Traveling Man's Experience "In the summer of 1888 I had a very severe attack of cholera morbus. Two physicians worked over me from four a. m. to 6 p. m. without giving me any relief and then told me they did not expect me to live; that I had best telegraph for my family. Instead of doing so, I gave the hotel porter 50 cents and told him to buy me a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy, and take no substitute. I took a double dose according to the directions and went to sleep after the second dose. At five o'clock the next morning I was called by my order and took a train for my next stopping point, a well man but feeling rather shaky from the severity of the attack," writes H. W. Ireland, Louisville, Ky. Obtainable everywhere.

Climate at the Fair

The arrival in San Francisco of thousands of women bent on seeing the exposition in shimmering silks and gowns, whose gossamer thinness was designed for hot tropical suns, rather than the sudden changes of a temperamental climate, has inspired railroad officials to issue a warning as to the true climatic conditions prevailing on the Pacific Coast.

"Bring plenty of warm clothing," they say, adding that the real significance of the coast as a summer resort has been misinterpreted by many who came clad in Palm Beach attire, only to be surprised on stepping from the train by a blast of early morning wind loaded with icicles and as searching as a department store detective. Not only the mornings, but the nights, too, chill the thermometers into a numb slumber and drive tourists indoors for warm wraps.

"If you are a woman and are contemplating a trip to the Panama-Pacific Exposition," the notice published by one of the large Eastern trunk lines reads, "don't get the idea that you are going to a tropical or semi-tropical country and take nothing but the lightest sort of summer clothes with you. San Francisco has a climate all its own, and women can count on being able to wear their suits of cloth or silk frocks the whole time."—Philadelphia Ledger.

STOMACH TROUBLE FOR FIVE YEARS Majority of Friends Thought Mr. Hughes Would Die, But One Helped Him to Recovery. Pomeroyton, Ky.—In interesting advices from this place, Mr. A. J. Hughes writes as follows: "I was down with stomach trouble for five (5) years, and would have sick headache so bad, at times, that I thought surely I would die. I tried different treatments, but they did not seem to do me any good. I got so bad, I could not eat or sleep, and all my friends, except one, thought I would die. He advised me to try Thedford's Black-Draught, and quit taking other medicines. I decided to take his advice, although I did not have any confidence in it. I have now been taking Black-Draught for three months, and it has cured me—haven't had those awful sick headaches since I began using it. I am so thankful for what Black-Draught has done for me." Thedford's Black-Draught has been found a very valuable medicine for derangements of the stomach and liver. It is composed of pure, vegetable herbs, contains no dangerous ingredients, and acts gently, yet surely. It can be freely used by young and old, and should be kept in every family chest.
