

KING STREET

BY ROB RIVERS

DAVID P. LAVIETES, who manufactured smoking pipes here during the war from native rhododendron burls, and who yet operates a plant down at Sparta, writes us from New York...

"WHAT'S THE MATTER" said the stranger "that most towns have some sort of monument war memorial or something and Boone has none at all?"

OSCAR COFFEY, sweeping the sidewalk in front of Newton's store, sweeping deliberately and clean, with a satisfied smile on his face, unmindful of the passerby...

HERE OF LATE we've had quite a few invitations to make some speeches... and since our voice is not quite as fetching as Ronald Coleman's, and since we had no experience on the lecture platform...
