

FACING FACTS

Charity and Children.

In various sections of the state committees are holding prayer meetings for relief from the distressing drought. Men are looking toward the hills, whence cometh our help. The foolish discussion of questions we know nothing about like the origin of the race are interesting to nobody. Who cares a fig about evolution when the heavens are brass above us, and the grass has withered and even the trees are dying for lack of moisture? We are passing through a time of testing, and only those who are standing on the Rock are calm and serene. Who knows but that the distressing situation has been sent on us because of our foolishness? This much we know: if we will learn the lesson of affliction the drought will be a blessing. No matter what the wisecracks may say about natural laws, we are utterly dependant upon a higher power. Helpless we stand before the Lord and nothing that we can do will bring relief. Scoffers who laugh at calling on the Almighty for rain, must laugh alone, for nobody listens for a moment to what they say. We are in no mood for fine spun theories. We are facing dry facts and there is only one to whom we can go. It is a whole some sign to see people gathering in large numbers to confess their own impotency, and to put their trust in one who is able and ready to help. If we only would remember this great lesson and quit trying to solve mysteries beyond our ken, and accept the Bible as it was given to us, putting our trust in God, we would rise above our troubles, and our hearts would be at peace.

FAMILY REUNION

A most joyous time was held at the home of E. J. Norris on Sunday Sept. 6th when all of the children and part of the grand and great grandchildren and a few neighbors and friends came to erect each other in the yard was placed a long table loaded with the good things always to be found on such occasions. Many photographs were taken and a water-melon feast in the afternoon. The most interesting feature of the day was the ages, the oldest one present was Aunt Anna Hayes who resides in the home, she being 92 years old and the youngest one present, a great grand daughter 3 months of age. Relatives from a distance were Mr. and Mrs. D. N. Trivett and two daughters, Misses Cara and Lena of Beaver Dam, Va., and one son, Mr. Martin and one daughter Miss Mary Lee Trivett of Washington, D. C. May we all live to meet in the old home many more times.

Thought and Harmony

It is the inner man who governs all our acts. As thoughts and ideas are presented so are our lives influenced. The methods of presenting thought or ideas are many. The most direct and least involved is by the spoken word. Add to that spoken word the power of music—and the appeal is twofold.

The harmony in music creeps in and makes receptive the inner man for good thoughts. That is why music has its place in church services. In every Boone church every Sunday there is good music to be enjoyed. When you go to church you cannot help responding to the good that is in you. Therefore in justice to your own happiness and well-being, make it a habit to go to church every Sunday.
