

Happy Five Wins New York Trip

WBTV recently announced the Happy Five Quartette as winners of the Coleman Parade of Quartets, a weekly program appearing each Tuesday night, 10 p. m. for the past 27 weeks.

Two of the Happy Five Quartet are well-known in Watauga and surrounding counties. Grayson Story, baritone for the quartet, was reared in the Bamboo section near Blowing Rock, and has many relatives in Watauga County. Woodrow Singleton, bass for the group, is better known around Watauga county for his installation of weather-strips and storm-windows for the past ten years. Other members of the group are L. C. Harrell, employee of Kester-Stone Furniture, Morganton, and Ray Longenecker, shipping foreman of Drexel Furniture, of Drexel. Their accompanist, Melvin Anderson, only sixteen, is still in school.

The Quartet is not a professional group, but they attend home-comings, singing conventions, and various civic affairs.

The group plans to leave for New York the 28th of September for a stay of about five days.

Family Reunion

The "Uncle Joe" Cook family and the Edmisten family held their annual reunion Sunday, September 25, in Boone.

SOCIAL SECURITY

The national security program Social Security Administration's has paid out $5,000,000,000 to 7,000,000 men, women and children since its organization in the middle Thirties, according to a report by Commissioner Schottland of the Department of Health, Education and Welfare.

Another "first" has been added to Western North Carolina's list of superlatives. It's the "Big Eli," the world's highest Ferris wheel. Turning at an altitude of over 4,000 feet above sea level on edge of a steep mountainside at Blowing Rock, the wheel gives thrill-seeking riders a spectacular view of St. John's River Gorge and Grandfather mountain.

$600 JOYRIDE

Jacksonville, Fla.—Wayne Densberger recently took an automobile ride which cost $600. The 4-year-old boy managed to start the engine on his mother's parked car and put the automatic drive lever in forward speed. The car eased into another parked car. Then Wayne tried reverse and stepped on the gas. The car zoomed into a utility pole, snapping the pole off its base.

$8,100 LEFT ON COUNTER

Lancaster, Pa. — A briefcase, which held $8,100 in negotiable securities, matured savings bonds and signed travelers checks, lay on a snack-bar counter for about an hour before a waitress picked it up and gave it to her employers, who notified police. The owner, Frank C. Quarry, of St. Petersburg, Fla., was contacted and returned the next day to pick up the briefcase.

Letters To The Editor

Likes Editorial

I deeply appreciate your editorial which appears in your paper today, in which you congratulate me for getting around to see the people and learning of their problems.

I am working hard and trying to get over to the people of our District that my main mission as their Congressman is to be helpful to them in all matters in which my services can be utilized.

Sincerely,
Hugh Alexander

Whistlin' or Whinin'

I did enjoy your editorial on the whistler. It deserved the reprint it received. Just for the heck of it, I am attaching to it a copy of a little piece I did in April, 1954.

Cordially your,
W. Amos Abrams
Editor N. C. Education
Spring comes early in Raleigh. At times it sends its harbingers in mid-February. The temperature rises to a shirt-sleeve level; forsythia bells peek out their little yellow faces; and Capitol Square couples stroll around holding hands unglued.

On one such day recently I was hustling down Salisbury Street whistling some lilted tune which had caught my fancy on an early radio program. A business acquaintance was opening his store as I passed and he greeted me with this query:

"Are you as happy as you sound this morning, Doc?"
I didn't even know I was whistling. "I hope so," I replied, a bit wary of committing myself too definitely so early in the day.

"Come in," he said, "I want to tell you about 'Uncle Whistling David'."

He told me this story: "Uncle David" was an old man who always whistled as he pushed his clean-up cart and cleared the streets of trash and paper.

"I stopped him one morning," my friend explained, "and asked why he whistled all the time. He gave me an answer I have never forgotten. Here it is: 'Might as well whistle as whine. Do the same good. I been whistling 'long this street for many a day, and I done seen the whiners depart this world.'"
