DOG AIDS ROBBER'S CAPTURE
Berkley, Calif. — A robber after holding up a bank and escaping with between $7,000 and $8,000 fled in his automobile. Not knowing the city, he drove into a dead-end street, abandoned the car and leaped into a backyard. There lived Buggs, an aged and testy bulldog, who resented this intrusion of his privacy. The robber kicked the dog and Buggs let out a yelp, which summoned his mistress, Mrs. Frank Goldfuss. Mrs. Goldfuss and her husband chased the bandit in their car and overtook him two blocks away. Meanwhile, a police patrolman drove up, disarmed the man and took him to the police station. There the bandit made his last snatched-for-a-gun, which he pointed at his head, pulled the trigger and killed himself.
