

The Week in Washington

A RESUME OF GOVERNMENTAL HAPPENINGS IN THE NATIONAL CAPITAL

Washington, Nov. 15.—Now that the final election returns are in and it is definitely certain that the Democrats have even a bare majority in both houses of congress than before, Washington is no longer concerning itself with possible opposition to whatever program the president may adopt. Whatever he wants he can get, and until he declares himself, speculation is rather futile as to what the program of the second Roosevelt administration will be.

Washington, as always, is concerned with personalities as much as with issues. One of the most colorful personalities who has been seen on Capitol Hill in the past generation is coming back, to the delight of the newspaper paraphraser and his associates in the senate. He is Senator James Hamilton Lewis of Illinois, usually referred to as "Jim Ham."

Mr. Lewis has many claims to distinction. He is, for example, the only man who ever served in the United States congress from two different states. As a young man, with a fiery red beard, he went from his native Virginia to the then pioneer state of Washington in the 1890's, leaped into politics and was twice elected congressman-at-large from that state. He served in the Spanish war, both in Cuba and in the Philippines. Then he moved to Chicago, where he combined politics and the practice of law, and by 1912 he had made himself such an important figure in the political affairs of Illinois that he was elected United States senator.

Best and Worst Dressers

For ten years "Jim Ham" was missed from Washington, but in 1930 he was again elected senator from Illinois and this month he was re-elected. Senator Lewis is not only the only owner of a beard in the senate, but is easily the best dressed member of either house of congress.

There is rejoicing in Washington, also, over the return to congress of the only other full set of whiskers, those belonging to Representative G. H. Tinkham of the Tenth Massachusetts district. Mr. Tinkham is a picturesque figure, although an entirely different type from Senator Lewis. He pays so little attention to his personal appearance that he is frequently referred to as the worst-dressed man in congress.

Unlike Senator Lewis, who loses no opportunity to impress his personality upon the electorate, Representative Tinkham is reputed to have never made a campaign for election. A new figure in the next congress whose advent is looked forward to with considerable interest and curiosity is Senator Henry Cabot Lodge, Jr. of Massachusetts. Mr. Lodge has two definite claims to distinction. He is the grandson and namesake of Theodore Roosevelt's closest friend and supporter, who was senator from Massachusetts for 30 years. Also, he defeated Gov. Curley of Massachusetts in the senatorial election.

Senator Lodge is just barely old enough to be eligible for the senate, in which no one under 30 may sit, by the terms of the constitution. Young Lodge was 34 in July last. He has the further distinction of being one of the few members of congress whose principal career has been that of a working newspaper man.

Young Lodge started on the Boston Transcript in 1923 and in 1924 joined the staff of the New York Herald-Tribune with which he has been connected almost down to the present time.

Cabinet Changes Hinted

Turning from Capitol Hill to the other end of Pennsylvania avenue, where the executive departments of the government center, gossip about personalities focuses largely on possible cabinet changes. It seems to be in the cards that the movement to establish a new cabinet department—that of public welfare, will take form before long.

This new department would be charged with duties which now devolve variously upon the departments of labor, interior, agriculture and treasury. It would take in such activities as those of the children's bureau, the administration of the mother's pensions, and of many of the other phases of the social security act.

The new department may also take over the job of public health service which is a bureau of the treasury. It would include the bureau of education, which is now in the interior department, and it would probably get the bureaus of the department of agriculture which are concerned with home economics and other phases of rural life not strictly agricultural.

Some Other Guesses

The latest gossip about Donald Richberg is that he is to be appointed either attorney general or a member of the supreme court. Justice Stone's illness is regarded as more serious than public announcements indicate, also a possible vacancy or two on the supreme bench may occur.

Wins Grunt Derby

VENICE, CAL.—This lucky little piglet is fast on his hams. He won the annual "Grunt" Derby over a 100-ft. course here. Mermaid Mittie Deblain held the lines and rewarded him with a bottle.

The best bet in Washington is to secretary of war is that Gov. Paul V. McNutt, of Indiana, past commander of the American Legion, will be the successor of Secretary Woodring.

Some Washington gossips are perfectly certain that Mayor LaGuardia of New York, is to be given a cabinet post. There is talk of him as the possible secretary of labor. The belief also grows here that Secretary Ickes of the interior department will be appointed by the president to the 15-year post of controller general, succeeding John McCarrl. There is general agreement that Mr. Ickes would be quite as meticulous as was Mr. McCarrl in scrutinizing departmental expenditures to see that they keep strictly within the law.

