Sarah Anne's COOKING CLASS

In the summer when appetites are apt to falter and it is difficult to persuade the family to eat, then it seems to me that the housewives should see to it that each dish in the menu is not only interesting and tempting but possess distinct food value.

Quick Ice Box Pudding

1-8 cup sugar
1 teaspoon gelatin
3 tablespoons water

Heat rest of pineapple juice with sugar in double boiler. Add egg yolks stirring constantly until well blended. Add gelatin and dissolve. Remove from heat. Add stiffly beaten egg whites mix thoroughly. Add flavoring, prunes and cake crumbs. Line a square pan with waxed paper then pour in mixture. Allow to chill. When ready to serve unmold and serve with whipped cream.

NOTICE TO VETERANS

Veteran students home on vacation until the fall term are not eligible for unemployment allowances. The fact that they are scheduled to return to school in September makes them ineligible because they cannot accept any suitable job offered. Readjustment allowances assist the veteran until such time as he can secure permanent employment.

The Veterans Administration cautions student veterans against claiming unemployment allowances until they make sure their subsistence payments have been stopped, since many may be making use of holiday and leave pay after the school term closes.

The law provides that any veteran who knowingly accepts any readjustment allowances to which he is not entitled shall forfeit all further rights to such benefits. In addition, misrepresentation or fraud are punishable by fines and imprisonment.

Veterans planning to attend colleges or other institutions of higher learning this fall, for the first time, are being advised by the Veterans Administration to get busy right now. Past enrollment figures will be exceeded for the school year 1947-48 and it looks like "first come, first served." This necessitates applying for a certificate of eligibility immediately, selecting a fully approved school and being assured of acceptance.

YOUR TRI-COUNTY Health Department By DR. ROBERT R. KING, JR. District Health Officer

Public and private water supplies are a matter of public health concern. Public water supplies are usually regulated by local ordinances of cities or townships, but also are subject to the same principals of sanitation as any water supply. Private water supplies are of public importance when the people on whose property they are located are carriers of contagious diseases or sell milk or other food products of the farm or engage in some public business.

Springs, wells, lakes, and rivers supply water which may or may not be pure. Private water supplies usually are obtained from springs or wells which are ordinarily thought of as supplying pure water which needs no artificial purifying. This is not necessarily true just as water from lakes and rivers has to be purified by filtration, flocculation, and chemical treatment with limes, chlorine, charcoal, alum, and other chemicals so must the private water supply be treated. In selecting a water supply the water shed must be considered as well as the foundation from which the water springs. Springs should be protected from surface drainage by enclosure in a cement box with a tightly fitting cap and ear should be thrown in against the box so as to drain surface water away in all directions and should be protected from cattle by fencing. A well should be far enough from the barn yard or out house so that water draining through the earth will not contaminate the well.

The problems of water supply which confront the sanitarian are many and varied, but it is part of his job to know the answers to your questions, and he will be glad to help where he can.
