HUMAN RECONVERSION

Human reconversion is probably the most important problem of the postwar era.

Men trained in the grim skills of warfare must be reorientated to civilian life. Moreover, they must be shown that they are welcome back home and that their sacrifices have been appreciated.

For that reason, the program of the Watauga chapter of the American Red Cross is more important than ever in the months ahead. Through the Red Cross, returning veterans can find the help and guidance so essential to their proper adjustment.

Already, the local Red Cross "postwar" plans are in operation. Fighting men returning to Watauga county are using Red Cross assistance in filing claims for government benefits, in obtaining fnancal ad during the adjudication period, and in getting friendly advice and counsel on personal problems.

Because a war doesn't end with the last shot fired, and because a community's war responsibility isn't finished until its sons have been welcomed back to its civic, social and economic life, people of Watauga county must continue to support their Red Cross through contributions of money and service.

As the 1945 Red Cross War Fund campaign progresses, it is vital to "Keep Your Red Cross at His

Letters To The Editor

PRAISE FOR MR. EGGERS Editor Democrat:

Please publish attached letter in Democrat this week.

Yours truly, E. D. COOK.

Dear Mr. Cook: I again am writing you with re-principals.

spect to your representative from Watauga county.

Mr. Eggers served with me on the education committee and I know he has supported the North Carolina Education association's school program to the fullest for better pay for teachers and ten months pay for

He also served with me on the roads committee and signed a bill that will spend about 15 million dollars on our farm to market roads which will be matched by the federal government.

He has taken a decided interest in the agriculture program, conservation and development, public wel-fare, institutions for the deaf and veterans' affairs.

When we have more men like Mr. Eggers in the general assembly we will have a better state.

Very respectfully yours,

R. V. ALEXANDER.

OPA FREEZEES PRICE MARK-UPS OF RETAIL MERCHANTS

Washington, March 19—OPA to-night froze the price mark-ups of some 300,000 retailers selling clothes, dry goods, furniture and house fur-nishings. The aim, the agency explained, is to insure that consumers get the benefit of lowered factory prices which are forthcoming. Each store was frozen to the mark-up margin that it had in use today, March 19. Price-tagging provisions were written into the order to help shoppers become their own price policement.

These were some of the things that could be put aside for a while longer. But America was still the rich, productive land she had always been. She could still lay more of Nature's rich bounty on the detted line than any nation in lay more of Nature's rich bounty on the dotted line than any nation in all the world. She could still give to her people the higest standard of living, more of the good things that science has been able to develop, a more humane government, and more of the human rights than are known by any other people in any other

Yes, it was good to know that America was still doing business at the same old stand and in the at the same old stand and in the same old way. It was good to hear the prophets of gloom disturbing the ether waves with their predictions of "eternal bonfire." It was good to see the long furrows on the Western plains open before the plowshare. It was good to see smoke rising from a thousand furnaces. It was extra good sand furnaces. It was extra good to feel that in a world which so recently has experienced every conceivable affliction, America can carry on with the same hair-do she wore a hundred years ago.

A lot of the warriors returning from the battlefields of the world will expect to find here in the States a veritable land of milk and honey where a living can be had by the turn of a hand. They will expect a thousand favors from the folks who minded the home fires while they were in those dim, distant lands beyond the seas. To use an old Navy expression, they will want an "egg in their beer." But they are going to find the same thing they left, thank the good Lord. They are going to find a land that will give you back more than you put into it. They are going to find a land where you can run your mouth to heart's content. fires while they were in those dim, run your mouth to heart's content.
They are going to find a land that is wicked and Godly, a land that is hard and charitable, a land that could never be changed so long as she is known by the name America. And that, after all, is what they should be looking for.

Time has a way of playing tricks on folks. Stay away a little while and things change. Here in Boone heads have grown a bit whiter and there are a few n lines on the faces of those meet along the streets. But there is the same old welcome for the returning wanderer, a welcome that gladdens the heart; there is the same slap on the back and the same charitable ways that have always characterized the have always characterized to best little town in the world.

An old man down at the bank corner shed tears for a son who had died at Saipan; a mother told of her baby going to his long sleep in Belbady going to his long sleep in Belgium; a pretty little teen-age girl, had a letter returned from her boyfriend bearing the words "missing in action." These were some of the things that burdened the hearts of Boone people in recent days . . . but they were about their business. They were raising a few more dollars for the Red Cross; they were buying a few more war bonds; they were bending every energy toward the winning of the war were giving without stint to the liberation of mankind and the estab-lishment of a world of decency.

It was good to have had this op-portunity to visit Boone and to have had the chance of filling one of The Democrat's columns once again. Filling this column was, after all, the main reason for having written all of the above words. There is no other excuse except . . . my broth-er Robert awakened me in the wee small hours, just after nine a. m., and suggested that I do so.

Watauga Farmers Asked To Raise More Chickens

Because of increased needs for eggs and poultry products to aug-ment the nation's supply of meat, farmers of Watauga county are urg-ed to raise more broiler and roaster chickens this year and to obtain chicks early so as to have more pullets ready for fall and winter laying, according to W. W. Mast, chairman of the Watauga county AAA committee. AAA committee.

Broilers and roasters are needed to add to the nation's meat supply during the coming year," he said "Producers with brooder space not needed for laying flock replacements would do well to use the extra space for broilers and roasters. The resulting addition to the meat supply will come during the sea-son's low point for other meats."

son's low point for other meats."

"Present indications are that total meat supplies to be available during the first half of this year will be at a yearly rate of about 125 pounds per capita, compared with an annual rate of 150 pounds per person available during the first half of 1944," he stated.

Mr. Mast said the general feed picture indicates that the supply of corn and oats, important ingredients in mixed feeds, will be about one-in mixed feeds, will be about one-fourth greater than 1944. For the nation as a whole, there is expected to be about 14 percent less livestock than last year, mainly hogs and