There is every reason to expect that Jesse Jones, chairman of the Reconstruction Finance corporation, will continue in that post and with greatly increased prestige and power in the administration's high councils.

JUDGES ANNOUNCED FOR FACT-FINDING CONTEST

Winston-Salem, Nov. 15.—The judges committee for the County Fact-Finding contest now being sponsored by the Winston-Salem Chamber of Commerce, has been named by President J. Warren White as follows: Paul Kelly, North Carolina department of conservation and development, Raleigh; Sanford Martin, editor, Winston-Salem Journal and Sentinel; and Odell Sax, president, Junior Winston-Salem Chamber of Commerce. The contest closes on December 1.

The fact-finding contest, in which high school students in ten neighboring counties have been invited to take part, is being conducted for the purpose of collecting valuable data about each county. This will be utilized in a series of mimeographed bulletins to be distributed to tourists and others who inquire regarding the Winston-Salem trading area.

Mr. White said today that he has heard from a majority of the county school superintendents, many principals, teachers and individual students. All have expressed genuine interest in the contest, and appreciation for the efforts of the Chamber of Commerce in making facts concerning their counties generally available. It is expected that a large number of entries will be received.

The material is to be submitted in the form of compositions. A cash prize of $5 will be presented to the winner from each county, with appropriate presentation ceremonies in Winston-Salem at a date shortly to be announced.

The counties that are participating in the contest are: Alleghany, Ashe, Davidson, Davie, Randolph, Stokes, Surry, Watauga, Wilkes and Yadkin. All high schools in Watauga county are participating in the contest.

GOOD MANAGEMENT BRINGS MORE EGGS

During the winter, hens cannot keep up a high egg production unless they are properly managed, according to C. F. Parrish, extension poultryman at State College.

In a radio talk on the Carolina Farm Features program Friday, November 20, Mr. Parrish will outline the steps which are necessary to keep hens producing a maximum number of eggs.

Feeding, he points out, is perhaps the most important item. No hen can be expected to do her best unless fed the proper grains, mash and green feeds.

Then the poultryman must pay strict attention to the housing problem. Poorly constructed and drafty houses are not conducive to high egg production. The houses must be comfortable or the birds will suffer and a consequent decline in the number of eggs will be noted.

Mr. Parrish says that inferior birds should be culled from the flock. These poor producers, if allowed to remain, will bring the average of the flock down sharply.

One hundred Clay county farmers last week reported soil improving practices done since the compliance supervisor visited their farms.

1937 CHEVROLET PRICES ABOUT SAME AS 1936

New York, Nov. 1.—Prices for the new Chevrolet passenger cars for 1937 were announced here today by W. E. Holier, vice president and general sales manager, upon his arrival for the National Automobile show.

It was revealed that for 1937 Chevrolet would have a completely new line of cars, incorporating one wheelbase and with identically the same appearance. Heretofore, there have been two distinctly different lines of cars with two lengths of wheelbase and quite a wide variance of specifications.

Prices of the Master DeLuxe models remain approximately the same as those of the 1936 cars. The popular coach and town sedan models have been reduced $5, while the four-door sedan and the sport sedan prices remain unchanged. The coupe and sport coupe are the only models to be increased in price and these only $5 over the 1936 levels.

Prices of the Master DeLuxe Chevrolet now cover features formerly offered as optional at extra cost, including knee-action, safety plate glass all around, fenders in color matching body, and large tires. The individual model prices are as follows: Coach $595, sedan $660, town sedan with trunk $620, sport sedan with trunk $685, business coupe $585, sport coupe with rumble seat $615.

The list prices of the Master Chevrolet, which also include the added equipment except the knee-action, are uniformly $60 under the Master DeLuxe prices.

Body models in the Master DeLuxe and Master lines are the same except that the Master coupe with rumble seat takes the place of a sport coupe in the DeLuxe line. The Master wheelbase is 3 1/2 inches longer than that of 1936 models and this model also includes as standard equipment synchro-mesh transmission, larger tires, safety plate glass and fenders in color to match the body.

Both models are completely new in engine, chassis and bodies and are identical in design with the exception of knee-action and special features of equipment and interior trim supplied only in the DeLuxe models.
