Honor Our Women.

(J. W. Baily in News & Observer.)
To the Editor! I wish to call attention to what seems to me the most obvious duty of the people of North Carolina, namely, the building of a monument to our Women of the Confederacy.

We have our monuments to the Soldiers of the Confederacy. We have recognized our debt to them. So indelibly has the character of their achievements been impressed that a thousand years hence they will continue to march at the head of all the great armies of history. Their glory shall never fade. But we have neglected their wives and mothers and sisters—and for no other reason than that they were women. For we do all know that in valor, in devotion, in suffering and in service they were not surpassed by the heroic names on the battle fields of our Lost Cause. It detracts nothing from but rather adds to the record of the Confederate soldier to say that he was heartened by his sacrifices, maintained in his achievements and inspired in his heroic warring by the wife, the mother, the sister or the sweet-heart who sent him forth with his blessing and throughout the deadly days of his battles kept her heart strong while she maintained his home, nurtured his children, managed his affairs and as often as opportunity was given cheered him with her message and comforted him with the work of her hands. They could not have been the brave men that they were; they could not have maintained the war as they did; they could not have given themselves to the battle with that spirit which won for them their undying glory, had not the Women of the Confederacy, in complete self-effacement, with heroism unsurpassed in human annals, chosen to bear without a word; save words of cheer, all the horrors of a war which stripped them of their protectors and threw them upon their own resources. Imagine what that meant! The mother who gathered her brood about her at fall of night with her heart on the battlefield; who arose with the morning to do her own and her husband's work; who through out the day must expect the worst of news; who made no cry of complaint, but sent on her brave letters; who wrought in heroic endeavor to maintain the new nation; who month after month and year after year endured without any faltering that the soldiers knew of—is she not worthy of the noblest of memorials, if the soldier fought, she wrought; if the soldier gave himself, she gave herself; if the soldier suffered, she suffered; if the soldier died, she died a thousand deaths. And if never shall fade the soldier's fame on our debt to him, neither should her fame and our debt to her. For in truth they are inseparable.

But there are people who say that monuments are vain things. So they are to vain people. But to those who have caught the significance of life monuments are the worthiest works of man. Happy is the people who have them to build. So far the race has proceeded by means of monuments they stand as bulwarks against all downward tendencies whatsoever.

At the foot of that monument to our Confederate soldiers the rising generations resolves to acquit itself not less worthy than they did. It is not then for the sake of the dead or the past that we rear these memorials. It is for the sake of ourselves and those who shall come after us to the last generation. A monument to the Women of the Confederacy will speak a message to the present and future daughters of the South more lofty, more inspiring, more potent for all that is good than any other thing whatsoever. It will go further toward preserving the ideals of that great generation, further toward renewing our civilization in all that best in the Old South, further toward saving the women of a more prosperous period from the temptations of luxury, further toward bringing forth here a race which shall be earth's chief glory, than any other thing that I know of.

And to fail to build this monument will be to convict ourselves of blindness to this immensely significant and sublime fact. But we should not forget our duty to these women. If a monument had no use save that of discharging in its poor measure the debt of a people to their heroic ous, we should build this monument to the Women of the Confederacy. In no other way may we repay them. In no other way may we recognize our debt and render our tribute to them. Our gratitude for illustrious performances and imperishable services should so oppress our hearts for utterance that we must needs arise and express it as fitly as we may. We build monuments not for the future, but in order to express that sense of gratitude and reverence which we can find no other means to so worthily express.

To fail to build this monument to the Women of the Confederacy would be to convict ourselves of indifference to the most heroic women ever endured; to convict ourselves of want of blindness to the value of the most inspiring examples that were ever given to a people; to convict ourselves of want of gratitude and reverence for the noblest service ever rendered. And since it cannot be said that Southern men are wanting in these great elements of manhood, I am assured that they will no longer postpone the discharge of this most obvious honorable duty.

We must not postpone it. These forty years have carried away the large majority of the Men and Women of the Confederacy; and in a short time the remnant will follow after. Before they go the generation that succeeds them should give them this token of the honor in which they shall be forever held, this assurance that their sons and daughters, for whose inheritance they so heroically suffered, are worthy of them.

I know it is not well to go into details at this point, for to do so may produce controversy; and at present it is best for us all to hold to that in which we are agreed. But surely I risk nothing by suggesting that this monument should be of the noblest type. We should not be content with a shaft and bronze figures. The noblest theme requires the most exalted treatment. Rich must be the rendering of a tribute so richly deserved. I would like to see a costly monument of one or several groups symbolic of the Women of the Confederacy, in granite and marble, so noble in conception and execution that the fame of it would run through out the world. And I would like to see it reared by the whole State. It is an undertaking that requires North Carolina her best.

In such a work we should not plead economy. But if one should there is an answer: North Carolina is able. She has built a monument to the Confederate Soldiers, thanks to these women; she has provided a Home and pensions for the needy veterans, she has provided the four months school; she has provided for her educational and charitable institutions. All is bright ahead of North Carolina. The days of her poverty are passed. It would have been beautiful if in those days she had provided a modest memorial to her noblest daughters; but it is better that she has waited until the present time when she can afford to rear a monument that in all its features will speak worthy of a great people's appreciation of their most illustrious and most precious heritage.

The Southern Man.

