MOBILE X-RAY UNIT

Saturday Last Day To Get Free Chest X-Rays In County

Saturday August 3, is the last day for a free chest X-ray in Watauga while the Mobile X-ray unit is located on King Street.

Every person in Watauga should be chest X-ray conscious, because last year witnessed a rise in new active cases of tuberculosis, according to the Public Health Service report 54,653 new cases were discovered last year. The report adds that those most likely to contract TB and other respiratory diseases are those persons coming into contact with new active cases that have not been detected.

Every employer, regardless of the number of persons employed, should encourage and urge every worker to get a chest X-ray at least once a year. When every employer learns that the National Health Survey shows that 49% of all days lost from work during a recent 12 months period were caused by respiratory diseases, it is definitely to his advantage to carry on this phase of his health program. Since tuberculosis is among the respiratory diseases every person should remember that asthma, chronic bronchitis and emphysema are also a few of the other respiratory diseases and generally announce their arrival by a chronic cough and short-

Record List Of Horses Is On Program

A record number of entries and two oldtimers are expected to be here for the 40th annual Blowing Rock Horse Show, August 1-4 at Broynhill Park.

Phin Horton Jr. of Winston-Salem and Mrs. Margie Lundean of Blowing Rock have been to all 39 previous shows and will be on hand next weekend for what has been called the biggest event of the season—and the longest consecutive horse show in the United States.

Mrs. S. C. Gilbert, who is handling entries and box reservations, said Wednesday that 200 entries have already been received. All reserve boxes for the show and all permanent stalls have been reserved.

"There will be far more saddle horses than before," Mrs. Gilbert said. "I have already received over double the number of last year." She attributed the increase to the new warm-up ring and separate schedule for hunter and saddle classes.

Hunter classes will be held on the outside course, which has been reconstructed for this year's showing, while gaited-horse, walking-horse and other classes are being held in the ring.

There will be seven performances—at 10 a. m. and 2 p. m. on Thursday, Friday and Saturday and at 2 p.m. on Sunday. Twelve divisions, two more than last year, and 64 classes will be exhibited in the 4-day competition.

A new class for working pony hunters has been added to the Saturday afternoon schedule at the request of exhibitors. There will also be a Working Pony Hunter Championship and Reserve Championship.

The equitation division has been reorganized to include a Henry Bergh class (equitation over fences). First place prizes of $150 will be awarded in five divisions: five-gaited, three-gaited, walking horse, working hunter and open jumper. Other prizes will be trophies and ribbons.

Show manager is Mrs. William T. Garde. Judges are: The Honorable William Stirling Jr. of Verona, Pa., in the hunter and jumper divisions; The Honorable Miss Nola Minton of Barbourville, Ky., in the saddle horse division; and The Honorable Lee Massie of Atlanta, Ga., in the walking horse divisions.

Social events for exhibitors will include a square dance on August 1, a buffet supper on August 2 and a breakfast and horse show ball at Mayview Manor on August 3.

Kids Get Ready For Big Show

By RACHEL RIVERS

One brave little horsewoman from Camp Yonahlossee took three spills while guiding her horse over the hunt course Saturday afternoon at the Linville Horse Show — and returned, smiling, to the ring, with nothing more serious than dusty breeches and a somewhat injured pride.

This is where kids and horses alike can learn about horse showing and get the kinks out of their legs before the big Blowing Rock Horse Show being held this weekend.

In addition to riders from Camp Yonahlossee, representatives from Camp Yonahonoka, Camp Broadstone, Appalachian Summer Camp and the Bill Bolick Stables of Blowing Rock were on hand to pick up the blue, red, yellow and white ribbons.

Two hundred spectators paid a quarter apiece to see the kids win and lose and have their fun at the ring and modify-
