

Deep Gap News

The Gap Creek Game preserve has recently been organized to protect wild life in the regions of east Watauga and south Ashe counties. The object of the preserve organization is to restore all kinds of wild game here. The preserve has the hearty support of all the citizens and land owners. Some Mutants pheasants have already been stocked on these premises. All hunters are cautioned not to hunt on the property of any member of this preserve who are not accompanied by the land-owner. If you do, you will be prosecuted to the fullest extent of the law. All members' lands have now been posted, and special wardens and patrols will see that the law is enforced. Mutants pheasants have no open season here under the state game laws, and if killed by anyone they are subject to a fine of $50 and costs. Howard Steelman has sold his residence and property known as the Millie C. Watson place to Hamp Blackburn of Boone. Mr. Blackburn will move to the Steelman home as soon as Mr. Steelman completes his new home which is now under construction. Mrs. Vertie Carlton, who was recently taken to a hospital seriously ill, is now at her home very much improved. Several visitors headed by Mr.

Bingham of the Cove Creek high school were pleasant visitors at the Deep Gap nursery recently. Mr. I. W. Day was a business visitor to Charlotte last week. He has traveled for the R. J. Reynolds Tobacco Co., for several years, having worked himself up from the ranks to district manager with headquarters in Reading, Pa. V. L. Moretz, Frank Welch and Howard Steelman made a business trip to Salisbury last week. Ray Welch, who has been in the CCC camp in the state of Oregon, has returned to his home here. Mr. W. A. Watson, proprietor of the Deep Gap nursery, recently did a landscaping job for Mr. Coker Triplett of Boone. The Deep Gap nursery has recently purchased some up-to-date office equipment, including a typewriter and automatic mimeographing duplicator, looking forward to a business boom next spring. The lunch room has not yet opened at Deep Gap consolidated school. However, it is expected to open in the near future. Parents of the children are doing everything in their power to get the lunch room started again. Dishes, plates, forks and spoons are coming in daily to the school from all homes. On every side we hear the parents saying, "I wish the lunch room would hurry and open."

PARKWAY FEDERATION HOLDS MEETING HERE

The Parkway Federation, composed of the Young Tar Heel Farmers chapters of Avery, Watauga, and Alleghany counties, met in Boone November 20th, and elected the following officers for the coming year: Ralph Garland, Newland, president; Bill Treadway, Cranberry, vice-president; Billy Wiseman, Crossnore, secretary; Frank Norris, Boone, treasurer; Dent Pugh, Piney Creek, reporter; John Pugh, Spartan, watch dog, and Grady Southard, Boone, advisor. In addition to the election of officers plans were discussed for the following contests between chapters for the coming year: Farm shop contest, seed judging, public speaking, basketball, field day and livestock judging. The contests will be held at the various schools in the federation.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

By REV. ROBT. H. HARPER

REACTIONS TO THE GOOD NEWS Lesson for December 10: Matthew 11:16-30

Jesus spoke of the ways men reacted to the good news. Carping critics, like complaining children in their play, were never satisfied. John was a man of the wilderness, and they said he had a demon. Jesus dwelt among them, and they said He was a glutton and a friend of publicans and sinners. Capernaum and other cities which had unparalleled opportunities would suffer worse in the judgment than Sodom and Gomorrah. Of them would be required the awful accountability of knowledge. But Jesus thanked the Father that things lost by the privileged are often received, as it were, by babies. Spiritual things are spiritually discerned. The wisest of men in the things of earth are often devoid of understanding in spiritual truth. Their vaunted knowledge may preclude their belief in the eternal verities. Alexander cut the Gordian knot, and Jesus cut through all carping criticisms and addressed the hearts of His hearers in the now old, familiar and gracious invitation: "Come unto me." His yoke, He said, is easy to bear. However irksome a yoke, it is made to pull with, to do work. The wise man will not complain about the toil by which he reaches the object of his desire. The yoke of Jesus, though heavy, is easy to bear, because the man who bears it dwells with a good conscience and rests with thoughts of work well done and of blessings shared—at the close of day.

Vilas News
