NEWLAND WILL NOT RUN.

News and Observer.

Lieutenant Governor William C. Newland announces that he is not to be in the race for Governor of North Carolina and yesterday passing through the city authorized this statement by the News and Observer. He was on his way to the eastern part of the state.

"No, my 'at is not in the ring," he said in answer to a query propounded in Rooseveltian vernacular. "But," he continued, "if I live four years longer and I haven't had at that time it will surely be in the ring."

"I have decided not to enter the race for Governor this time for the reason that there seems to be an understanding that Mr. Craig was virtually promised the nomination four years ago, and that by right of his party service, he is entitled to the nomination by acclamation. I am further moved to take this course because my entrance into the race would have precipitated a hot fight and have disturbed the peace and the tranquility that now hover over our grand old State. I much prefer to see an absolutely united party in the campaign than to be Governor, and besides, Mr. Craig will make an ideal executive. He has been my second choice for the past four years, Newland being my first."

"I have had a great many offers of support from all over the state and to those friends I want to express my highest appreciation and gratitude."

Governor Newland was asked if he expected to take an active part in the coming campaign and replied "My services in the future, as they have been in the past, will be at the command of my party, and it is in its wisdom the Democracy thinks it is better to work Mr. Craig in the lead, I am only too glad to work as a wheel. Whatever duty may be assigned me in the coming fight, I will be found doing to the best of my ability. Well, my train's coming, I must go. I hope the Lord may learn to love you. Good bye."

The determination of Mr. Newland not to put his hat in the ring will be generally applauded. His declaration that he prefers to see the party united and at peace, will be taken from him at its true value. Like the gentleman to whom he gives way, he knows how to make the sacrifice and like him also, he doesn't know how to be selfish.

Governor Newland is known well over the State and his candidacy, had it been announced, would have found many distinguished Democrats supporting it. He has hundreds and thousands of warm personal and political friends.

He has been prominent in the politics of the State and in the Legislature was one of the leaders when he served there. He was one of the most active men in the temperance cause and took to it in its youth and period of least popularity. The single defeat that he suffered in his political career was as the Democratic nominee for Congress in the eighth district, when Spencer Blackburn, at the height of a brilliant career, barely nosed out a victory in the whisky district of the State and won on the unpopularity of the Watts and Ward laws. Newland put up a fight and led his ticket.

He was a solicitor in the corresponding judicial district, defeating Blackburn there and making a name as a prosecutor the democratic state convention nominated him for the office of Lieutenant Governor at the Charlotte meeting that Named

THEODORE ROOSEVELT

(With Apologies to Edgar A. Poe.)

Teddy—upon a midnight dreary Pondering—weak and weary; Eminating if the nomination Would be his as 'twas before;
When lo, there came a tapping,
As of some one impatiently rapping, Like of old at the white house door "Tis some 'Heeler' in want," he said "Simply that and nothing more."

Opening wide, he flung the shutter, When, with a strut, a swerving flutter, In there strode a ghastly form—a crow
As black as howling midnight's storm
And perched upon the bust of Nero, Just above his office door Perched and set—and nothing more.

"Prophet," said he, "good or evil, Standpat or Insurgent devil, Tell me this, tell me quickly I implore Who will get the nomination At the Chicago convention?
Will they give it to me as before?" Quoth the crow, "Theodore, never, never more."

"Prophet!" yelled he "thing of evil, Wilson democrat or devil, Get thee hence from off my door!
But the crow, never fluttering, Still is sitting, still is sitting,
On the bust of Nero glaring.

Gloating at me like a demon, from the bust above my door.

"Oh, I feel my chance is sinking, That others, too, are thinking, While that bird sits there aglaring Eve-eyed still perched and blinking.
Creaking still in ghastly tones:
"Theodore, never, never more."

Glorious News.

Comes from Dr. J. T. Curtiss, Dwight, Kans. He writes: "I not only have cured bad cases of eczema in my patients with Electric Bitters, but also cured myself by them of the same disease. I feel sure that they will cure any case of eczema." This shows what thousands have proved, that Electric Bitters is a most effective blood purifier. It's an excellent remedy for eczema, tetter, salt rheum, ulcers, boils and running sores. It stimu-lates the liver, kidneys and bowels, expels poisons, helps digestion, builds up the strength. Price 50c.
Satisfaction guaranteed by all drug gists.

