Pills Made Easy For Children

Most medicines for use in illnesses are currently being prepared in a special form for children. Most of these are pleasant to take. A problem may arise when parents unconsciously act as though the taking of medicine were an ordeal which has to be endured by the child.

These pleasant tasting medicines must be locked away well out of reach of the child who has likely decided after the second dose that it is a form of candy. A child is much more apt to raid the medicine chest today than ten years ago. However, the results can be just as dreadful.

The fact that the family medicine chest is out of reach of the children is not enough. There should be a lock on all the children's medicine in a home. A small, inexpensive cash box and lock from the dime store will do nicely. Store it well out of sight and reach of the children.

Not quite all medicines can be made completely palatable. The taste may be disguised and the potency of the medicine unaffected by mixing a small amount of jelly or jam with the bad tasting medicine.

Another good trick is to allow the child to suck on a piece of ice for a few minutes before taking an unpleasant medicine. This may numb the tongue so that it is less noticeable.

It is best not to use fruit juice that is important in the diet to help hide the flavor of medicines. It is possible to turn a child against a necessary food this way.

Always tell a child that he is taking medicine. Talk to him about it, explaining that it is necessary to make him feel good again.

Cool Chickens Are Suggested

Every poultry raiser should take steps to help his birds stay as cool as possible in hot weather, according to Thomas B. Morris, State College extension poultry specialist.

He points out that a chicken's body temperature is 107 to 108 degrees, and they cannot perspire to help keep their bodies cool. If birds are uncomfortably hot, they won't eat as they should. When they go off feed, they don't grow or lay well, and cost the poultryman money.

There are several things that producers can do to help keep feed intake up during hot weather. Opening up the house as much as possible to permit free circulation of air, and running water over the roof with a sprinkler or fogger nozzle are two good ways.

An aluminum roof will make a building cooler. If the roof is of a non-reflective material, it should be painted with aluminum paint. Straw, shavings, or sawdust can be placed on the roof and then kept wet to make the house cooler. Insulating under the rafters also helps.

It has been estimated that deep litter makes the house seven to 10 degrees warmer, so use a thin litter not over two inches deep in the summer.

Also, on extremely hot days, place several extra water buckets, small pans, or tubs, and fountains inside the house and keep them filled with fresh, cool water. Nehru urges the West to respond to Soviet amity bids. The American Magazine is to be dropped after August.

I AM THE CHURCH

They pause in the road of life and gaze at ME. And their feelings are a mixture of longing and hesitation. What shall I say to their longing... to their hesitation?

I am the Church. I come not from man but from God. Man raised my steeple to the sky, a prayer of steel. But God opened my doors to the reverent. He lifted the Cross of His Son to beckon men. He engraved His message on the hearts of my people.

I am the Church. They long for me because I teach truth and awaken faith... because hope and courage and strength and happiness are promises I make to those who need me.

I am the Church. They hesitate as they approach me. For they say, "How can we be sure your Truth is true—your Faith believable—your Promises certain?"

I am the Church. That is why men can be sure I come not from man but from God. Men may toy with the truth, but not God. Men may break faith, but not God. Men may forget their promises, but not God.

I am the Church. I belong to you... to your family... to your nation and your world. Do you belong to me?

THE CHURCH FOR ALL... ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and spiritual support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.
