

Charlottean Buyer Blowing Rock Estate

Charlotte, N. C.—Negotiations are being closed for the purchase by T. M. Shelton of this city of the Greystone Tower estate at Blowing Rock, it was learned yesterday from Mrs. Myra Mebane Reynolds, owner of the property.

amount involved in the sale, which was handled by Frank F. Jones, Charlotte real estate man, was not announced. Mrs. Reynolds said the property is being sold for a substantial amount and that the land, the house, and the furnishings represent an investment of more than $300,000. Mr. Shelton is purchasing most of the furnishings along with the real estate.

Greystone Tower was built about 23 years ago. It is of field stone with shingle gables and of English type architecture and provides a beautiful view of the John's river valley and Grandfather mountain. A road circles up to the house and there are 13 acres of land in the estate. A two-story living room forms one of the most attractive parts of the house, which has a tower four stories high with a card room at the top. The doors are copied from an old English castle and the woodwork is of old oak. Stone fireplaces add to the beauty of the interior. There is a circular terrace around the tower and other terraces flank the living room. The grounds are beautifully landscaped.

In one room is a collection of trophies which Mrs. Reynolds and her late former husband, Bob Mebane, with whom she built the place, brought home from Alaska, and a beautiful painting by Carl Rungius. The dining-room table is a museum piece by Sir Edward Kent, who also did two Georgian consoles in this room. There are many prized antique furnishings in the house. Persian rugs are used on the floors.

Mrs. Reynolds said she decided to sell the house as she and Mr. Reynolds are building a new home at Nantucket Island where Mr. Reynolds is in the hotel business. They are guests of Mr. and Mrs. Larry Walker in the Addison apartments and plan a trip to Nassau before returning to Nantucket.

SMILE AWHILE

Not Alone

Wife—This article says that a lone wolf won't attack a person. Harassed Hub—That doesn't help us; our neighbors on both sides have one as well as we.

Warning

"Dear Miss," wrote a particular mother to the teacher, "don't whip Tommy. He isn't used to it. We never hit him at home except in self-defense."

Iron Man

"De doctah say I got too much iron in my blood."
"Does yo' eat po'k, Sambo?"
"Sho'. Whufo yo' ask?"
"Boy, you'se full of pig-iron."

Relapse

"Look here, Boss," said a colored patron of an Alabama market, "dat ham you sold me last night was spoiled."
"Impossible," said the butcher. "it was cured in the best way."
"Well, boss, if dat ham was cured it sho' had a powerful relapse."

Not Affected

Careful Husband—(with newspaper) I see that butcher has gone up one and sixpence.
Wife—Don't worry, dear, I've been paying one and tence for some time.

Not Likely

"Funny, my razor doesn't cut at all."
"Don't be silly, dear. Your beard can't be tougher than the linoleum."

Something Worth Figuring

School Visitor—You encourage your pupils to take an interest in professional baseball?
Teacher—Yes, indeed. I find that they improve wonderful in their arithmetic after figuring up batting averages.

Or Maybe Arry

Mistress—Whose was that man's voice I heard in the kitchen?
Maid—Oh-er-my brother, mum.
Mistress—What is his name?
Maid—Er-r think it's Erbert, mum.

Not Bad For Hoopville

An Easterner stood on the veranda of a little western hotel and watched the sun go down.
"By George," he exclaimed to the native sitting nearby, "That's certainly a gorgeous sunset isn't it?"
"Not bad," was the answer.
"Not bad for a little place like Hoopville."
