Quarterly Conference at Blackburn's Chapel.

Mr. Editor:—The Methodist quarterly conference for Boone circuit was held at Blackburn's Chapel on Saturday and Sunday June 1 and 2. The Presiding Elder had set the time, unintentionally, so as to conflict with the regular meeting time of South Fork Baptist Church, which is located only a few hundred yards from the chapel.

On Saturday the Presiding Elder sent a message to Rev. C. S. Farthing, pastor of South Fork, kindly inviting him to bring down his congregation Sunday to the Conference. The explanation contained in the invitation being highly satisfactory to Brother Calvin Farthing, after Sunday school, motion carried to adjourn and attend the conference.

A most enthusiastic congregation, led by the superintendent, pastor and teachers of the Sunday school marched to the chapel, arriving on time and were cordially greeted by the Presiding Elder and official members of the church, after which the united congregations were highly entertained by eagerly listening to a most eloquent and logical sermon delivered by the Presiding Elder from the text, "Thy Kingdom Come"—Matthew 6:10.

The able minister discussed the great importance of the reign of Christ over the hearts of men. The meeting was indeed a most enjoyable occasion for all, demonstrating the great need of a more united effort to fill the earth with the story of Christ, and with the spirit of His life. It's the duty as well as the privilege of all christians regardless of denominational belief to join hand in hand to relieve distress, to provide for the unfortunate and to administer the gospel of practical beneficence, recognizing no distinction between the different nationalities but every inscribed on their banner the doctrine of the universal brotherhood of man.

After the service was over and the people were returning to their respective places of abode more than twenty-five people were caught in a shower of rain, but soon found shelter in the splendid home of Mr. John L. Tatum. A refuge from the storm was not all they received from the kind and hospitable home, the good woman soon prepared a most sumptuous dinner and everybody was made to feel that humanity to man was a great part of our religion.

Man Coughs and Breaks Ribs.

After a frightful coughing spell a man in Neenah, Wis., felt terrible pains in his side and his doctor found two ribs had been broken. What agony Dr. King's New Discovery would have saved him. A few tea spoonfuls ends a late cough, while persistent use routs obstinate coughs expels stubborn colds or heals weak sore lungs. "I feel are its a God-send to humanity," writes Mrs. Etie Morton, Columbia, Mo. "for I believe I would have consumption today, if I had not used this great remedy." Its guaranteed to satisfy and you can get a free trial bottle or 50 cent or $1.00 size at all druggists.

There is always joy, though sometimes is covered up with other things. We must find it and divide it, for only in that way it grows.—Myrtle Reed.

Move On Now!

says a policeman to a street crowd, and whacks heads if it don't. "Move on now," says the big, harsh miner al pills to bowel congestion and sul feating follows. Dr. King's Life Pills don't bulldoze the bowels. They gently persuade them to right action, and health follows. 25 c at all druggists.

Taft's Punishment.

The recent preferential primaries, are concerned, furnish one verdict, and that is, however much those who have remained loyal to Mr. Taft regret to admit it, that the president has been tried in the popular courts and found wanting. The fact that he has been roughly and unfairly used by the Lion Hunter should not, and evidently does not blind a great percentage of the American electorate to the fact that the president did not keep good faith with the American people in several questions of national import to which he had promised early attention.

First and foremost was President Taft's flat declaration that the time had come for tariff revision downward. This statement he made in response to the popular demand which was growing over the country at a truly alarming rate. The president's bad faith was first discernible when he declared unblushingly in a public speech, less than a year after his inauguration, that the Payne-Aldrich monstrosity was "the best tariff bill ever devised." The resentment of the American people was emphatically expressed in 1910 when in the fall elections in various sections of the country the republican congressional majority of forty-seven was changed to a democratic majority of sixty-eight. The voters who placed Taft in the white house in 1908 were betrayed, and two years later they sharply called the Republican administration's attention to the fact that such breach of promise could not go unpunished.

Where there are two great political parties the voter really holds the balance of power: when he finds himself betrayed he has but one alternative. If he has been deceived in the integrity of the whom he professes faith, he can only resent the abuse of his confidence and register protest by voting against the public official the agent of the party who has violated his trust.

Thus the tariff betrayal was the first count whereon President Taft was indicated two years after his entry into the white house. But the voters who have just expressed their want of confidence in him kept other things in mind as well as the tariff. They remember the president's treatment of Gifford Pinchot, the Ballinger scandal, the Controller Bay grab, the Cunningham land steal and, finally, the president's participation in the false dating of a letter which approved Ballinger and his course. So that in view of the recent primary returns we are forced to the conclusion that Taft's successive defeats at the polls are not so much the popular expression of admiration for Roosevelt, as they are the public condemnation of Taft's ill-advised policies.—Asheville Citizen.

Mr. M. A. McLaughlin, 512 Jay St., LaCrosse, Wis., writes that she suffered all kinds of pains in her back and hips on account of kidney trouble and rheumatism. "I got some of Foley Kidney Pills and after taking them for a few days there was a wonderful change in my case for the pain entirely left my back and hips and I am thankful there is such a medicine as Foley Kidney Pills." For sale by all dealers.

Most of us would be glad to get rid of our experience less than cost.

Mrs. Lela Love, wife of Wiley Love, farmer living near Covington, Ga., says: "I have taken Foley Kidney Pills and find them to be all you claim for them. They gave me almost instant relief when my kidneys were sluggish and inactive. I can cheerfully recommend them to all sufferers from kidney troubles." For sale by all dealers.

