer's Cherry Pectoral won't cure rheumatism; we never said it would. It won't cure dyspepsia; we never claimed it. But it will cure coughs and colds of all kinds. We first said this sixty years ago; we've been saying it ever since.

Three sizes: 25c., 50c., $1. All druggists.

Consult your doctor. If he says take it, then do as he says. If he tells you not to take it, then don't take it. He knows. Leave it with him. We are willing.

WASHINGTON LETTER.

From our Regular Correspondent.

The past week in Congress has been one of democratic rejoicing and many jokes have been made at republican expense. The haste with which the republicans rushed through the bill removing the duty from coal to relieve the present emergency demonstrated how correct the democratic contention that a lowering of the tariff is all that is necessary to cause a reduction of prices and defeat the efforts of the trusts to maintain the cost of necessities far above their normal value. By the same measure was demonstrated the sophistry of the republican claim that no single schedule of the Dingley bill could be revised in accordance with the necessities arising from changed conditions without a general revision of the entire tariff and the precipitation of extended financial depression.

A bill providing for the rebating of the duties collected on coal during the next year was reported to the House by the Ways and Means Committee and was passed by the House. It went to the Senate, which so amended it as to place coal on the free list permanently and was returned to the House where the amendment was accepted all the same day. The President signed the measure the next day. Thus the first schedule of the sacred Dingley tariff was revised without any serious results and it is hoped that the precedent established may prove a useful lesson in the future.

Wearing with the doing nothing policy of his own party, Judge Jenkins, chairman of the House committee on Judiciary, has introduced a resolution borrowed from the public ownership plank of the New York democratic platform which, it was claimed, defeated Coler for Governor of that State. Judge Jenkins' resolution calls upon the Judiciary committee to make an examination into the possibility of seizure by the federal government of the coal mines of the country and their operation by the Federal authorities in such emergencies as exist at the present time. Had Mr. Jenkins' resolution been introduced by a democrat it would have been greeted with cries of "anarchy," "socialism," etc., but coming from a re-

A good Recommendation.

"I have noticed that the sale on Chamberlain's Stomach & Liver Tablets is almost invariably to those who have once used them," says Mr. J. H. Weber, a prominent druggist of Cascade, Iowa. What better recommendation could any medicine have than for people to call for when again in need of such a remedy? Try them when you feel dull after eating, when you have a bad taste in your mouth, feel bilious, have no appetite or when troubled with constipation, and you are certain to be delighted with the prompt relief which they afford. publican, and he the chairman of one of the most important committees of the House, it is received with all respect and it is yet possible that Congress may be forced by the strength of public opinion to afford the consumers some relief from the intolerable conditions now prevailing with regard to coal.

The subcommittee of the Judiciary committee, to which was intrusted the drafting of an anti-trust measure in accordance with the recommendation of the Attorney General, evidently made a series of blunders in the performance of their task for they were sent back to do the work over again. They had announced that they would be prepared to favorably report the bill at once, but when it was submitted to Mr. Knox he told the authors it was all wrong and they must do it all over. They are now working under the immediate supervision of Mr. Knox's subordinates and is hoped that eventually they will succeed in framing a measure which will please the people, work no hardship to the trusts and stand the test of the courts.

It is quite obvious that most members on the republican side of the Senate are delighted with the set-back which the Attorney General has administered to the cause of anti-trust legislation. They have from the first desired to avoid all anti-trust legislation. Forced by the determined stand of the President and has announced purpose to call the next Congress in special session if nothing was accomplished at this session, the republican leaders consented to give the matter consideration, stipulating however that any measure which would pass the Senate must be extremely conservative, in other words, must prove innocuous to their favorite corporate interests. Now that a member of the President's Cabinet has taken occasion to hold up the measure and postpone its consideration until a later date, the sentiment is growing that it will be possible to pass the matter over and then say to Mr. Roosevelt that he is responsible for the failure to legislate on the subject as early in the session the Senate was ready to give the matter due consideration.

