Doctor Talk

By JOHN B. REMBERT, M. D.
Many young children will start school this coming September for the first time and most parents are naturally anxious that they do well with their studies. All of these children should undergo a thorough physical examination by their family physician, particularly to pick-up any congenital abnormalities that the school authorities should be aware of.

It is also very important to determine if the child's vision is satisfactory. It is estimated that approximately 85 per cent of all learning occurs through the use of the eyes, so with defective vision the process of learning becomes quite difficult.

To guarantee that your child gets a good start in school parents should be alert to the signs that will indicate possible eye trouble, then prompt and adequate eye examination and care can be obtained. Usually one or a combination of the following signs may be present:
1. The child complains of not seeing well or says the vision is blurred.
2. The complaint will often be that the letters or lines "jump" or "run together."
3. Many children will complain with headaches, dizziness, or even nausea after using the eyes for close work.
4. In many the only complaint will be that of double vision.
5. Often the complaint is of the eyes burning, itching, or feeling scratchy.

The child may often not complain of any of the above conditions but the appearance of the child will usually indicate some serious trouble. The eyes will appear inflamed or the lids will be reddened, encrusted, or swollen. This child will also often have frequent styes and others will have eyes that cross or the pupils will appear unequal in size or shape.

The reader should be aware that the appearance of the child's eyes as mentioned can occur transiently during "colds" and other illnesses, but should any of these complaints or appearances of the eyes continue for a period of time the need for an eye examination is indicated. Should your child need an eye examination it is imperative that an eye physician be contacted. Your family physician can recommend such a Doctor of Medicine who specializes in the care of the eyes.

Question: Are Irish potatoes perishable?
Answer: Yes—The new crop potatoes on the market have a high moisture content and will spoil quickly. Potatoes are sensitive to light which results in a green colored potato. The green portion is bitter to the taste and must be cut away before cooking.

Traffic Claims 15 During 4th Holidays

Raleigh — Death didn't take a day off over the long July Fourth weekend, but it failed to live up to its advance billing in highway smash up victims.
Motor Vehicles Department officials on July 5 pegged the holiday death toll at 15—far fewer than had been expected. Upwards of 21 traffic deaths had been predicted for the 102-hour long holiday period.

The grim official tally began at 6:00 p. m. June 30 and continued night and day through midnight July 4. Ironically, the state's first victim, a woman pedestrian, was struck down precisely at the deadline hour—6:00 p. m. Reports show she was killed by a drunken driver.
From the mountains to the sea, roving highway patrolmen reported tremendous throngs of travelers on a holiday fling. Beach resorts, drenched in sunlight and near perfect weather, attracted the biggest crowd of pleasure seekers.
Heavy traffic, however, had no part in two of the week end road tragedies.
In Charlotte a child, crawling unobserved beneath a truck, was killed when the driver pulled away.
And in Asheville an elderly woman had traveled only 15 feet when she struck a fire plug, fell out of a door and was fatally injured.

Elsewhere, over the extended weekend, other motorists drove at excessive speeds and were killed, ran off the roadway and were killed and ignored stop signs and were killed.
Three other pedestrians, in addition to the Charlotte youngster, were struck and killed. One died in a train-car collision.
"The holiday death toll proved one thing," said Commissioner Edward Scheidt. "When traffic laws are ignored death moves in beside you. This July Fourth involved 15 deaths which, compared to last year, indicates in a realistic way that when laws are carefully observed and obeyed, death can be whipped at its own game."
The vehicles chief emphasized this argument by recalling that 18 persons died in traffic over the Fourth last year—a three day period compared to the four day celebration this year.

LEARNING ABOUT TRENDS IN BUILDING MATERIALS

Are you aware that North Carolina is the leading state in the nation in brick production and that there are 75 different colors of bricks on the market today?
Miss Kathleen Nelson, home economics agent in Mecklenburg county, says her club members have been learning about exterior building materials. Bricks, concrete blocks, asbestos siding, insulating board, hard board, plywood, hard woods and stone samples were shown and discussed as to their appearance, texture, colors, advantages and problems.

RETURNS LOOT

Carthage, Ill. — Sheriff Roy Copeland is looking for a thief who just can't make up his mind.
An oil station got back some stolen money carefully wrapped in a paper sack and was postmarked Carthage.
Next, a clock arrived at a funeral home, where it had been stolen, wrapped in a package from Chicago.
The sheriff is keeping a watch around town and at the local post office—but admits he is a little puzzled by it all.
