

Program For Farm And Home Week Released

Watauga county extension agents today announced the Farm and Home Week program to be presented at N. C. State College, June 7-10.

Home Agent Mary Helen Neill and County Agent L. E. Tucker will lead that more than ever before, this the 46th annual convention of farmers and homemakers, deals with subjects of vast and immediate concern to all rural people.

They expressed hope that a large number of Watauga county people would accept the invitation to take part in Farm and Home Week discussions of such timely problems as agricultural policy formation, price supports, dairying from the standpoint of producer, consumer, and processor, to enjoy the increased recreation facilities offered this year in Raleigh.

A daily schedule of Farm and Home Week events follows:

Monday, June 7
Evening opening exercises and recreation, William Neal Reynolds Coliseum. Remarks by D. W. Colvard, dean, School of Agriculture; Mrs. Charles Graham, Linwood, president, N. C. Federation of Home Demonstration Clubs; and W. A. Connell, Warrenton, president, Farmers Convention.

Tuesday, June 8
Classes for homemakers: The Challenge program, William Hall, address by L. Y. Ballentine, commissioner of agriculture; presentation of local programs and discussion of problems by leaders from Ashe, Forsyth, Orange, Rockingham, Stokes and Wilson Counties. Address by E. Y. Floyd, secretary, State Board of Farm Organizations and Agencies.

Presentation of Awards in "Town and Country Church Improvement Program," Gov. William B. Umstead, Coliseum.

Wednesday, June 9