Disliking People.

"I don't like that man," you say. Cut it boy; cut it! the Baltimore Evening Sun remarks. You don't know what you are talking about. You're just making your head roar without making any headway toward the improvement of the world or adding to its intelligence. Just making a noise, that's all.

Don't like him, eh? Condemning every thing about him. My, that's a silly thing, mighty silly. Besides, it isn't true. A man made up of qualities and tendencies and the things like that. A man's deeds don't make him at all. They are just the signs of quality in him.

A whistle doesn't make a sawmill. It just tells you there is one in the vicinity. It isn't a sawmill because it whistles—it whistles because it's a sawmill. A bee isn't a because it makes honey—it makes honey because it is a bee.

Now, then, are all sorts of qualities and impulses in a man in every man. You know yourself that there is a fight between two or three elements in you before you can do the commonest thing.

You don't like that other fellow eh? Yes you do, some of him.

Don't you know that quality in yourself that you think is so perfectly west and noble? The man you claim to hate has that quality. Maybe he isn't so well developed as you—maybe he hasn't had the chance to develop it. But he has it, and you should like that much of him, because he has it common with you.

That is true of every one of those qualities you recognize so proudly in yourself.

He has 'em too.

Then that thing in him which you observed that led to your remark of condemnation—you've got it boy, you've got it!

You may have succeeded in hiding it, or perhaps ever in smothering it some and making it keep its head down and not have much to say about your actions, but you have that quality!

The things that you deplore in the other man is somewhere in you, more or less dormant or undeveloped.

Maybe it has been placed in circum stance that developed almost irresistibly in him the thing you have had a chance to kill off or hold in leash. But he has the quality, and you have it.

And that, even more than the likable qualities he has in common with you, should make you his friend—at last should place you in the attitude of sympathetic willingness to be his friend in the useful opportunity is ever offered.

Quit this hating people, boy! It's a bad plan.

It's hurts you to hate, especially in hot weather.

Hate lifts your temper and your temperature, and you sweat and tickle and squirm and stew.

Besides, if you have sense and imagination enough to look at a thing from some other than your own narrowly selfish standpoint remember the time you found somebody else hated you—didn't that hurt clear to the heart?

Your hate hurt the other man just that way and well, don't do it if he died tomorrow you couldn't look the Lord in the face.—The Uplift.

Ends Hunt For Rich Girl.

Often a hunt for a rich wife ends when the man meets a woman that uses Electric Bitters. Her strong nerves tell in a bright brain and even temper. Her peach bloom complexion and ruby lips result from her pure blood; her bright eyes from restful sleep; her elastic step from firm, free muscles, all telling of the health and strength Electric Bitters give a woman, and the freedom from indigestion, headache, fainting and dizzy spells they promote. Everywhere they are woman's favorite remedy. If weak or ailing try them. 50c at all druggists.

The best spring tonic—spring air and pure spring water. Take it every day.

When your child has whooping cough be careful to keep the cough loose and expectoration easy by giving Chamberlain's Cough Remedy as may be required. This remedy will also liquify the tough mucus and make it easier to expectorate. It has been used successfully in many epidemics and is safe and sure. For sale by all dealers.

Railroad Progress.

Wilkes Patriot.

All of the work connected with the building of the Yadkin River railroad out from North Wilkesboro is making satisfactory progress. During the past week all activities have necessarily been of a preliminary nature and they have now reached the point where the actual construction is to begin. At a meeting Friday night, of those signing the right of way bond, Messrs. T. B. Finley, J. C. Smoot, C. H. Cowles, H. O. Absher, W. C. Meadows, R. M. Brame were designated to secure the additional rights-of-way. They have so well succeeded with their work that less than half a dozen condemnation proceedings will be necessary. Mr. H. C. Landon, chief engineer and general manager, is here and has established his headquarters. With him are Mr. A. V. Miller, foreman of the construction work, and Mr. G. M. Grandius, supply agent. Along with these gentlemen are the engineers, assistants and helpers.

For the beginning, one hundred and fifty hands have been advertised for and a large number of teams will be secured. Those in charge of the construction work declare it to be their intention to push the road to a speedy completion and express the hope of being able to grade something like five miles of road bed per month. The supply house at the terminus of the Southern Railway's yard is now completed, and it is from or near this point that the first construction work will begin. Unless some obstacle now wholly unseen or unable to be predicted interferes, the new Yadkin River Railroad, traversing the entire western part of the county, will soon be an actuality.

Government and Good Roads.

The United States government spends annually $95,000,000 for the maintenance of a standing army.

It spends $125,000,000 annually for the maintenance of its naval establishment.

It spends more than $155,000,000 annually for payment of pensions.

It spends on the average of about $20,000,000 for the annual improvement to rivers and harbors.

It spends on an average of about $10,000,000 annually for the construction of public buildings.

It spends $4,000,000 annually for the maintenance of diplomatic and consular representatives in foreign countries.

It spends $5,000,000 annually for coast defenses and fortifications.

It spends annually $13,000,000 for agricultural development.

It spends annually $9,000,000 upon the American Indians.

But the United States government spends nothing annually for the construction or improvement of public highways.—National Monthly.

They Put an End to It.

Charles Sable, 30 Cook St. Rochester, N. Y., says he recommends Foley Kidney Pills at every opportunity because they gave him prompt relief from a bad case of kidney trouble that had long bothered him. Such a recommendation coming from Mr. Sable, is direct and convincing evidence of the real curative qualities of Foley Kidney Pills. For sale by all dealers.
