

High School Summer Camp Program Slated At Banner Elk

The Appalachian High School summer school-camp program will be held at Lees-McRae College, Banner Elk, this summer. The combined program will include high school credits, housing, meals, and a varied recreational program. Facilities of Lees-McRae will house both the school and the camp program. The complete program will be in operation for eight weeks, June 24 to Aug. 18.

Last summer, Appalachian High School, laboratory school for Appalachian State Teachers College, originated this experiment of combining summer high school work and camp activities. Forty-one boys and girls from six different states enrolled, and the school-camp program proved very successful.

In addition to the experiences provided high school students, the school-camp program was utilized as a teacher-education resource by Appalachian State Teachers College.

An expanded program will be available this summer for high school boys and girls. The dormitories, classrooms, gymnasium, lake, and tennis courts at Lees-McRae will be used for implementing the purposes of the summer high school camp program. Lees-McRae does not operate a summer college program.

A varied curriculum will be available for high school students. Subjects will be based on the requests of the student campers. Credits can be secured in English, mathematics, history, science, foreign language, and typing. Solid geometry and other advanced courses may be elected by students. Non-credit courses in remedial reading, personal typing and band instruction will be offered on demand.

In addition to economic studies, a varied recreational program will be provided. With the college student center serving as headquarters for social activities, educational recreation will be a prominent feature. The sports program will include softball, tennis, basketball and other gym activities. Interested students or parents should contact Dr. A. B. Crew, Principal, Appalachian High School, Boone.

Many Enrolled At Appalachian

Initial registration for Saturday classes at Appalachian State Teachers College was held last Saturday, with approximately 150 signing up for on-campus classes for the spring quarter.

Final registration for these classes will be held on Saturday, March 2. The first classes of the series will also be held on that day.

Offered mainly for teachers who are in-service, the classes may be taken for degree credit, graduate or undergraduate; or may be used toward the various certificates or for certificate renewal. They will count as residence for those who register for degree credit.

The Saturday classes will include work in the fields of social studies, education, physical education, mathematics, library science, biology, music, and psychology.

The courses are offered under the department of extension, field services, and research at Appalachian. Dr. James E. Stone is the head of this department.

According to Dr. Stone, final registration on Saturday, March 2, will be held in the college administration building.

CARD OF THANKS
We wish to express our heartfelt thanks and appreciation to our many friends and neighbors for their every act of kindness shown us during the illness and death of our dear wife and mother, Mrs. Etha Van Dyke. Also for the beautiful floral offerings and the abundance of food.—J. D. Van Dyke and family.

The present number of dairy cows on U. S. farms is at the lowest point in 20 years, but milk production is at an all time high.

A reader sends in the information that in a cemetery near Snellville, Georgia, the following epitaph was put on the tombstone of an old man by his widow: Wherever you are I wish you well. If up in heaven or down in hell. But to follow you I'll not consent. Unless I knew which way you went.

Gotham Gatherings: Laurance Rockefeller is building an elegant ocean-front hotel for the public near San Juan, Puerto Rico. . . . Gypsy Rose Lee has been named Fisherwoman of the Year. . . . Mrs. Frank Freeman recently celebrated her 100th birthday at the Plaza Hotel where she lives, by giving a party for the hotel's employees. . . . a university survey states that three-fourths of American adults have never travelled by air, half have travelled little by bus, and a third have never travelled by train. Let's go, folks!

The majority of your herd should calve in late summer and early fall, say dairy specialists at State College. Fall freshening cows produce milk when prices are generally highest and also produce heaviest during the base setting period.

CONCERT PRINCIPALS—Captain James C. Harper of Lenoir, past president of the National Bandmasters Association; Gordon A. Nash, head of the department of music at Appalachian State Teachers College; and Dr. W. H. Plemmons, president of the college, are shown on the occasion of a recent testimonial concert by the Appalachian high school band. The occasion commemorated the twentieth year of the founding of the band by Mr. Nash. Former students and friends from all parts of the state gathered to pay Mr. Nash this honor. The program was conceived and arranged by J. Perry Watson, present director of the band.

Corn Producers Meet Will Be Held Today

A corn producers meeting with the Watauga Chapter of the 100 Bushel Corn Club, and Dr. A. D. Stuart, Agronomy Extension Specialist, will be held in the County Agent's office Thursday afternoon, February 28, at 2 o'clock.

The purpose of the meeting will be to discuss the results of corn hybrid variety tests and set up new tests for 1957. It is hoped to have tests for both grain and silage yields.

One hundred bushel corn certificates will be given to the farmers who had their corn yields estimated by the committee and produced a yield of 100 bushels or more per acre.

All who are interested in producing more corn per acre are invited to attend.

Farmers' prices held at the 1955 level in 1956 after declining for four consecutive years.

Re-Enlistment Program Slated

The Navy Recruiting Office in Lenoir has issued the following announcement with reference to the re-enlistment program:

This is the second in a series of announcements made by the Navy Recruiting Service in Lenoir concerning the new extensive re-enlistment program. In addition to the previous announcement that Navy veterans discharged for less than 24 months may be re-enlisted without loss of pay grade, there are several other attractive features. For instance, after having been re-enlisted, a man would be allowed to take thirty days leave before reporting for ultimate assignments. This would give him ample time to take care of family affairs and serve out employment notices, while at the same time, he would be on the "pay-roll" earning full pay and allowances. The new program also provides that while on leave you may be able to take your pay account to any Navy activity and draw your pay and advance travel allowance. Navy officials say this is a very important incentive because men who re-enlist and elect to be transferred to the West Coast for duty and take their car would receive approximately $180.00 travel allowance in advance.

Several fringe benefits have been made to the "career" man in recent months. The new medical bill which is already in effect provides that dependents may receive treatment in a civilian hospital of their choice and the expenses will be paid by the government. Heretofore, this was only available to dependents living in an area where military hospitals were located. The Navy spokesman said that the new "shipping-over" program is the first of its kind, and that former Navy men should contact their Navy Recruiter and find out about these and many other enticing and attractive features available to the "career man" of today's modern Navy. The Navy Recruiter will be in Boone Monday and Tuesday of each week at the Post Office from 9:00 a. m. to 4:00 p. m.