Charlotte Chronicle.
"The Southern man for President," is having another round. Colonel Bryan having intimated that if he is not to get nominated he might favor a southern man. In a discussion of the matter, The Washington Post seems to think that sectionalism is yet too rankly in the way. "For nearly half a century," says the Post, "citizenship of a Southern State has rendered an American statesman practically ineligible to the office of President of the United States or Vice President as much so as if the man were foreign born of alien parents. Thus the equality of citizenship is denied. Though he had 'Caesar's and Plato's brain,' though he were Burke and Jefferson and Lincoln in one—the mere fact that he is of Southern birth and of Southern residence would bar him from preferment in the national convention of either party. If Mr. Bryan were an ill mannered man we might interpret his discussion of a Southern candidate as something with a trace of a sneer." The Post deprecates the reign of sectionalism and says: "It's time for the thing to stop; but it will not stop: The Democratic party is not a self-governing society. It will do what it is ordered to do, The South will enter the convention of 1908 and vote for a predetermined ticket. There was a time when the Democratic party got its inspiration from the South. Jackson, Polk, Pierce and Buchanan were all nominated upon the dictation of the South. To the list we may add Van Buren, who was nominated at the dictation of a Southern man."

It is but the truth of history that heretofore the South has done what it has been ordered to do in the national convention, but there have been some indications in recent months that this condition of things is not to last for all time. True, it follows out the orders for Bryan's nomination it will be but a repetition of previous performances, and will delay the day of independence and an assertion of self-rights—but will delay it for four years only, for one more experience will be enough. One of these days the South will be forced to assert its political courage.

Remarkable Rescue.

That truth is stranger than fiction has once more been demonstrated in the little town of Fedora, Tenn., the residence of C. V. Pepper. He writes "I was in bed, entirely disabled with hemorrhages of the lungs and throat. Doctors failed to help me, and all hope had fled when I began taking Dr. King's New Discovery. Then instant relief came. The coughing soon ceased; the bleeding diminished rapidly, and in three weeks I was able to go to work." Guaranteed for coughs and colds, 50c. and $1 at all Druggists. The Big Revenue Raid in Stokes.

Winston-Salem Dispatch, 20th.
According to the report received here this afternoon from Mt. Airy, one or two of the blockaders near Smithtown, Stokes county, the settlement raided Wednesday by revenue officers, were shot in the battle between the officers and blockaders. It is learned that one of them was shot through the ear. The ten blockaders captured were carried to Mt. Airy, where yesterday morning they were given a preliminary hearing before a United States commissioner. They were held to appear at the next term of Federal Court at Greensboro, their bonds being fixed at $1,000 each, in default of which they went to jail at Dobson. They will remain in jail there until court meets unless in the meantime bail is arranged.

The raid was the largest and the most successful ever made in North Carolina. The squad of government men was directed by Deputy Collector J. C. S. Norman, of this city. He had 26 assistants, the deputy marshal of this city being one of the number. As was stated in this correspondence yesterday morning, 13 illicit distilleries were captured by the raiders. A man this afternoon from that section stated the revenue officers fell short by at least 25 distilling plants of breaking up illegal whisky making in the Smithtown settlement.

The first thing the officers did upon entering the Smithtown settlement was to arrest a number of women and children, this being done to prevent the spread of the news of their presence in the community. Thirteen stills were located in a radius of two miles. As the band of officers entered the thickets in which they were located, about 100 shots were fired. About 300 gallons of whisky and 25,000 gallons of beer were emptied.

The Magic No. 3.

Number three is a wonderful mascot for Geo. H. Parris, of Cedar Grove, Me., according to a letter which reads: "After suffering much with liver and kidney trouble and becoming greatly discouraged by the failure to find relief, I tried Electric Bitters, and as a result I am a well man to-day. The first bottle relieved and three bottles completed the cure." Guaranteed best remedy for stomach, liver and kidney troubles. For sale by all druggists, 50c.

When in Italy a card was brought to Mme Petti from a man whose name she did not know. When the stranger came in he proved to be a little old man who was red and speechless with nervousness. Suddenly Patti noticed smoke coming out of his coat. Without saying a word she seized a glass of water and threw it over him. The old man had put his lighted cigar into his pocket when he entered the room and so had set fire to his coat. "Sir," said Mme Patti. "I have had many admirers who professed themselves burning with admiration for me, but I have never had before me one who went so far as to set himself on fire to prove it."—Ex.

"I have tried the walking-stick I've carried over 40 years on account of a sore that resisted every kind of treatment until I tried Bucklen's Arnica Salve; that has healed the sore and made me a happy man," writes John Garrett, of North Mills, N. The Cause of Many Sudden Deaths.

There is a disease prevailing in this country most dangerous because so deceptive. Many sudden deaths are caused by it—heart disease, pneumonia, heart failure or apoplexy are often the result of kidney disease. If kidney trouble is allowed to advance the kidney-poisoned blood will attack the vital organs, causing catarrh of the bladder, or the kidneys themselves break down and waste away cell by cell. Bladder troubles almost always result from a derangement of the kidneys and a cure is obtained quickest by a proper treatment of the kidneys. If you are feeling badly you can make no mistake by taking Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney, liver and bladder remedy. It corrects inability to hold urine and scalding pain in passing it, and overcomes that unpleasant necessity of being compelled to go often through the day, and to get up many times during the night. The mild and the extraordinary effect of Swamp-Root is soon realized. It stands the highest for its wonderful cures of the most distressing cases. Swamp-Root is pleasant to take and is sold by all druggists in fifty-cent and one-dollar size bottles. You may have a sample bottle of this wonderful new discovery and a book that tells all about it, both sent free by mail. Address, Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y. When writing mention reading this generous offer in this paper. Don't make any mistake, but remember the name, Swamp-Root, Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, and the address, Binghamton, N. Y., on every bottle.
