The Graham Bust.

News and Observer.

That was a historic event in the State Capitol last night when after the most eloquent address by the bust of William A. Graham was unveiled by Minister William A. Graham the County, in the presence of a distinguished company of prominent North Carolinians, including not a few descendants and relatives of the great man whose honored features were placed in a niche in the Capitol when he had served as Chief Justice of the United States. The address of Mr. Frank Nash, of Hillsboro, was a glowing picture of the State in the time in which Graham was the central and commanding figure. The history of those important decades illumined by the lofty character and distinguished services of William A. Graham, and Mr. Nash's address is a story of an important period of the State's history as well as the picture of a man whose greatness was recognized in national as well as State councils. Capt. Thomas W. Mason, always eloquent and able in his public addresses, gave the picture of Graham and with fitting analysis and portraiture put the William A. Graham of history as a living light and exemplar to the youth of the Commonwealth for all time to come. His delineation of the spirit of the people of the South was classic. The presentation of the bust by Secretary of State J. Bryan Grimes, chairman of the Historical Commission, which conceived and executed the placing of the Graham bust in the niche in the Capitol, was happy and was marked with patriotic fervor. In receiving it for the State, the Governor's brief speech was in his best vein and was worthy of the historic occasion.

The Historical Commission is to be commended and congratulated—to be commended for the conception of the idea of putting the bust of a famous North Carolinian in the niches in the Capitol, and to be congratulated in the perfection of the work of the first bust that has been placed in position. The work by Barlett was pronounced a perfect likeness by Gov. Graham's sons and old men who knew him. They did not err in selecting Graham as the first man to be thus honored, for in the annals of North Carolina no name stands higher as an able and capable public servant of high ideals and broad statesmanship than that of William A. Graham. He was not only recognized as a leader of the first order of ability in his State, which gave him the highest honor, but as well in the Senate of the United States and the Confederate States of America, an cabinet officer, a candidate for Vice-President and wise leader of the party he was a national figure whose ripe judgment and splendid ability gave him place among "the few, the immortal names that were not born to die."

A Horrible Hold-Up.

"About ten years ago my brother was 'held up' in his work, health and happiness by what was believed to be hopeless Consumption," writes W. R. Lipscomb, of Washington, N. C. "He took all kinds of remedies and treatment from several doctors but found no help until he used Dr. King's New Discovery and was wholly cured by six bottles. He is a well man today." It's quick to relieve and the surest cure for weak or sore lungs, hemorrhages, coughs and colds, bronchitis, grippe, asthma, and all bronchial affections. 50c, and $1.00. Guaranteed by all druggists.

A Lost Art.

Not long ago there was a lecture delivered in St. Louis, on the subject of the lost art of the small, so-called gathering."

It was particularly impressed by one statement concerning the immense size of some of the blocks of stone used in the temples of Bambee and the pyramids of Egypt, and the enormous weight of the great granite blocks, from which were been the great statues of kings and gods. Some of these blocks are computed to weigh seventy-five or eighty tons, and the laborer instructed that the ancients must have possessed engineering machinery superior to our own to be able to lift and transport stones of such immense size and weight.

"As a fact, the great cranes employed in our gunnery and armor plate works would pick up such blocks and carry them off as easily as though they were of wood.

There is no mystery at all about the way in which these blocks were moved. In several histories of Egypt there are reproduced pictures found on the wall of an Egyptian tomb which represents the moving of one of the great statues. Scenes of ropes were attached to it, and hundreds of men stand ready waiting for the signal to pull. The statue is on a plank road and rests on rollers. Men with jars of oil are greasing the rollers, taking them out behind and placing them in position in front. The superintendent of the work stands on the pedestal with a trumpet by his side. In the next picture he gives the signal, the trumpet sounds, and every body pulls for dear life, while overseers run up and down the line with whips in their hands making sure that the pulling is well done.

"This is one of the lost arts and no one need regret that it is lost. We accomplish by industry and skill, what the old-timers did by force. It is not probable that anything of value has ever been lost, and what is more to the purpose, we know a hundred, perhaps a thousand, useful things of which the ancients had no conception.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

President helps Orphans.

Hundreds of orphans have been helped by the President of The Industrial and Orphan's Home at Macon, Ga., who writes: "We have used Electric Bitters in this Institution for nine years. It has proved a most excellent medicine for stomach, kidney and liver troubles. We regard it as one of the best family medicines on earth." It invigorates the vital organs, purifies the blood, aids digestion, creates appetite. To strengthen and build up thin, pale, weak children or run-down people it has no equal. Best for female complaints. Only 50c at all dealers.

Old man Morse may know that he has done no worse than others in his line of business, but this does not keep it from being a crime.—Durham Herald.

The busiest and mightiest little thing that ever was made is Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets. They do the work whenever you require their aid. These tablets change weakness into strength, listlessness into energy, gloominess into joyousness. Their action is so gentle one don't realize they have taken a purgative. Sold by J. M. Hodges.

HE LEFT THE WORLD BETTER

The Charlotte News.

It is not the bravest man who performs some act of valor when he is displaying martial strain, and the cheers of admirers set his blood tingling with daring resolves.

The real hero is the man who is sometimes found in the ranks of most important states of things—who labors and toils faithfully in the way where Fortune has cast his lot.

Solomon Jones was 80 years old when he died, and in his service to his fellowmen. The French front in the days of this glowing tribune.

"There is no doubt that which runs from Hendersonville, North Carolina, to the summit of Mt. Hood, near by. On a clear, far-looking night of this highway there is a handsome place, and on it is the epitaph:

Here lies Solomon Jones, The Roadmaker,
A True Patriot,
He labored fifty years to have the world better than he found it.

A traveler who saw it in journeying through the South, was so impressed with this epitaph that he wrote to the "World's Work" about it, and it was reprinted there in all its forceful simplicity.

Those young people who have vague longings for patriotism will do well to consider Solomon Jones. Like everybody else in the world, he lived on a road or street. But unlike many others, when he wanted to serve his country and make the world better, he set to work right on that road—his own native, obscure road, not a far-away, glittering highway of dreams. There was where his patriotism came right down to facts and action. A story maintain road is not poetic; it is exasperating and tedious. The task of making it better is hard and not spectacular, and the neighbors are not usually eager to lend a hand. It is not a matter of a week or a year either. Solomon Jones worked fifty years, and probably was laughed at and criticized for twenty-five. But he was a patriot—a true patriot—the kind of patriot that every neighborhood needs if America is to be greater every year. Who will follow Solomon Jones' example? Each one should.

The Merchants Troubles.

There are a few people in this burg and pretty nice people too, who will enter a grocery store, run their fingers into a barrel and lop up a couple ounces of sugar, nibble at the back of a herring, eat a handful of nuts, cut off a slice of cheese, just to taste, then, as matter of course, must take a few crackers; and perhaps before they have made up their mind to buy a bar of soap they have eaten up the profits on $2 worth of groceries, and to wind it all up they have it charged, and the poor merchant perhaps realizes a profit of one cent. They leave the store munching a couple of apples. This is no dream but a reality, except sometimes they don't buy any soap. But such is life.—Waxhaw Enterprise.
