Larry Penley Joins College

LARRY H. PENLEY

Larry H. Penley, director of the News Bureau and Alumni Affairs at Wingate College, Wingate, has joined the staff at Appalachian State Teachers College in the office of foundations, public relations, and new bureau.

Dr. W. H. Flemmons, president of Appalachian, announced Penley's appointment this week. He said, "We are delighted to have Mr. Penley join our staff in the office of foundations, public relations, and news bureau. He comes to us with many valuable experiences and contacts which will be helpful to him in his new position. We are happy to welcome him and his family to our college community and to our town."

In the near future the new staff member will continue work already started on a master's degree at Appalachian.

Penley, 39, assumed his new duties September 25. Prior to coming to Appalachian, he served as director of publicity and alumni affairs at Wingate, taught journalism, supervised the publication of the college newspaper and alumni bulletin, assisted in student recruitment in South Carolina, represented the college at various statewide meetings, and served as photographer for the school.

His experience includes the editorship of the Cleveland Times, a semi-weekly newspaper, which is one of the top ten weekly papers in the state. Prior to that he was advertising manager of the Rutherford County News and assisted in all phases of their newspaper work.

Before entering the School of Journalism of the University of North Carolina, Penley served as pastor of the First Baptist Church of Startown and Mountain Grove Baptist Church for six and one-half years.

A native of Hickory, he is a graduate of the Hickory city schools, Lenoir Rhyne College, and Southern Baptist Theological Seminary. He has additional study at the University of North Carolina and Appalachian State Teachers College.

Some Observations

By W. C. GREENE

There is a disease prevalent in our community and most every place I have been which is called Sunday no-go-itis. This disease only affects church members who are too lazy to attend church services and Sunday school. It only occurs on Sunday mornings and never before nine o'clock and lasts only till noon. Some have complete recovery by eleven thirty if they want to play golf, go to an automobile race or some place of amusement. If the patient has a relapse, and they often do, it causes them to start criticizing the church and all it stands for, and before they realize it they have become a cripple for life, lose their influence for good citizenship in the community, and worst of all, cripple the thinking of their own children.

As we practice so do we become. There is always more to pity than to scorn in these unthoughtful characters. It is not my aim to criticize others but rather to get us, as Christians, to see the fields white unto harvest in our own front yards.

While vacationing in Florida, Mrs. Greene and I decided we would attend service in a different church each Sunday. We thought by so doing we might learn some things we could use in our home church that would make the worship hour more interesting and effective. Our first visit was to a Presbyterian church. We were a little early and were greeted by the pastor and a number of others. The pastor called one of the ushers and suggested he show us through the building and show us through the rooms to go to for Sunday school class. He also insisted that we tarry a few minutes after the service as he was sure the members would want to meet us and invite us to come again. This we found true. That day we heard God's message through God's man. Subject: "God's Love versus God's Wrath." He minced no words in declaring that the person who scorns God's love and rejects his mercy, dies in his sins without repentance will some day lift up his eyes in Hell, being in torment. The audience was moved, the silence was golden. God's spirit was present. Did we go back for another service? Sure we did, remembering the words of Jesus when He said, "And if I be lifted up will draw all men unto me."

We heard another great sermon on the subject "The Fourth Man at the Cross." This sermon picked me up, shook me around and set me down in front of God's mirror and I took a good look at Walt Greene and decided I was not so important as I had thought when judging myself by the standards of some bum I had known.

We also visited several other churches. In most of them it was business as usual, with an air of "don't get too close to me, stranger." One I especially remember. We had to find our Sunday school class, and no one recognized us. However, we stayed for preaching. The minister did not recognize any visitors. He repeated the Lord's Prayer, told a few fairy tales, rubbed down the audience with soothing syrup, and it seemed to me he was saying, "run along home, children. Be nice, stay out of the water until you learn to swim, come back next Sunday and I will tell you another story." As we left I stood by the ear gazing at the building, and Mrs. Greene asked what I was looking at. "Oh, I am just looking for some icicles around the eave. I'm sure there are some, it was such a cold service." "You won't see any," she said, "they were all inside. Let's go." And we did.

Dr. Roy Prince Visits Chicago

Dr. J. Roy Prince, Chairman of the Department of Foreign Languages, was in Chicago, September 29 and 30, for the meeting of the 75 NDEA Language Institute directors. The program was organized as a series of panel discussions of problems which have arisen in the past institutes and how they were solved. Each director is a member of one of the panels. The other directors listen, ask questions, or make comments. The idea is to compare notes and results so that future institutes can profit from past experiences. Appalachian has prepared and filed a new proposal for another Language Institute for the summer of 1962. It will ask for 60 high school teachers as participants, thirty in Spanish and thirty in French.
