Barron Lee Is Known As Mr. BSU Of North Carolina

By LARRY PENLEY
Mr. BSU of North Carolina is none other than Barron Lee of Appalachian State Teachers College.
A native of Lincolnton, Barron said that about all he knew about the Baptist Student Union when he arrived on the ASTC campus was what he had read in a letter from an upperclassman a few weeks before he came to college.
"My first opportunity to become a member of the group came when two BSU's invited me to church and a freshman party for Baptist Students. This was the beginning of my interest in BSU. My first Sunday at Boone Baptist Church I met a tall husky boy who has probably had more influence on my life than any other BSU'er at Appalachian. He was president, and I thought if only I could acquire enough leadership qualities and deep enough Christian faith to take a position like that, I would have reached the utmost in my personal life at college," he said.
Barron declared that the friendly atmosphere offered by the local BSU and the encouragement of the two fine directors who have served here since he became a member of BSU has helped to make the BSU his home at college and has offered him an opportunity for Christian worship, service, study, fellowship, and recreation.
The Lincolnton youth came to Appalachian as a physical education major, but as his interest in BSU increased, he soon found himself a member of the Executive Council. During his sophomore year, Barron made his commitment for full-time Christian service. He believes that the ministry the Appalachian College BSU offered him was a large factor in this decision.
Now Barron is serving his second term as president of the local BSU and is currently serving as president of the BSU of North Carolina.

He said, "The BSU was instrumental in helping me find myself as a person, a student, and most of all, a Christian. Now I can realize more and more every day what a great influence BSU has had, and I am sure, will continue to have on my life because of the opportunities and responsibilities that BSU offers me."
As a high school senior, Barron turned down scholarships at N. C. State and Pfeiffer College to enroll at Appalachian. He felt that sometime in the future he wanted to teach and that the best place in the State to get this training was at a teachers college.

student will travel with other ASTC students half way around the world to attend the sixth Baptist Youth World Conference in Beirut this summer. The 14,000-mile trip is sponsored by the BSU of Appalachian College and will be directed by Hank Greer and Marshall Hargrave of the Boone Baptist Church.
Last summer Barron was one of 260 college students selected to travel to Africa under a program entitled "Operation-Crossroads Africa." This program was conceived to give students of high leadership potential a chance to study and gain insight into the culture, folkways, religion, and family structure of the African people.
In addition to his religious and civic activities on the Boone campus, he has already started training for his chosen profession, the ministry. He attended one session of summer school at Southeastern Baptist Seminary at Wake Forest. Next fall he plans to enroll there and work toward the BD degree. He says that he is interested in pastoral training and possibly the mission field.

Tribute Paid Chief Greene
The following memorial tribute to Mr. William Dean Greene, Blowing Rock Chief of Police, who gave his life in the line of duty on Friday, January 15, 1962, is presented by the Mayor and Board of Commissioners of Blowing Rock.
"Recognizing his seven years of conscientious service as policeman in Blowing Rock, and his three years of meritorious service as Chief of Police, we speak for the citizens and friends of our community in paying tribute to Mr. William Dean Greene. In his duties as enforcer of the law and protector of our rights, he evidenced a high regard for the dignity of each citizen, a determined effort to be just in every situation, a willingness to cooperate fully with other public servants, and bravery far beyond the line of responsibility. Our community is deeply indebted to this young man who displayed untiring service in our behalf, and we all share with his family in their great loss.
"Therefore, be it resolved that the Blowing Rock Mayor and Board of Commissioners meeting in special session on January 21, 1963, approve this brief statement of a courageous life, and order these words to be incorporated in its minutes, published in our county newspaper and others, and a copy sent to Mrs. Greene and the family with the prayer that God's grace shall sustain and uphold them."
Respectfully submitted, Robert Hardin, Mayor of Blowing Rock The Board of Commissioners of Blowing Rock

Retirement Bonds
Self-employed persons setting up their own retirement plans soon will be able to buy United States Treasury bonds paying 3 3/4 per cent interest.
Except for death or disability, the bonds cannot be redeemed until the owner is 59 1/2 years old. At that point he must pay Federal income tax on the interest and the deduction he took on buying the bond.
The Treasury said they will go on sale possibly January 21 or soon after.
