

APPALACHIAN HI SCHOOL NEWS

Representatives from the Social Studies department of Appalachian High School left Boone Wednesday morning at eleven a. m. for Raleigh. The group went by car.

After lunch in Winston-Salem they visited Guilford College and attended a lecture and tour of the Guilford Battle Ground. Their next stop was Duke University where the group visited the impressive chapel after a tour of the campus. A visit of the Planetarium at the University of North Carolina was followed by supper in Raleigh. The group saw the presentation of "An Invasion from Mars" at the Planetarium. This Planetarium is one of the six in the western hemisphere.

The sightseers spent the night in Raleigh and the next morning visited the Museum of Natural History and the Education Building. From there they went to the Legislature where the students were recognized by the representative of this county, Wade E. Brown. Part of the group visited the Senate. Mr. Brown conducted a tour of the capitol for the whole group. After leaving the capitol the group was the guest of Mr. Brown at luncheon, where senators and representatives from all over the state were eating. At two p. m. the group observed a meeting of the Appropriations Committee of the House, and of special interest to the group was a speech by Dr. Dougherty of Appalachian State Teachers College.

On the return trip that afternoon the group visited the spacious coliseum at State College. The visitors returned to Boone by way of Lexington and Mocksville. The group was accompanied by Mr. Fred Hollis of the Social Studies department.

Students making the trip included: Becky Shoemaker, Mildred Dean, Lena Greer, Faye Critcher, Ray Miller, Larry Kerley, Lloyd Rogers, Newell Carroll, Bill Moretz, and Bobby Miller.

On last Tuesday Miss Eunice Query of the Appalachian State Teachers College library faculty, and Miss Mabel Brister, librarian of the high school, visited the Statesville High School and Thomasboro High school near Charlotte. This visit was made to off-campus student teachers in Library Science and to observe in the various school libraries.

Club And Social News

The Sophomore Class of the high school sponsored a semi-formal Valentine dance from 7:30 until 11:00, on Monday night, February 12. Music was furnished by Bill McIntyre and his orchestra. The school gym was appropriately decorated for the occasion.

Monitors Club Supper

The Monitors Club under the direction of Mr. Leek, had a "pitch in" supper Monday night, February 5 in the recreation room of the high school. After the supper, members played records and danced or attended the college basketball game.

Planning Valentine Parties

Among the clubs and groups planning Valentine parties during the week are Junior Librarians Club, Book Club, Girl Scouts, Mrs. Hamby's home-room, the Shorthand class, fifth period civics class, and the Tri-Hi Y Club.

Homeroom News

Mr. Hollis' homeroom has made a study of maps of the world during the homeroom period. Students have tried to locate quickly places called out by the student teachers. This study has proved helpful in other classes where the use of maps is necessary.

Rabies Clinics

Continued from page one) Adults and children should not handle strange dogs, and persons with sick dogs are asked to report them to Dr. Martin or the health department. The deadly nature of the disease and the complete absence of any hope of recovery for those who contract it makes rabies one of the most terrifying diseases known to mankind. All dogs in this quarantine area found running at large will be apprehended or killed by the local enforcement officers.