Gov. W. W. Kitchin. It came unsought. As presiding officer over the Senate, he was admittedly one of the finest ones that this body has had and his never-failing attendance upon all its duties endeared him all the more to the people. Personal and politically, he is a lovable man. He doesn't know what trickery or time-serving means.

This action by Governor Newland practically clears the field of any possibility of opposition to Craig and makes the western gentleman the nominee beyond every doubt. It brings back memories of 1900 when the State united upon Hon. Charles B. Ay-cock and made him the nominee by acclamation and elected him practically by an unanimous vote.
It makes pretty certain too, that in the coming fight the Republicans will have a party to face that has not one obstacle to overcome in a presidential year and that there will be in November one of the old-time fifty thousand majorities. Everything points that way now and the last prospect of a party fight appears to be gone. Mr. Craig will enter the real campaign with a party entirely committed to him and that before the convention meets.

As Clarence Poe Sees It.

The biggest political surprise of last week was the result of the North Dakota Republican Presidential primary where Senator LaFollette let Colonel Roosevelt by a majority of two to one, and Taft's vote was amazing small.
It is understood that the conservative Republicans who would ordinarily have supported Taft voted for Roosevelt in the hope of carrying the State for the colonel against LaFollette. The LaFollette force has gained much face in the remarkable victory and the Roosevelt boom has lost much. The writer was at the colonel's banquet in Philadelphia when Senator LaFollette made his disastrous speech. The speech, of course, was a failure, and showed that the speaker was on the verge of a breakdown. At the same time, we do not believe that one tenth as much would have been made of it but for an organized effort on the part of Roosevelt supporters to put La-Follette out of the running. Having taken a rest, it is the Wisconsin Senators hat that is now in the ring and he will conduct an aggressive campaign from now on. Even more advance in his views than Woodrow Wilson, LaFollette is a man passionately devoted to the public good, but personally cold, and evidently too quick to mistrust the motives of those who do not agree with him. There is yet quite a possibility that Roosevelt may get the nomination, but just now his chances are getting no better last.

In the Democratic Party, the aggressive National wide fight on Woodrow Wilson goes on—evidently with all of Wall Street's money back of it, while Wm. R.
Hearst leads his influence to the same end. Verily, politics does make strange bed-fellows. The foremost charge against Wilson is inconsistency in that the things he says now, after some practical experience in politics are not wholly the same things he said twenty years ago. From our standpoint, that is very much to his credit. Abraham Lincoln once said: "I have changed my mind; I know more than I did yesterday." The masses of the people have progressed as much in their ideas as Woodrow Wilson has. What the people want is a man whose consistency is consistency of haracter rather than views. The real test, too, is not what Woodrow Wilson has said, but what he has done, and as Governor of New Jersey, he has certainly accomplished greater things and brought about a finer program of constructive legislation for the public good than perhaps any other Governor has ever accomplished under like circumstances. It is not our custom to take such interest in the candidacy of a man, and we do so now only because we believe Wall Street and the big interests are sparing neither time nor money in an effort to defeat the one man whose nomination and election would insure a wise, well-planned, and successful campaign against the great abuses that have crept into our national government—a abuses by means of which these big interests have fattened and grown powerful. It deserves to be noted by the way, that the big interests have a distinct grip on many of our party organizations in the South, and the people must be alert to prevent them from delivering the Southern delegation at the National Convention.
We should have primaries in every State, enabling the people themselves to say whom they favor for President.—Progressive

FLY SEASON COMING.

N. C. Health Bulletin.

These days mark the dawn of another fly season. In fact, recent advice indicates that an occasional fly has been sighted here and there. Swat him, and do it now. Remember, so far as the fly question is concerned, a swat in time saves nine. Some enthusiastic mathematician has figured out for us, that laboring under perfect conditions, a Mrs.
Fly will lay 120 eggs, which mature into flies in from twelve to fifteen days. Swat her. These in turn produce 7,200 grandchildren ten to fifteen days later.
Swat them. The next generation, we are told, reaches the enormous number of 432,000, to be swatted. And so on, until by fall or late summer our mathe-matician estimates that the grand total number of fecundants of this one original Mrs. Fly amount to some 1,096,181,249, 310,720,000,000,000,000 or a mass having a cubical content greater than the earth itself. TOO MANY TO SWAT. A few cyphers more or less mean nothing to us. Such figures are mathematics gone mad. It simply emphasizes the fact that a swat in time saves nine, if not more. As a matter of fact, comparatively few descendants from each successive generation of flies ever live to reach maturity or old age.
A very few withstand the rigors of winter, and herein lies our cue.
If we can successfully combat these few now, and abolish their breeding places our lot for the summer will be easier.

