A NEW SOUTHERN CAMP FOR GIRLS.

North Carolina Community Progress.
It is gratifying to note the increase in the number of summer camps in North Carolina. A few people have been aware of the fact that the Blue Ridge of North Carolina offers climate, scenery, unique places of interest, and an array of natural wonders not equaled by any other section east of the Rockies. Cool nights, moderate summer temperature when it is unbearably hot anywhere but in the high mountains, and freedom from mosquitoes makes possible an exhilarating outdoor life with none of the ordinary disappointment and pests.

Dr. and Mrs. A. P. Kephart, the former a professor of Education in The North Carolina College of Women, after varied camp experiences, have decided to construct and direct a camp for girls at Blowing Rock, N. C. The work of construction has gone far enough to insure an early completion. Commodious and comfortable wooden buildings are being erected in such a manner that they may be thrown wide open to permit actual living in the outdoors.

The complexity of town life makes it almost a necessity for normal development that the growing boy or girl be given some opportunity to get away from the idleness of vacation time to a place where worth while activities not available during the school year may serve to build strong bodies and at the same time provide new ideas and ideals.

"CAMP YONAHLOSSEE" will provide the usual outdoor activities of camp life, such as swimming, horse back riding, games and arts and crafts. The construction of Indian contrivances, playing Indian games, hiking, tramps, outdoor cooking, weaving, pottery, and as much freedom as may be consistent with safety will play a large part in the life of the campers.

A very democratic organization of the camp government and activities will permit participation on the part of campers in the discretion and control of awards, penalties and camp citizenship. A Chief and her Council, The Camp Pow Wow (the legislative body), and distinctive Indian names for the little rough bungalows insure a form of life removed from the artificialities of home and school.

A summer-camp, with the right amount of vigorous outdoor life, is a sorry place without plenty of good, nourishing food. "CAMP YONAHLOSSEE" is fortunate in being so situated and organized that the camp farm will provide all except the most common staples. The camp management is going to make an abundance of food, fresh milk, eggs, butter, and meats, definitely characteristic.

Girls from ten to eighteen years of age will be taken. The season is from July 1st to August 31st. Persons who are interested are requested to address, Camp Yonahlossee, Greensboro, N. C.

Note: Camp Yonahlossee is located on North Side Farm, owned by W. L. Winkler. We are informed by him that the big lake is nearing completion and that a number of the houses are being built and that everything will be in fine shape for the big crowd of girls that will be there by July. Great preparations in the way of fine milk cows, large gardens, the raising of plenty of lambs, beef cattle and chickens, combined with the large orchards are already under way which will insure the finest of eats to those who come to the camp.

FORD DEALERS STAGE PARADE.
Unique Method is Adopted to Show Versatility of Fordson Tractor

Detroit's 27 Ford dealers, hit upon a unique method of demonstrating in a practical way to Detroit's public the versatility and many City users of the Fordson tractor by staging a parade Thursday noon.

The parade, which was led by Miss Mary Percola, a Ford employee, driving a pure white Fordson, pulling a trailer containing a Ford band, started from the Ford Motor Co's plant in Highland Park and proceeded south the entire length of Woodward Avenue to Jefferson, then to Gratiot, Second Avenue and Fort Street and was witnessed by thousands of interested spectators. All along the route the parade presented the aspect of an unusual tractor show on wheels, with the added advantage of displaying the tractor and equipment in actual operation.

One interesting feature of the parade was the fact that Miss Percola, within an hour or so of the time of starting the parade, had never attempted to drive a Fordson Tractor and knew nothing whatever of its mechanism. This was pointed out by Ford dealers as demonstrating the ease with which the Fordson can be handled. And the fact that the pavements were wet from Thursday morning's continuous drizzle did not hinder the Fordson in pulling their weighed-down trailers.

Each of the forty-two Fordson tractors making by the parade was equipped with rubber tired wheels showing their adaptability to city uses, and each was equipped showing a specific use of the tractor in the city. Neatly painted banners announced the tonnage of each load or named the operation performed by the equipment.

Although the Fordson weighs less than 3,000 pounds, one of them pulled behind it two trailers piled high with lumber; and coupled to one Fordson was a 19,000 pound load of coal.

There were trailers for hauling garbage, sand, clay, steel and other materials. A novel heavy-duty street sweeper attached to the front of a tractor was designed to show its usefulness to the city fathers. Snow plows, road graders, an electric lighting plant, a winch, a cement mixer, a land leveler and a wheel scraper are some of the machines which took part in the parade. A banner on one Fordson, equipped with wide, flat wheels, announced the fact that it was adaptable for golf course maintenance.

Several of the outfits used in the parade have been in daily operation for a year or more by local merchants; some operate in manufacturing plants; others were purchased by local contractors; two were loaned for the occasion by the City of Highland Park, and one by the village of River Rouge.

Although the Fordson comes from the Rouge River Plant equipped for farm duty, the substitution of rubber-treaded wheels converts it into an economical power plant for either traction or belt power. The contractor may haul his various machinery and equipment to the scene of operations with the Fordson, unhitch and start running his concrete mixer, hoist, land leveler or other equipment with the same power.

At the present time, the River Rouge plant is operating on a schedule of 200 Fordson tractors a day, which is not sufficient to supply the demand. The recent price cut of the Fordson from $625 to $395 brought in a flood of orders resulting in speeding up of production.
