

THE IVY RIDGE OUTLOOK

Our school believes in making the school a social center as well as the educational center of the community.

The girls of the fifth grade have made a worthy resolution and one that should be encouraged by the district at large.

This seems to have been hog killing week as several fine porkers have been killed.

The boys and girls of the seventh grade are rapidly preparing themselves to take the seventh grade examination, which will be given at the end of the term.

The fifth grade finished Healthy Living today and celebrated the fact by a health crusade in which they examined every desk to see if they were in a sanitary condition.

Mr. Seaveys article in the New York Times, in which he discussed the wonderful growth of N. C. in the last few years was commented upon by some of the pupils who expressed themselves as highly pleased with the article.

Analysis has been the time for the passed week especially in the sixth and seventh grade English.

Miss Leona Glenn was back in school today after a long absence, during which time she has had a severe attack of rheumatism.

We are glad indeed to hear that Mrs. L. L. Glenn and Mrs. Solomon Trivett, both in the hospital, Mrs. Glenn at Baltimore and Mrs. Trivett at Chattanooga, are rapidly recovering.

The school is sorry to hear that Mr. A. R. Roark is planning to leave the community. The good man will be missed.

The agriculture class has made this statement, "After careful study we find that the hogs in this district are worth more than the horses."

Our Citizenship class has been greatly benefited by the study of the "University News Letter". They recommend it every "Tar Heel" where it may be found.

Mr. Hagaman, the principal, is developing into a fairly good swatter but as a fielder he is not very successful.

Mr. A. E. Trivett took part in a hard played game of town ball today much to the delight of the entire school.

The boy of the primary department played a rather stormy game of base to day in which several noses were crushed and other minor injuries were inflicted but it is hoped that no permanent damage was done.

We haven't had much trouble this year with boys and girls who have fallen in love with each other.

The principal was handed the following sentence to day by a sixth grade student. "Possoming was great fun thought the 'possum when he was shaken from the tree but when old Snip caught him, he found that 'possuming was not what it had been tracted up to be."

The great fire at New Bern was the subject of an interesting discussion by the N. C. History class.

The heavy rains yesterday and today hampered our school in its work especially our agricultural census, which is being pushed to a conclusion so it can be presented to the teachers meeting which will convene in its third session at Windy Gap, Saturday December 9th.

The sixth and seventh grades are worrying over the tangles of percentage with a worry that knows no ease except to conquer.

Mr. M. H. Edmisten and Mr. A. E. Trivett were pleasant callers at school today.

The seventh grade history class is studying the spoils system as inaugurated by Jackson by the project plan, especially the causes and results.

CATAWBA COUNTY HAS FIRST JERSEY CALF CLUB

The first Jersey calf club in the South to be recognized by the Jersey Cattle Club Association of America was organized during the past year by county agent J. W. Hendricks of Catawba County.

The club in Catawba county was organized on the three year plan, which proposes to grow out the calves to maturity and to show them at some fairs each fall.

According to Mr. Arey, this calf club work is doing tremendous good in advancing the dairy interest of Catawba county, and from the success which the boys and girls are having there it is felt that the idea will spread over the other dairy counties of North Carolina.

The school is sorry to hear that Mr. A. R. Roark is planning to leave the community. The good man will be missed.
