Nat'l Teachers Exams To Be Given At ASTC Mar. 19

The National Teachers Examination will be given at Appalachian State Teachers College on March 19, according to an announcement by Dr. William A. Floyd, director of testing at Appalachian.

College seniors preparing to teach and teachers applying for positions in school systems which encourage or require applicants to submit their scores on the National Teachers Examination along with their other credentials are eligible to take the tests.

Deadline for registration for the NTE is Feb. 18, according to Dr. Floyd. Applications for the examination must reach the Educational Testing Service, Princeton, New Jersey, by February 18.

At the test session on March 19, candidates may take the Common Examination, which includes tests in professional education and general education, and one of 13 teaching area examinations designed to evaluate understanding of subject matter and methods applicable to the teaching area.

Bulletins of information describing registration procedures and registration forms may be obtained from Dr. Floyd in 213 Duncan Hall or directly from the National Teachers Examination, Educational Testing Service, Box 911, Princeton, New Jersey.

Each candidate will receive an admission ticket advising of the exact location of the center to which he should report. Candidates for the Commons Examination will report at 8:30 a. m. on March 19 and will continue, after lunch until approximately 3:10 p. m. The teaching area examination will begin at 3:15 p. m. and should finish at approximately 5:20 p. m.

Fredia Kay Miller Elected Business Girl Of The Month

Fredia Kay Miller, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Stokes Miller, was elected Business Girl of the Month for January. She and her mother attended the January meeting of the Boone Business and Professional Women's Club.

Kay attended Blowing Rock High School for three years. Her school activities include student council, National Beta Club, annual staff, glee club and basketball. After graduation she hopes to attend the University of North Carolina at Greensboro to major in chemistry.

State Home Economists Want To Aid Low Income Families

"Home economists in North Carolina have a unique responsibility to assist low-income families," according to Mrs. Lillian H. Danner, Watauga County Home Economics Extension Agent.

Mrs. Danner was among 200 home economists in the state who attended a workshop, "Working With Low-Income Families", Feb. 10-12 in Raleigh, sponsored by the North Carolina Home Economics Association.

"We attended the workshop to learn, to be inspired to greater effort and to become more personally involved. In workshop sessions we saw how home economists already are assisting low-income families through such areas as teaching, housing, health and welfare.

"As a result of the workshop we are now able to go back to our own area of the state to give other home economists the information we received at the workshop and to develop more effective programs to meet the needs of low-income families," Mrs. Danner said.

"As a result of the workshop, we in this area plan to take this action: Have a meeting of all home economists in Watauga County and Area Three for the purpose of working together to attract the problems of low-income families in this area," she concluded.

The NCHEA workshop was a follow-up to a national workshop held by the American Home Economics Association in March, 1965, at the University of Chicago.

Disposition Vs Hay Fever

Salt Lake City — That bad child in your neighborhood may need a hay fever cure more than discipline. Dr. C. Collins Williams, director of the Allergy Clinic Hospital for sick children suffering from hay fever, told a postgraduate group that children suffering from hay fever are tired, irritable and hard to get along with.