It has been well said that "A man's flies are they of his household." We are fast learning that the number of flies in a house or community is an excellent index to the sanitary conditions or cleanliness of that house or community. Some day soon, we will consider the fly as much a disgrace in our home as we now consider the bedbug. In fact, it is already, but we don't know it yet.

To a very large extent our freedom from flies for the summer depends on the effectiveness of our first attacks during the next few months. Five or ten cent investments in wire cloth fly swatters placed in the hands of small boys and girls yield excellent returns. Their enormous amount of exuberance and youthful enthusiasm may be put to good purpose in this manner, instead of letting it run to waste under the name of mischief. In the mean time, if all possible breeding places, such as manure piles, night soil, garbage, and filth of all kinds are effectively destroyed, removed or buried, the result so far as flies and diseases are concerned will be well worth the effort. Let's try it.

Repels Attack of Death.

Five years ago two doctors told me I had only two years to live." This startling statement was made by Stillman Green, Malachite, Col.
"They told me I would die of consumption. It was then up to me to try the best lung medicine and I began to use Dr. King's New Discovery. It was well I did, for today I am working and believe I owe my life to this great throat and lung cure that has cheated the grave of another victim." It's folly to suffer with coughs, colds or other throat and lung troubles now. Take the cure that's the safest. Price 50c

The Golden Rule

Statesville Landmark.

The one safe rule of conduct for life, the observance of which would mean practically justice and righteousness for all the world, is the Golden Rule. Its observance is probably more neglected than any other rule of human conduct, but it cannot be too often called to mind. The Chicago Record-Herald has made a compilation showing that this rule has been laid down for all nations and all religions in all ages. It is expressed in different words, but the meaning is the same. Here is the compilation:

Christian—All things whatsoever ye would that men should do to you, do ye even so to them

Persian—Do as you would be done by.

Grecian—Do not that to a neighbor which you would take ill from him.

Chinese—What you would not wish done to yourself do not do unto others.

Buddhist—One should seek for others the happiness one desires for one's self.

Egyptian—He sought for others the good he desired for himself. Let him pass on.

Mohammedan—Let none of you treat his brother in a way he himself would dislike to be treated.

Hindu—The true rule of life is to guard and do by the things of others as they do by their own.

Roman—The law imprinted on the hearts of all men is to love the members of society as themselves.

Backache Almost Unbrarable.

Is an almost certain result of kidney trouble. D. Toomey, 303, E.
Olive St., Bloomington, Ill., says:
"I suffered with backache and pains in my kidneys which were almost unbearable. I gave Foley's Kidney Pills a good trial, and they done wonders for me. Today I can do a hard day's work and not feel the effects." For sale by all dealers.

MEXICAN MUSTANG LINIMENT

CURED A BAD SPAVIN.

Mr. B. H. Ivey, Marion, N. C., writes:
"My horse had a very bad case of spavin and nothing did any good until I tried your Mustang Liniment. I rubbed the spavin frequently with the liniment and soon saw an improvement. I did this three or four times a day and my horse was completely cured. It is sure to cure if properly used."

FOR HORNET STINGS.

Mr. S. J. Hudson, Newbern, N. C., writes:
"I have used Mexican Mustang Liniment for different ailments and have found it an excellent liniment. At one time my mare was badly stung by hornets but your liniment quickly cured her. I have recommended it to others hundreds of times."

CURES SWINNEY.

Mr. R. S. Shelton, Hill, N. C., writes:
"I used Mexican Mustang Liniment on a very valuable horse for swinney and it cured it. I always keep it in my stable and think it the best liniment for rubs and galls." It contains no alcohol and so cannot sting in case of open wounds or burns.
Soothes and cools at once. Just try it.

For BURNS and BRUISES.

Mr. W. V. Clifton, Raleigh, N. C., writes:
"I keep a bottle of Mexican Mustang Liniment in my house continually for general use. It is the finest thing in the world for cuts, burns and bruises."
