AHS Bus Driver Wins In District Roadeo

Allen Hill Greene, school bus driver at Appalachian High School, placed first in the District 27 School Bus Drivers Roadeo, held at Lower Creek School in Caldwell County Saturday. As a first place winner, Greene is eligible to participate in state finals at Chapel Hill June 12 and 13.

Janette Barlow, Kings Creek High School, Caldwell County bus driver, was first place winner in the girl's division.

First place winners were recipients of $100 scholarships.

Second place winners received cash awards of $50. They were John Biddix, Pleasant Gardens School, and Angeline Smith of Glenwood High School. Both are in McDowell County.

Joe Ware, driver education representative of the motor vehicle department, had charge of the roadeo. He said the contestants were given written tests as well as actual driving problems. The contestants were required to have excellent records in bus cleanliness, discipline, driving and other phases in safe bus driving. Contestants were all graduating seniors from their respective schools.

Others attending the event from Watauga included J. W. Harrison, chief mechanic who helps train school bus drivers; and Milton Greer, contestant from Cove Creek High School.

Charles W. Mason, State Highway Patrolman stationed in Watauga County, was one of the judges.

The winners were given recognition at a banquet Saturday night at Gamewell High School in Lenoir.

District 27 includes Watauga, Avery, Burke, Caldwell, and McDowell counties.

The scholarships were presented by R. J. Reynolds Tobacco Co. of Winston-Salem, and Hackney Brothers Body Co., of Wilson. Cash awards were given by Burke Farmers Dairy of Morganton.
