

Political Events of the Past Week

not changed, although he has ceased to comment on that particular legislation.

Persons who know the New Hampshire senator well expect a blow-off some of these days that will almost upset the G. O. P. machine. The new job given him by Dr. Work may speed the crisis.

Recently Mr. Moses said his party would pay but little attention to the south; this was followed by a declaration that the south would be the battleground. The corn belt outlook is good for the Hoover-Curtis ticket. Governor Smith would not swallow the unpopular equalization fee provision of the McNary-Haugen bill. His stand on that question will further help him in the east and south.

The reports of the week have been encouraging to the Smith people. The hostile attitude of Senator Simmons, the most powerful unreconciled opponent of the Houston ticket, is being discounted by the vigorous efforts of former Congressman Clyde R. Hoey and former Governor Cameron Morrison, two of Mr. Simmons' political lieutenants, to hold dissatisfied Democrats in North Carolina in line.

Horton Has Lead of 1,957 Over McKellar in Tennessee

Complete but unofficial returns from last Thursday's primary in Tennessee gave the Democratic nomination for governor to Henry H. Horton, incumbent, and the United States senatorial nomination to Senator K. D. McKellar. Latest tabulations gave Governor Horton a lead of 1,957 over Hill McAllister, his nearest opponent, while Senator McKellar had overwhelmed his three opponents by a lead of more than 40,000 over his nearest rival, Finis Garrett, minority floor leader in the national house of representatives.

State Senator E. E. Butler, of Mountain City, who had represented the first Tennessee district in the senate for eight terms, was defeated by Will H. Clark by a majority of 255. The district is composed of Washington, Greene, Union, Carter and Johnson counties. Mr. Butler carried only two counties in the district, his home county of Johnson and Union.
