The X Mark.

Some of our subscribers are wondering why their paper bears an X mark these days. Dearly beloved, let me break the news gently. It means that for many days we have longed to see your smiling face in our spectrum, or to receive a "love letter" from you. It means that the editor hasn't starved to death up to the present time. It means that our rents, wood bill, paper bill and ration bill remain unpaid. It means that we are a long suffering mortal, and that we look to you for our daily bread. Should you find a cross mark after your name, it means that we fear you have forgotten us. It means that the price of bread and meat have gone up, and starvation stares us in the face. It means that this is the only way we have of telling a man that he is owing us, as we are not able to buy stamps to mail each of our subscribers a letter. Yes, beloved, it is just a gentle reminder that you are owing us and that we need the money badly. Our expenses have been heavy this winter, and at the price we charge for our paper we are compelled to get what is owing us, or suffer. If we charged a dollar a year for our paper, we could afford to lose some on bad accounts, but since the paper is only 50 cents a year, we cannot live if our subscribers do not pay us, but have neglected to do so. There are hundreds of our friends who are owing us, and we hope they will consider this a personal appeal. We trust that no one will take offense at what we have said, as it is not our intention to offend any one. Our office is upstairs in the Angel building, where we can be found every wednesday between the hours of 7 a.m. and 6 p.m. The large string hangs outside the door.—Mocksville Record.

A Tragedy of Whiskers.

Philadelphia Record.

Simeon Ford said the other day, apropos of whiskers:

"I have shaved off my whiskers and it makes me look younger. People now eye me more appreciatively than they used to do. I, unlike poor Tom Angus, have gained by this facial change."

"Tom Angus was an architect of Tombstone. When they expected Mrs. Langtry in Tombstone, Tom was appointed to decorate the railway station and the streets. He did so, and he made a good job of it, and after the mayors had congratulated him, he said:

"Well, Mr. Mayor, since you like my work, introduce me to Mrs. Langtry at the banquet, will you?"

"Sure I will," said the mayor; but you must knock that spinach off your chin first. Mrs. Langtry is a lady and she could never stand for a rusty alfalfa field like yours."

"But," stammered Tom, "but Mr. Mayor, 'the king'—"

"Cut down the alfalfa crop" the mayor interrupted, and I'll introduce you. Vice versa, he added very decidedly.

"So Tom removed his rich whiskers, and that night among the banqueters his white, nude chin was a conspicuous object.

"But the mayor did not introduce him to the beautiful Mrs. Langtry after all. Between every course and all through the speeches Tom kept winking and nodding to his honor, but it was to no purpose. He didn't get introduced.

"And the next day, after Mrs. Langtry had gone, the mayor, when Tom approached him, gave a loud laugh.

"Was that you," he roared, "nodding and winking all last night? By Jove, I didn't know you without your whiskers!"

To grow old is sad, indeed, if what you want is to hold back the receding years, to keep your hair from growing white, your eyes from becoming dim and the wrinkles from chiseling their way across your brow. But if from all these vicissitudes to which life subjects you, you draw a bit of wisdom, of profit, of goodness to grow old is to become mellow and large. One of the most beautiful things in the world is an old person who, made better by experience, more indulgent, more charitable, loves mankind in spite of its wretchedness and adores youth without the slightest tendency to mimic it. Such a person is like an old Stradivarius whose tone has become so sweet that its value is increased a hundredfold, and it seems almost to have a soul.—Leinster Topic.

The tyrannical Sampson of the House of Representatives Speaker Cannon, has been shorn of his power, and the Delilah who trimmed his locks was none other than the insurgent Republicans, who, aided by the Democrats, voted the Speaker off of the committee on rules. Every family and especially those who reside in the country should be provided at all times with a bottle of Chamberlain's Liniment. In Bad Fix

"I had a mishap at the age of 41, which left me in bad fix," writes Mrs. Georgia Usher, of Conyers, Ga.

"I was unconscious for three days, and after that I would have fainting spells, dizziness, nervousness, sick headache, heart palpitation and many strange feelings.

"I suffered greatly with ailments due to the change of life and had 3 doctors, but they did no good, so I concluded to try Cardui.

"Since taking Cardui, I am so much better and can do all my housework."

Take CARDUI
