FIVE GRANDPAS—Most tots seldom claim over two "Grandpas," but 14-month-old Bobby Trivett of Vilas can account for five. Three of them are great-grandfathers. But that makes little difference. They're all "grandys." George Trivett rounded them up for a first time together picture-taking. Left to right, they are: Great-grandfather W. R. Anderson, Grandfather George Trivett, Grandfather B. M. Anderson, Great-grandfather M. P. Trivett and Great-grandfather S. B. Hayes. The oldest is W. R. Anderson at 74. The youngest is B. M. Anderson at 43. ## Chamber Of Commerce Seeks Hundred Additional Members

The Chamber of Commerce is seeking one hundred new members, according to G. C. Greene, Jr., president, who states that in order to promote a town one has to advertise, and points out that the Chamber of Commerce is the one organization created for the purpose of promoting the community.

"Every citizen interested in the growth of Boone and Appalachian College should be interested in the Chamber, since it must grow as the town grows," said Mr. Greene, who continues:

"All of the important industries that have come to Boone, starting with the tobacco warehouse, 15 years ago, have been promoted by the Chamber of Commerce. The Chamber of Commerce was a vital influence in getting a modern telephone system in Boone and bringing the International Resistance Company to Boone. This past year the Maymead Block Company, making concrete blocks, bricks and eventually several other cement products, and the Pope Construction Company, a crushed stone and construction company have come to Boone. These industries have been worth far more to Boone than ever has been spent on the Chamber of Commerce.

"The Chamber of Commerce has been a vital influence in planning with the Highway Commission including the new road to Linville which will very soon be opened for use and will put Avery county much closer to Boone than it has ever been before and should make Boone much more accessible to tourists. If Tennessee can be persuaded to finish 603 down the river to Elizabethton and Johnson City then through traffic from Detroit, Chicago, Cincinnati and other midwestern points will come to be routed through Boone.

"Every tourist court, every tourist home, every restaurant, filling station and, yes, every store in Boone profits by the promotions of the Chamber of Commerce. Ordinarily, the Chamber of Commerce in towns the size of Boone have a budget of six to ten thousand dollars a year, and pay an executive director $3,600 to $5,000 a year. But for the past seven years Boone has been able to get a fairly good executive director without any salary.

"As the town grows property values grow; certainly every property owner should have a vital interest in the growth of the Chamber of Commerce. The best way to show this interest is to join the Chamber of Commerce. Personal memberships are $10.00 a year and business memberships are $25 a year."

Autumn Dollar Day Sales Begin In City Thursday

City Agrees To Buy Horn In West Lands

Members of the city council have unanimously agreed to buy the Horn in the West property, to the end that a community center, and later maybe a museum and historical shrine may be established there.

The purchase price was given at $105,000 which is to be paid $3,500 per year for 30 years, without interest. Under the tentative plan the payments will be made from receipts from parking meters and no tax will be levied for this purpose.

Final details of the transaction which include the amphitheatre, picnic areas, etc., will be worked out at the October meeting of the city council, it is said. All citizens are invited by the board to express their approval or disapproval of the preliminary action of the board before that time.

The action of the city came after endorsement of civic and service clubs, and various individuals had expressed their approval of the move.

The tentative plans for a Daniel Boone Park should provide for both the recreational needs of the people of the area, as well as a memorial for Daniel Boone and the early settlers of the region roundabout.

The immediate need for the area is for recreational purposes and the establishment of a swimming pool, children's playground, and a community building. The latter would include a convention hall, club rooms with kitchen, teenage canteen.

Long range plans call for the establishment of a museum, a handicrafts center, botanical gardens, picnic and camp areas.

Stage Is Set For Unusual Value-Giving

All roads will literally lead to Boone during the week beginning today, as Boone Stores set the stage for their biggest Dollar Day sales event in many years.

It is understood that other stores in the county are joining in the value-giving sales event, making of the affair a county-wide, week-long savings jamboree extending from September 27 through October 3.

Merchants have been preparing for several weeks for the event, making special purchases and marking down many items in their regular stocks, so that shoppers are assured of bargains galore this week end wherever the red and yellow "Dollar Days" signs are displayed.

The Boone and Watauga County Merchants Association has urged that participating stores offer real dollar-savings values, "not just regular merchandise that is currently priced one dollar," and a check of the advertising being carried in the Democrat today would indicate that this request has been carried out.

The Dollar Days bargains are not confined to dollar items, of course, but include outstanding savings in all price ranges.

"Your dollar hasn't had it so good for years," Stanley A. Harris, Merchants Association manager said, in calling attention to the big harvest-time merchandising event.
