Work.

Work is what you make it—a drudgery or a joy. Work is the bread upon the waters. Work is the genius of application. Work is the cure of laziness, riches and indigestion and poverty. Work is the philosophy of life. Work is what the loafer shuns and sees his reward. Work is prosperity. Work gives you back self-respect. Work keeps the wolf from the door, also the rent agent. Work keeps some people out of the poor house, others out of jail. Work is a substitute of genius. Work dispels sorrow. Work shortens the day and lengthens the pay. Work is the great leveler of mankind. Work is good enough for anyone. Work makes play the more enjoyable. Work makes life worth living. Work is economy of time. Work is forgetting the clock. Work is concentrating the mind on something you are doing. Work is the hardest thing in world to avoid, and the easiest to take up when you get the habit. Work is the ladder upon which men climb to success. Work is always at your hand. Work and you will find it. Work is oil upon the troubled sea of our lives. Remember, there is money in oil.—Lantern.

Birch Rod Needed.

The Yarkin Ripple says that in the Baltimore section of Yarkin county card playing and gambling it is said, is becoming a menace to society. Most of the participants are young men. Parents cannot find their boys on Sunday without going to the games, of which there are many, and players come in from a radius of five to six miles. Practically all the playing is done on Sunday and it is nothing strange to see them using as many as half dozen decks at one place. According to the versions of the Ripple there seems to be need of the application of what many of us remember in our boyhood days and that was the birch rod, which on more than one occasion brought us to a living sense of our duty when kindness and persuasion failed.—Union Republican.

[The same sort of birch rod is needed in these diggings for the same sort of business. The trouble is that no parent around here will believe that his boy would do such a thing. However some body's boys whether they have any parents or not, are doing such things every Sunday and a lot of the time between Sundays too.—Wilkes Chronicle.]

[The Democrat, from information received, thinks some boys in this part of the woods needs the same old birchen rod applied.—Ed.]

Do You Get The Best.

Learn to Forget.

To forget—that is what we need. Just to forget. All the petty annoyances, all the vexing irritations, all the mean words, all the unkind acts, the deep wrongs, the bitter disappointments—just let them go, don't hang on to them. Learn to forget. Make a study of it. Practice it. Become an expert at forgetting. Train the faculty of the mind until it is strong and virile. Then the memory will have fewer things to remember, and it will become quick and alert in remembering the things that are worth remembering. It will not be embarrassed with disagreeable things, and all its attention will be given to the beautiful things, to the worth-while things. No matter what business you are pursuing, no matter what literary subjects you may be studying, no matter what scientific problems you are trying to solve, take up the study of forgetting. The art of forgetting will give added lustre to all your literary, business or scientific attainments and it will add immeasurably to health of mind and body.—Ex.