The President and his

"Some time ago my daughter caught a severe cold. She complained of pains in her chest and had a bad cough. I gave her Chamberlain's Cough Remedy according to directions and in two days she was well and able to go to school. I have used this remedy in my family for the past seven years and have never known it to fail," says James Prendergast, merchant, Annato Bay, Jamaica, West India Island. The pains in the chest indicated an approaching attack of pneumonia, which in this instance was undoubtedly ward off by Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. It counteracts any tendency of a cold to ward pneumonia. Sold by M. B. Blackburn.

closest friends and seriously concerned over the fate of the Cuban treaty. After amending the convention so that American cattle shall receive a 40 per cent concession from the Cuban tariff and adding a clause which provides that during the life of the covenant the duty on sugar shall at no time be lowered below the concession made to Cuba—20 per cent discount from the Dingley rates—the committee on Foreign Relations reported the treaty favorably. Then however it was found that serious objection existed on the democratic side of the chamber and as it will probably require ten democratic votes to ratify, the situation is regarded as grave, although it is the belief of your correspondent that the convention will be approved. Senator Bailey has announced of talking the treaty to death because he believes that it is unconstitutional in that it initiates tariff changes in the Senate and because he believes it will work a hardship to the sugar and tobacco producers for the south.

That President Roosevelt is fast estranging the members of his own party is evident in Washington. There is no question as to the choice of the Senator. With the possible exception of Senator Lodge, there is no doubt but that every republican Senator would cast his ballot for Senator Hanna. There is an alliance between Senators Hanna and Fairbanks by which it is agreed that if when the convention meets Mr. Hanna desires the nomination all of Mr. Fairbanks' strength will be thrown to him but if Mr. Hanna, for any reason, concludes not to enter the race his strength will be thrown to the Indiana Senator. Mr. Roosevelt knows of this combination and is trying to meet it but his lack of familiarity with politics and his headstrongness both stand in his way and it is a question if he will succeed against the wily method of Hanna and Fairbanks.

Remarkable Cure of Croup.

I have a few words to say regarding Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. It saved my little boy's life and I feel that I cannot praise it enough. I bought a bottle of it from A. E. Steere of Goodwin, S. D., and when I got home with it the poor baby could hardly breathe. I gave the medicine as directed every ten minutes until he "threw up" and then I thought sure he was going to choke to death. I had to pull the phlegm out of his mouth in great long strings. I am positive that if I had not got that bottle of cough medicine, my boy would not be on earth today.—JOEL DEMONT, Inwood, Iowa. The Reformatory.

Dr. J. B. Alexander, of Charlotte, writing to the News and Observer of the proposed Reformatory for youthful criminals in North Carolina says:

"It was my good fortune to be entertained by the superintendent of the Reformatory school at Louisville, Ky. two years ago, when the Confederate veterans met in that city. I was there from Wednesday until Monday and made it my business to examine into it thoroughly. The land was bought in 1860-80 acres, on which were built suitable houses for the young criminals, school rooms, work shops, dining rooms, bathing house and a chapel for worship. Just as everything was gotten ready in 1861, the Yankee army took possession and kept it till the fall of 1865. The school was now commenced with a superintendent (Mr. Caldwell who still holds the place) and teachers, instructors in all the departments, with a sufficient guard to see that none escape or do mischief. The Reformatory belongs to the city—not the State. In 1900 it was accommodating 400 pupils—white boys, black boys, white girls and black girls. Each class was kept separate. Each class was subdivided according to age and size. Quite a number of five to eight year old children were there, because neglected by parents or had no one to care for them. They were all fed and clothed by the board of directors. They were taught all kinds of work, and the board decided how long each one should stay, but the time was according to age when admitted, the offense they were guilty of and their behavior while in the reformatory. I enquired particularly about the expense of the Reformatory, that is, what it cost to run it. I was informed that a certain per cent of the city tax was devoted to keep this up, $60,000 was appropriated every year, or rather that was the amount due the Reformatory. The superintendent told me that the expense for one year was $40,000, and the other $20,000 was saved up to build other houses as the Reformatory increased. I made enquiry of the superintendent if he followed the inmates to know of what service they were in after life. "Yes," he answered, "I have kept a watch out for them. I know of a number of first class lawyers, bankers, doctors, merchants, one minister of the gospel and one who was in command of an armed cruiser at the great battle of Manila. Yes, I am proud of my boys. And well he might be proud of them. It will take a considerable sum of money to make a success; but then it will well be worth while to save hundreds of our boys' souls."
